the original. The verses are used as sub-titles.

"A Revolution in the Bachelor Club." American. A farce dealing with a bachelor and a beautiful woman. The result of the mixup is a revolution in the club which surpasses words.

"Coals of Fire." Selig. A strong frontier drama. This story treats of two men, one a big, brawny fighting man, who wins a girl from the other weaker in vitality, but superior in his intellectual mentality. In future years this disappointed man becomes governor of Missouri and saves his old sweetheart's husband from paying the death penalty after killing a man.

The Cozy.

For Monday and Tuesday a truly wonderful program full of the most spectacular scenes imaginable. It's a feature show.

"The Mask of Red Death." Ambrosio. From the famous story of Edgar Allan Poe. The king and court fled to a distant castle to escape the plague and defied death. A shadowy spectre, carrying his scythe, stalked into the castle. A poor woman and her two little children were the only ones spared.

"The Emperor's Debt." Torlor. A spectacular military drama, showing the battle of Barsur-Anbe, where Napoleon's forces fought the allied armies. Powder exploded in front of Napoleon, but Fraufau saved him. Returning home Napoleon found Fraufau about to lose his home. The emperor stopped the sale and made Faufau an officer. "The Wolf." Imp. A splendid child drama, with several scenes laid in a fresh air farm. Hundreds of pinched, wan children from the cities are shown. A homeless boy finds a home with his grandmother, who had disowned the boy's mother on account of a forbidden marriage.

"Mrs. Richard Dare. Solax. A laugh raising comedy. Dick, having told uncle he was married in order to get money received word that Uncle would come to see him and wife. Dick had to get a wife by 4 o'clock, and none in sight.

"The Hornet." Ambrosio. The kind of comedy that makes you laugh out loud.

Attention Knights.

Damon Lodge No. 4, K. of P. will meet in regular session this evening. A full attendance desired. J. A. BEST, C. C. R. W. FLETCHER, K. R. S.

COLD KILLS PRIZE SNAKE.

Greeley, Colo. — Rheumatism brought on by dampness in the cellar where he was quartered, caused the death of Tommy, the brightest pet constrictor of the snake colony of the museum of the State Teachers' college.

Tommy was a native of the tropics and when the heating plant of the college failed to keep the basement floor warm his life was the penalty.

This snake was captured by L. A. Adams, of Lincoln, Neb., from a bunch of bananas. He was a high brow among snakes and knew his own name. He would come when called and would eat from Adam's hand. His successor will be a tropical snake, which arrived today. It was also found in a bunch of bananas.
