SETTLERS WANT AN EARLY DECISION ABOUT EXTENSION

was taken up, but left over until a later date.
Mr. Hinkle stated that he was not against the extension of the Umatilla project, that he owned land which would most probably be under the site of the reservoir, but that if he and the government could not get together on a price for this land certainly a jury would be able to settle the price. He stated also that the main contention of the Echo and Stanfield people was on account of the drainage. He very emphatically stated several times that he wanted it understood that he was not against the western extension but that he would like to have the government officials make up their minds as to whether the project would go through or not, that as it now stood it is impossible to sell any of their lands for the reason that no one will buy when there is a possibility of the land being condemned by the government for a reservoir site. Mr. Hinkle is one of the leading men of Hermiston, being an attorney here and at the time the engineers were here he was as great a booster for the extension as any.

The Resolution.

The following resolution has been drafted and sent to the president: Hermiston, Ore., Dec. 4, 1911. To Wm. H. Taft, President of the United States, Greeting:

We, the undersigned committee of land holders residing within the boundaries of the proposed reservoir site of the west extension of the Umatilla project, respectfully represent:

That the settlers occupying lands within said proposed reservoir do unanimously protest against further delay of ultimate decision upon the building or rejection of said project and urge as some of the many reasons for such protest the following:

The reclamation service of the U. S. by reason of surveys, the withdrawal of lands from entry and claims for water from the Umatilla river have kept settlers in this particular locality in a state of suspense and uncertainty for the past seven years, pending investigation of the practicability of this particular project.

That the injustice to these settlers is manifest in the doubts which they naturally entertain as to the expediency of making further improvements upon their lands, in the way of buildings, irrigation and drain ditches, leveling additional lands for cultivation, uncertain terms of leases and crop arrangements, and unsettled state of mind as to plans for the development of their farms.

That the settlers within this proposed reservoir site have sufficient water rights from the Umatilla river, all established prior to the passage of the reclamation act, and now all under contest by the reclamation service upon one ground or another pending final adjudication of rights upon the river, which contests are believed to be for the purpose of trimming existing rights to establish a surplus necessary to fill the proposed reservoir, and thereby imposing upon these people expensive litigation and further uncertainty as to their titles and their rights.

That the continued agitation of this extension by its partisans calls forth exaggerated statements which tend to depreciate the value of the lands involved to the irreparable injury of the owners thereof.

That these settlers, without protest or complaint, patiently awaited the result of a thorough investigation by the reclamation service and final recommendations by the board of army engineers and had a reasonable right to expect the report of that board would settle the question.

That about one year has elapsed since the report of that board, turning down the west extension, and we are reliably informed through N. Teal of Portland, Oregon, quoting the statement of the secretary of the interior to the effect that all available moneys have been appropriated to other projects, including the irrigation bond issue and the anticipated receipts of the reclamation fund for a number of years to come.

That notwithstanding the rejection of the proposed extension by the board of army engineers and subsequent appropriation to other projects of all available funds, the agitation for the west extension has now been renewed with increased vigor and a fair prospect exists for continued agitation extending over another long period of time to the great detriment of these settlers.

Therefore, we respectfully request an immediate decision as to whether or not this project is to be built.

Respectfully submitted,
C. H. GARDINER,
PETER SHERIDAN,
J. T. HINKLE,
Committee.
