

Only 13 More Shopping Days Til Christmas

The Ever Acceptable

Wives, mothers and sisters like Everwear for more than one reason. It's a good, common-sense gift for daily use. It speeds the departing darning basket. It means whole hose for the next six months at least, often for much longer than the guarantee insures.

For men, women and children, in handsome Christmas boxes, $1.50—$2.00—$3.00 the box—guaranteed.

Our Christmas lines this year offer more opportunities to the Xmas shopper than ever before. The markets of the whole country have contributed their different specialties and novelties to our great stock until we are able to display for your choosing the greatest holiday stock ever brought to Pendleton. Our merchandise is all good standard goods; goods that we can and will stand back of in every way—goods with a name and a reputation—when you buy from us you can have the unqualified satisfaction of KNOWING that whatever you buy is RIGHT in price, quality, style and durability. We don't deal in "joblots" or "seconds" and we'll gladly compare prices with any catalogue house or local store.

Orpheum.

Excellent program for Friday and Saturday:
1. "A Victim of Circumstances." Biograph. It is hubby's birthday and the wife interviews a jeweler. Her action arouses suspicion and the husband follows her and witnesses the meeting between her and the clerk. All would have been well, but the clerk encounters the husband.

2. "Their First Divorce Case." Biograph. The famous Biograph sleuths nearly cleared up another case. Mrs. Grimm catches Mr. Grimm strolling in the park with a chorus girl. The sleuths follow them, thinking the wife is the woman mentioned.

3. "Somebody's Mother." Lubin. Jimmie, the "newsie" plays an important part in this pretty story.

4. "As Fate Decreed." Pathe. A young monk is unhappy under the restrictions of the monastery and he escapes. He marries, enters business and is remarkably successful at first. Reverses come. His child dies, his business fails, his health is broken.

5. "A Painter's Idyle." Selig. A unique picture showing an artist at work in that wonderful, Yosemite valley. In making this picture an attempt has been made to show the methods of the painter at his work.

The Pastime.

The home of good pictures. Friday's change of program:

"The Long Road." (Biograph) This picture is full of beauty from first to last. The first scene shows a little quarrel of two lovers. Pride in both widens the breach till the man marries another and the girl enters a convent. Especially fine is the scene in the church during the wedding ceremony.

"Get Rich Quick and Famous." (Es-sany). Hall and Ford are ingenious tramps. In order to make good their getaway from the workhouse, they join in a marathon race and win the first prize.

"The Cure of John Douglas" (Lubin). Drink was ruining a most promising young man in John Douglas. His sweetheart finally married his rival, Henry Briston. Briston and some friends concocted a scheme to cure Douglas. He was led to believe that he had killed his best friend during a drunken brawl.

"Old Indian Days." (American Pathe). This film gives an almost perfect portrayal of life among the Indians before the pale faces took possession and throughout the film there is a charming love story.

FAMILY OF FIVE LIVE ON 6 CENTS A DAY

Man With Four Children Finds Primitive Content in Hut Near London.

London—Within half a dozen miles of the wealthiest city in the world there has dwelt during the last two months a man who lived the simple life on six cents a day. His home was on the Essex marshes, half a mile to the east of Custom House Station. He pitched his tent or, rather, a hut, of the most primitive description—it was constructed of hoops and sacks and rags—beside a stream which meanders through the pasturage of a tolerant dairy farmer. A few yards from this hut was another of even more primitive construction. It was about four feet high, four feet broad and six feet long. In it four children lived, sleeping at night with nothing between them and mother earth save old sacks.

The man himself lived in comparative luxury, reveling in the warm glow of fires of coke gathered by the children from refuse heaps on the marshes.

Restless and taxproof this man of the marshes found life much less of a burden than the millionaire, his method being to live on the simplest of fare. This was supplied to him mainly by the children. These children plied up the revenues of the family from coke picked up and sold.

Out of the return for the work of their busy little hands on the rubbish heaps the man was able to buy the following daily list of delicacies:

Eggs, one cent; milk, one cent; butter, one cent; oatmeal, one cent; sugar, one cent; tea dust, salt, one cent; total, six cents.

MAY EAT TURKEYS MADE BY MACHINE

Agricultural Department Tells How to Raise Incubator Thanksgiving Fowl.

Washington—Just think of having to eat Thanksgiving or Christmas turkey that has been machine made.

This is a thought that would doubtless have given our ancestors conniptions.

It appears, however, the department of agriculture is encouraging this sort of thing. It is out with a treatise in one of its recent bulletins which tells all about the hatching and rearing of turkeys by artificial means.

Part of this treatise is headed "setting the machine."

Study of it shows that it bears close relation to the old fashioned process of setting a hen.

Careful rules are given for the handling of the incubator the placing of the eggs therein, the heating, turning and testing of the eggs and the care of the young turkeys after they are hatched.

The department of agriculture declares that notwithstanding the popularity of the turkey for human consumption and its consequent high price the turkey producers have not been able to supply the demands of the market, due to the fact that turkeys are more subject to disease than chickens.

Nevertheless the department says that turkey raising returns a good profit to the producer when properly handled, and it seeks to point out how the popular American bird can be machine raised to advantage.

Unfortunately, the department's advice has come too late to help out the public for the year 1911.

Large 9 room house and 3 lots fair barn, splendid location on north side; this property is a bargain; must be sold at once. Teutsch & Bickers.

TRYING TO SAVE "JIM" GOT FRIEND IN JAIL

Man With "Holdover" Calls Fire Department and Dives Into Coal Hole.

New York—With his head ringing a little and a morning after taste in his throat, Frank Jandrew, who, when he decides to go home has a key to 2249 Broadway, set solemnly forth down Amsterdam avenue today. As he reached Eighty-third street he was observed to stop and hold one hand over his ear, as though listening.

"All right, Jim," he cried. "I'll save you."

Jandrew first rushed into the doorway of an apartment, then out again and into another doorway, then out and in again, like a well-trained terrier trying to locate his hidden master by his whistle.

Jandrew's third exit from a doorway brought him in front of an open coal hole in the pavement. Leaning over the hole he shouted down:

"All right, Jim, I'll get you out in a minute."

Stopping only to turn in an alarm from the corner fire box, Jandrew disappeared head first into the coal hole.

The report that a man had been smothered in red hot coals and his friend had gone down into the cellar to save him brought hundreds. Then came the fire apparatus and police reserves.

The fire fighters were in their most peevish mood when Jandrew reappeared through the coal hole and announced that Jim wasn't down there after all.

"Who 'hell is Jim?" asked Policeman Harms.

"Jim's my best fren," explained Jandrew. "I heard 'im callin' me, an' went into the hole after him. Send the fire boys away. Don't need 'em after all."

"Did you turn in that alarm?" asked Harms.

"Betcher life," said Jandrew warmly. "Do anything for Jim."

A little later Jandrew was held in $200 bail to tell a jury at special sessions all about Jim.

CRIPPLE WALKS 60 MILES.

One-Legged Man on Crutches Hobles in Quest of $2000 Judgment.

Lincoln, Neb.—Unable to understand why a verdict of $2000 he had obtained against the Omaha Street Railway company was not paid, Fortunato Zancanella, a one-legged laborer, hobbled sixty miles from Omaha to Lincoln on his crutches to find out.

He took six days to make the journey, subsisting on the charity of farmers and sleeping at nights in stables.

He said he had been told the case was in the supreme court and that the supreme court was in Lincoln. Having no work or money and no immediate prospect of either, he had walked down to ask the court man why he couldn't have his money.

Zancanella was run down two years ago by a car and lost a leg. He got judgment last January. In June the company's appeal was filed and, because of a congested docket it will be eighteen months before a decision will be rendered.

SAVED BY HAM AND EGGS.

Woman Changed Her Mind Food.

Iona, Mich.—A plate of ham and eggs saved the life of Mrs. Mary Bptler, an aged inmate of the Iona poor farm. A week ago she became despondent and decided to starve herself to death.

Day after day she steadfastly refused food and drink. The officials tried different plans without success, and then in desperation experimented with the "ham and eggs" method.

The old woman took a look at the tempting food and decided to live a while longer.

GERVAIS MAN TRIES TO SHOOT HIMSELF

Gervais, Or.—With suicidal intent, F. Choquette, 43 years old, married and having one child, aged 16, shot himself at home in Gervais as he lay on a couch. The ball entered the right temple, ranged upward, grazing the brain and lodged in the wall. He will live. He was under the influence of liquor. Choquette was employed in a livery barn here.

TIMELY ADVICE.

A Protection Against Bronchitis and Pneumonia.

Into a pitcher put a tablespoonful of butter, one-quarter cup light brown sugar, an ounce of fresh, whole allspice and a pint of Duffy's pure malt whiskey. Let it stand for half an hour, then add one half pint boiling water. Let it stand again for a short while, and before serving stir well and add the juice of one orange and one lemon. This is to be served in a wine glass.

It is very wholesome, appetizing and strengthening, especially for fever and chills in stormy and blustering weather. Prompt action on such occasions will ward off many a serious and oft times fatal attack of bronchitis and pneumonia, as well as irritating coughs and colds.
