

BODY OF MERCHANT FOUND; GUN IN HAND

Glendale, Dec. 8.—The body of Jos. L. Winchell, a partner in Snyder & Co.'s department store, and one of Glendale's most prominent citizens, was found in the woods back of the city yesterday with a gunshot wound in the head. Mr. Winchell had been missing since Wednesday morning and parties of citizens had been searching for him since last evening.

Yesterday school was dismissed and the school children joined in the search. The body was found in a sitting posture against a stump with an automatic revolver grasped in the hand. No reason for suicide is known here and death was possibly accidental.

Mr. Winchell is a brother of B. L. Winchell, president of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad company. He leaves a widow and two sons.

SEEMINGLY SUICIDE PACT AMONG FLOCK OF TURKEYS

Chico, Cal.—Mrs. Fannie Boydston, residing on the Bell ranch, four miles north of Chico, on the Nord road, is the owner of a band of 1100 turkeys that seem to have suicidal inclinations. Already thirty-six of the birds have come to a tragic end by permitting passing trains to run over them. Watch is being kept upon the birds for fear that they will all display signs of self-destructing inclination.

The Southern Pacific tracks run through the Bell ranch. Mrs. Boydston and her neighbors have witnessed a number of turkeys fly straight at the sides of a passing train. The blow stuns the bird and in falling it is drawn under the train by the suction and, of course, killed.

The voluntary death of the birds is the talk of the neighborhood. Most bands of turkeys are scary and stay away from moving objects. Last week eight of the birds lost their lives in this manner while the owner of the fowls and her friends witnessed the unheard-of action of the birds.

What particular fascination a moving train seems to have for the turkeys is a matter which is causing some serious thinking among those who have had time to discuss matters educational.

INDIANS WOULD FORGET.

Want Their Young Braves to Drop Aboriginal Tongue.

Carlisle, Pa.—The first Indian powwow for years at the Indian school here was conducted during the last few days, when four dusky giant Cheyenne chiefs from the Tongue River reservation, in Montana, visited the children of the tribe at the government's educational institution, and later showed the marks of civilization influence when they quietly slipped into a drug store and silently sipped chocolate milkshakes.

At the powwow the four chiefs, together with the thirty Cheyenne students at the school, considered the advantages the white men are giving them. Through an interpreter they talked to Superintendent Friedman and declared themselves more than ever converted to education and that they would go back to the school.

These same old fellows have been strong opponents in the past of the white man's education. More amazing than anything else, the four chiefs agreed that it would be best that their children should speak no Indian language; that they should forget the past and seek citizenship in the future.

The Cheyenne chiefs, who stopped off on their return to Montana from Washington, were Charles Nonyak, Charles Toe Ball, William Bighead and Little Son. Accompanying them was an interpreter and Red Water, a former Indian school student and member of the football eleven of 1898 but who is now a prosperous farmer. Chief Little Son was one of General Nelson A. Miles' scouts during the Indian uprising at the time of the Custer massacre.

Girl Is Champion Corn Picker.

Marshalltown, Ia.—One hundred bushels of corn a day is the picking average of Miss Julia Hella, daughter of Edward Hella, a St. Anthony farmer, and beats any record for a season ever held of in this county. Miss Hella's father was unable to get enough help, so she volunteered to enter the field, and has done as much as any man, and more than many men.

"HE" WAS A FINE TEACHER.

EVERYBODY LIKED "HIM" Then Came a Day When "He" Was a Woman—Village Now All Agog. Holly Colo.—It has just become known here that a sensation was created in the little out of the way town of Boston, in Baca county, recently, and residents of that suburb are endeavoring to keep the matter under their hats.

About four months ago a dapper appearing young man was employed to teach the village school. Of splendid address and refined and winning manners, the young man soon had friends galore. Aside from being a splendid teacher, he was proficient

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Wm. D. Galt

as an entertainer, astonishing the natives with feats of legerdemain, hypnotism and black art until he had the entire village "going."

But in a sudden burst of confidence the other day he revealed the fact that "he" was a woman and Boston has been all agog with excitement ever since.

The school board is on the search for a new teacher, declaring that there's no use taking a woman just can't keep a secret.

RAILWAY WATCHMAN IS KILLED BY MOVING CARS

Roseburg, Or.—J. M. Stephensen, aged 61, flagman for the Southern Pacific in this city, was run over in the yards and died four hours later. Watching an incoming freight with his back turned toward approaching cars on another track, he was knocked down, both legs were crushed and he was injured internally. The physician, hastening to Stephensen in an auto, struck and killed a dog, the impact whirling the machine onto the sidewalk, smashing a huge plate glass store window.

Saved His Wife's Life.

"My wife would have been in her grave today," writes O. H. Brown of Muscadine, Ala. "if it had not been for Dr. King's New Discovery. She was down in her bed, not able to get up without help. She had a severe bronchial trouble and a dreadful cough. I got a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and she soon began to mend, and was well in a short time."
