DELIGHTFUL ENTERTAINMENT.
 A Fair Sized Audience Enjoyed Miss Lingenfelter and Mrs. Rose.
 A fair sized audience greeted Miss Mary Lingenfelter in her musical program last night at the Christian church. She had a very heavy evening's work, but her voice never failed her for a moment—it was as clear as a bell and under perfect control throughout the entire program. The songs were of a very high order, nothing light about them. One pleasing thing about her work is that she is at all times perfectly natural. There is none of this over-wrought facial expression, nor trilling of the voice. She sings from the heart and it is clear to all that affectation is no part of her work.
 Miss Lingenfelter has been aiding Evangelist Holmes in his closing week in the revival at the Christian church, and returned to her home in Seattle today. She is very popular among the lovers of good music and there and is to give a recital in her home church before the holidays.
 Mrs. Rose sustained her already enviable reputation as a reader last night. She gave three selections and responded to a hearty encore. She is somewhat new to the Pendleton people, but is sure to become a favorite with them.
 Mrs. Crockett and Miss Nellie Anibal accompanied Miss Lingenfelter in a splendid way, and all in attendance were delighted with the evening's entertainment.

10 YEARS FOR INNOCENT MAN.
 Columbus, O.—Declaring that a miscarriage of justice had occurred in the case of George Frick, life prisoner in the Ohio penitentiary, the state board of pardons recommended today that he be granted a full pardon "since he has already served more than ten years for a crime which he did not commit."
 Three of those convicted with Frick have died inside the penitentiary and another still is an inmate there.
 William Johnson was killed in his home near Carey, O., by five masked men and Mrs. Johnson and her four children were bound with ropes. The five convictions followed.

NO LAW IN SPAIN AGAINST SWINDLE

POSTAL INSPECTOR SAYS HE CAN MERELY WARN
 Councilman Dyer Receives Reply to Letter in Which He Sought to Have Swindlers Brought to Justice.
 There is no law in Spain to forbid swindlers from robbing gullible Americans if they can do so and therefore it is impossible to prosecute the parties who write such romantic letters to alleged relatives in this country. Information to this effect is contained in the following letter Councilman John Dyer has received from a postal official at Spokane:
 Spokane, Wash., Dec. 11, Mr. John W. Dyer, Pendleton, Ore.
 Sir: I return herewith your communication of the 8th inst enclosing letter from a professed relative in Spain. This is an old confidence game known as the Spanish swindle. No action is possible in view of the fact there is no law in Spain covering such offenses as this. Consequently no action can be taken by the postal authorities only to advise.
 Respectfully,
 THOMAS J. FLANIN, Acting Inspector in Charge.
 Apparently the letter from Spokane explains why Spanish grafters have been so persistent in writing to Americans in hopes of inducing them to send money to defray expenses of distant relatives who are confined in jails.

GIRL IS SHOT THRICE BY ANGRY MINISTER
 Brother-in-Law Inflicts Probably Fatal Wounds, Then Shoots Himself.
 Tulare.—Ellanita Flagler, a beautiful girl of 16 years lies near death at her home in this city, with three bullet wounds in her body.
 In the county hospital at Visalia is Henry Hood, a retired preacher. He has a bullet wound in his chest, his reason has fled and he is being heavily guarded by the police because of the fear of mob violence.
 As the Flagler girl, whose family is of social prominence here, was leaving her home with a girl friend, Bella Titherington, Hood, who is the husband of Miss Flagler's sister, fired four pistol shots at her and then attempted to end his life.
 The bullet passed through his body and lodged near his spine. In this desperate condition the man fled the scene of the shooting and made his way through the darkness to the outskirts of town.
 Danger of Vengeance.
 An hour later one of the citizen possess that had been hastily formed to prevent Hood's escape came upon the fugitive two miles away from the Flagler home. He was weak from loss of blood and his mind appeared to be clouded. He surrendered without resistance and was brought back to Tulare.
