A Prince Who Was Squelched

Commenting upon the criticisms made of Governor West by Louis W. Hill, the Journal has the following sarcastic editorial:

"It remained for our own and only Louis W. Hill to discover and expose the pernicious work of Governor West in the east.

"Ex-Governor Brady of Idaho, who is in charge of the governors' special, has also found a discovery. He, and the secretary of the touring governors, join in a telegram of congratulation to the people of Oregon on what they call the excellent work of Governor West in behalf of the state which he went east to represent.

"But if our Louis says a thing is so, it must be so, for isn't he the son of his father? As one of his admirers says, 'Isn't Mr. Hill entitled to an opinion about the proper methods to be employed by the governors in advertising the western state?'"

"Why, bless his heart, of course he is. He is entitled to a million opinions, and as James J. Hill's son, he is going to express them, too or bust a hame string. Indeed, hasn't he declared a sort of suzerainty over Oregon, and annexed us as his personal bailiwick, Governor West and all?"

"Of course, this Missouriized public reserves the right to reject any and all of our Louis' higher criticism. It has notions of its own and with reference to the Hill charge that Governor West is 'playing politics,' will want to know how many votes he could drum up in Ohio or New York?"

"Perish the thought, he may be campaigning for the re-election of Bourne."

In time Louis W. Hill may learn that because his father has railroads in Oregon the son and heir apparent has no specially engraved divine license to dictate the political views of the people of this state. He may also learn in time that the interests of the political-social contingent to which he belongs,—to-wit, the aristocracy of Big Business may best be served through strict silence on his part.

Get In Line, Then Act

While the subject of upper river water rights is being discussed there is one point that deserves more attention than has been given it. It is the fact that the government's filing upon waters for use upon the Extension does not give the government the right to transfer its right or any part of its right to others. The government merely has a right to use the waters appropriated for the purposes for which they are appropriated. If any of the water is relinquished it goes to the next succeeding applicant and the distribution is made by the state water board, not by the federal government. Upper river people who desire to secure more water should first get their filings on record and make sure they are properly in line, then ask the government to loosen up on its hold. To seek to get the government to relax any of the waters before upper river filings are made would be the height of folly. Upper river people should get straight upon this point and then act accordingly.

GIRL IS PAINTING SMOKESTACK 200 FT. HIGH

Louisville Boasts of Only Woman in United States That Performs Such Feat.

Louisville—Miss Mary Pixley, a young Louisville girl, is engaged in the work of painting the 200-foot smokestack of the Kentucky Electric company at the new plant on Washington street, between Second and Third.

Swinging from the huge structure on the small seat that is used as the base of operations by painters, Miss Pixley attacked the work that ordinarily requires a man of the strongest nerve with as little concern as though she were dusting the piano.

Miss Pixley is the only woman in the United States who is an adept at the line of work she pursues. The work she has done mostly is to paint high smokestacks and towers.

IS SKY-TUMBLING PAINLESS?

Scientist Believes, from Experience, Fall from Airship Hurts Little.

New York.—It is difficult to imagine a more horrible accident than falling with an airship, yet, in the opinion of a German psychologist, Fritz Kahn, death resulting from such a fall is not exceptionally painful. He argues that it is likely to be met in a state of indifference, or even an agreeable half-conscious condition of mind. He witnessed the fall of Heim a year ago—a fall which lasted a number of seconds, as the airship fluttered to and fro like a piece of paper before the final descent. The distance was about eighty yards. On recovering consciousness after several days Heim remembered only the ascent; everything between that and his awakening in the hospital was a blank. Mountain climbers have had similar experiences. A French geologist who fell over a precipice attests that he swooned and never knew what happened. Whymper, on the other hand, remained fully conscious when he fell on the Matterhorn, bounding from rock to rock, he calculated the intervals between the shocks, wondered how long he could stand it, felt no pain and came to the conclusion that death through a fall must be one of the least disagreeable ways of ending one's life. A boy of 8 who fell twenty-two yards declared that his only thought was that he might lose his new pocket knife. At a meeting of the Swiss Alpine club the geologist, Heim, described his feelings during a fall. His first thought was that now he would be unable to deliver the address he had promised; then he thought of the effect on his family of the news of his death; he wanted to take off his spectacles to save his eyes from being damaged by broken glass; various scenes from his past life flitted across his consciousness in rapid succession. There was no fear, no pain, but rather an agreeable state of mind like that which is brought on by soft music.

JANITOR'S WIFE SUES TEACHERS

Los Angeles, Cal.—Suit alleging alienation of the affections of her husband, Francis E. Paregoy, brought by Mrs. Mollie Paregoy of 941 Cottage place, against Miss Mary and Miss ington Hall, a fashionable girls' school, where Paregoy is the janitor, came up today and was put over until February 21. Mrs. Paregoy asks $10,000 damages. The wife alleges that her husband has been kept from her for over a year.

The Misses Housel are well known in the east, having lived for several years both in New York and Chicago. Graduates of their school reside in various cities east of here.

Yet many people will think that the millions spent on the Indian Durbar would be better employed helping the half starved population.

OWNERS OF DESTROYED FACTORY MAY BE SET FREE

New York, Dec. 16.—It is freely predicted today that the manslaughter cases against Max Blanck and Isaac Harris, owners of the Triangle shirtwaist factory where 150 died in a fire, won't ever reach the jury. The court today ruled that the state must prove that the bolted door, produced before the jury, was the same one through which the girls unsuccessfully sought safety from the flames.
