AT THE OREGON THEATRE

The Barrier Company.

In dramatizing Rex Beach's famous book, "The Barrier," Eugene Presbrey scored another home-run.

In fact, competent critics pronounced "The Barrier" the best dramatization ever made because, in unraveling the story Eugene Presbrey has lost none of the gripping episodes of the novel.

Every situation and climax is immense, and the dialogue is written to meet the requirements of theatergoers who prefer realism to extravagance. In other words, "The Barrier" has been dramatized to please, without losing one thread of the beautiful story.

"The Barrier" will appear at the Oregon Theater on Thursday, January 4.

AT THE PICTURE SHOWS

Orpheum.

Special release in 2 reels for Tuesday's change:

"In the Grip of Alcohol." C. G. P. C. drama, 2 reels. A great big gripping, gripping drama showing the degradation to which a man may fall and drag his family when once drink has him in its clutches. The most powerful sermon against the liquor habit ever put out. Two reels.

"In the Shadow of the Pines." Selig. A true tale of undying love and perfect faith. Laid in the Canadian backwoods.

"Among the Japanese." Selig. These scenes show a good many Japanese characteristics. They were taken mostly in the street and are filled with interesting faces, some unconsciously buying or selling.

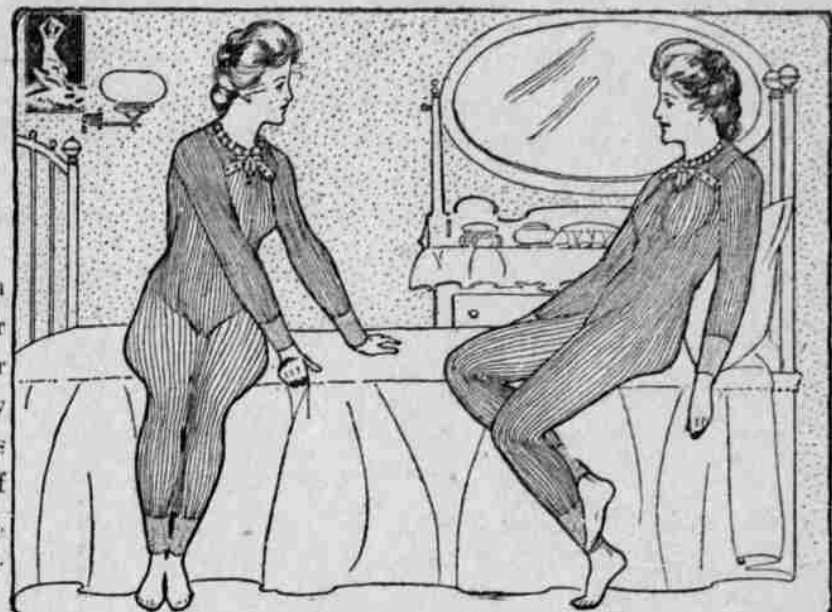

"Too Much Turkey." Essanay. Amy has her fortune told and is advised she is to marry a Turkish Pasha, and breaks her engagement with Jack, who frightens Amy into taking him back as disguising as the Turkish pasha, with his pals as his wives.

The Pastime.

The home of good pictures. Tuesday's program.
"A Spanish Wooing." Selig. A beautiful and picturesque romance of
