UNCLE SAM'S PAPER GETS SUBSCRIBERS

Demand for Daily Congressional Records is Rapidly Increasing. Washington.—With the beginning of the year and everybody taking stock of the business done in 1911, the circulation of Uncle Sam's newspaper, the daily Congressional Record is growing.

Members of congress are noticing an increased demand for the publication in question. This does not appear to be because the Congressional Record is any more ably edited than it used to be or because it is any more of a yellow journal than it used to be. The true explanation seems to be that the country is bent on keeping a little closer eye on congress and finding out what the national legislative body is getting paid for.

It is stated by members that there is an increasing demand for the Record from farmers and workmen. It used to be that only a few folks in a congressional district took the Record. Even libraries used to be careless whether they got it or not.

Put nowadays it is different. The farmers are reading more about congress and so are the working people. Whereas members used to find that they had few requests for the Record, they get plenty of them now.

The chief class that used to take the Record was the lawyers. One of the reasons attributed for the growth of circulation of the Record is the establishment of rural free delivery. Another is to growing intelligence of the public on political and legislative matters.

How Much Are the Bones Worth, London—"Morocco," so ran the socialist proclamation to the people of Berlin, "is not or the bones of a single German workman." This is an adaptation of Bismarck's famous statement in the reichstag in the spring of 1878 when the preliminary treaty of San Stefano between Russia and Turkey threatened to precipitate another war, into which Germany might also be dragged, that the eastern question was (to Germany) "not dorth the healthy bones of a Pomeranian musketeer. (Die gesunden Knochen eines Pommerschen Musketeers)."

The phrase has always been misquoted—"grenadier" being used for "musketeer." It was on the same occasion that Bismarck made use of the simile of the elephant (Russia) and the whale (England).

HONEY GHOST IS DISCOVERED. House Long Bothered With Spooks is Exorcised of a Swarm of Bees. New York.—The "ghost" that has been "terrorizing" F. L. Blenham and his family of Ravine road, Plainfield, N. J., has been "killed" and Mr. Blenham and his neighbors have put their shotguns, rifles and revolvers away.

The spook first made its presence known soon after Blenham had moved into the house. All his efforts and those of neighbors, including Tax Collector Billy Townsend, to discover the hiding place of the spectral visitor were unsuccessful. Then Chief of Police Kiely was appealed to. He went to the house.

As he was entering he saw a swarm of bees disappear under a rafter. Under the attic floor, a little later, the chief found the bees and twenty-five pounds of honey.

Fun for Martian Kids. Cambridge, Mass.—A telegram received by John Richtie, Jr., former Harvard astronomer, from Professor Percival Lowell, brother of Harvard's head, states that the old snow on Mars has disappeared and a new layer has fallen.

Mr. Mr. Lowell has said that Mars is inhabited by a race approaching our own in intelligence, they are supposed to like sleighing. The new day of snow is in latitude 70 degrees.

BLAME ON EMPLOYER. Labor Leaders Declare Industrial Conditions Responsible for Dynamite Outrages. Washington.—That labor unions have no desire to condone the crimes of which the McNamara brothers recently pleaded guilty, is the declaration of Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor in a letter to unions of the United States. The statement is signed by the ways and means committee, which was named to raise the McNamara defense fund.

Contained in the statement is the following criticism of the McNamaras: "Organized labor of America has no desire to condone the crimes of the McNamaras. It joins in the satisfaction that the majesty of the law and justice has been maintained and the culprits punished commensurately for their crime."

"It is cruelly unjust to hold the men of the labor movement either legally and so are those she is waiting on. And mind you, a good high-ball is well worth waiting for. Good, pure, wholesome Rye Whiskey, like the brands we are now selling, will make one wait patiently, but enjoy the wait when the liquid arrives—cool, comforting, and refreshing. If you are a high-ball lover, better try a bottle of this splendid Whiskey of ours. You will always want that brand afterwards. And the price will satisfy you, too.

CHARGE THEFTERY IN PUBLIC PRINTING OFFICE

Discharged Employees Tell of Private Enterprise in the Bindry Department. Washington.—Six employees of the government printing office have been discharged recently in connection with the disappearance of government property, and the joint committee on printing, of which Senator Smoot is chairman, is investigating.

About a month ago two discharged case-makers named Rowley and Alends made formal charges with the committee that Forman Hurst of one of the bindry divisions had caused a set of books to be bound at government expense and had ordered a number of leather pocketbooks to be manufactured without legal authority.

The books and pocketbooks cost the government about $200. The amount of leather lost is not known, but five hides valued at $75 were missed in one batch.

Public Printer Donnelly said there had been no large thefts recently, but from time to time leather was missed. "Rowley and Alends were discharged for insubordination some time ago," Senator Smoot said, "and they filed charges against Hurst. They stated that about fifteen leather pocketbooks had been made by Hurst's orders for individuals and that he had caused a set of books to be bound without authority."

"So far we have not obtained any evidence that would sustain these charges."

DIVE INMATES ARE GIVEN CHANCE FOR NEW YEAR

Kansas City Religious Workers Promise Unfortunate Women Honest Employment—Police Are to Close Some Vice Dens. Kansas City.—Accompanied by a special escort of police, a committee of women religious workers, some of them well known, visited dives in one of the two "red light" districts of this city in an effort to persuade the inmates to take a fresh start in life with the New Year.

To each inmate was offered a respectable home and a position in which she could earn an honest living. A home, to be conducted as an ordinary boarding house, its address to be kept secret, will be provided for those women who determine to accept the offer.

Conditions will be so arranged that no stigma may follow the reformed. The effort to help the unfortunate women is a part of the Men and Religion Forward Movement. Under orders of the board of police commissioners every "red light" in the district visited must go out at midnight.

In addition to planning to care for the women the organization has gathered the names of all the property owners in the district and will ask that criminal proceedings be started against them.

"We do not intend to leave the women alone in their battle for a new life," H. B. McAfee, leader in the movement said. "Kindly women will act sponsors for them after they have obtained employment to help them and give them encouragement in living rightly."

DEEP SEA SHIP HAUNTED BY GHOST OF BIG SNAKE

Kattenturm's Crew Fears That Kaa's Spirit May Return to Make New Trouble. New York.—The ghost of Kaa still haunts the Kattenturm. The Kattenturm is a nomadic freighter whose wanderings recently brought her into Boston from Calcutta, and where on her arrival a few days ago was told the tale of Kaa, an overgrown, beady-eyed, baggy-throated cobra, a devil-possessed reptile whose baneful eye had caused Sama, the fireman, to jump overboard and drown himself in the deep sea, and whose evil presence had driven Allee and Byng, the two Malay quartermasters, and the rest of the Malay crew out of all peace of mind throughout the rest of the long journey.

Having landed her consignment of fute and tea in Boston, the whale-back yesterday came into this port, groping for a cargo. The Kattenturm is under the command of Capt. Massellus. Second Officer Schultz explained that while the freighter was chugging her placid way through the Indian Ocean, Allee, the quartermaster, accidentally let fall a heavy iron bar on top of the crate wherein the cobra was coiled. The bar broke through the light woodwork of the upper part and in another instant the uplifted head of the cobra was waving through the opening. Allee fled. Then the reign of terror, which cost one man his life, followed.

Nothing more was seen of the serpent until after the vessel had anchored in Boston harbor, when the snake whisked out of the hold, squirmed to the edge of the ship and slid overboard into the water.

That was the last of Kaa, and the crew of the Gattenturm earnestly pray that it will be the last that will ever be seen of him.
