FARMERS INSTITUTE AT STANFIELD ALSO

PLAN TO HEAR OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE MAN

Furnish Project Settlers May Hear Experts Following Meeting to be Held at Hermiston—Presbyterians Will Have a Church.

(Special Correspondence.)
Stanfield, Ore., Feb. 5.—At the meeting of the Stanfield Fruit Growers' association Saturday evening a communication was read from R. W. Allen of the Oregon Agricultural College stating that plans were being made to hold an institute at Hermiston February 15th and 16th, to be attended by five experiment station men, and suggesting that a similar meeting might be held at Stanfield at about that time. The subjects to be discussed include dairying, horticulture, poultry, general farming, also good roads, all of which no doubt will greatly interest the people of this vicinity.

The subject of good roads is considered especially interesting for there is no other topic of greater importance to any rural community and that has received so little attention in this section of the country. It was unanimously voted by the association that immediate steps be taken to secure the meeting and it is quite likely that the institute here will be held on the 17th inst, though this can not be definitely announced until later. A committee was appointed to arrange for the meeting as follows: Mayor James M. Kyle, A. W. Gray, Roy J. E. Faust, M. C. Baragar, E. N. Wheeler. Stanfield will be fortunate in securing this institute as it will be an excellent opportunity for the people to secure valuable information from specialists. It comes at just the right time as many residents will be in a most receptive mood and ready to act in a practical manner.

The association also entered into a general informal discussion of the subjects of spraying and pruning. The next meeting will be held Saturday evening, Feb. 10th.

Church Buys Schoolhouse.
The old school house that has been used for so many years by district No. 61, having past its period of usefulness as a school building since the completion of the new stone structure, was sold at public auction Saturday afternoon, being purchased by the local Presbyterian church society for $110. They will at once formulate plans for remodeling the building into a convenient and attractive meeting place for church services. The old structure will in a few days be removed to a more suitable location and it is expected that actual work on rebuilding it will be commenced shortly. It is the intention to have the finances necessary to carry out these plans all arranged for in advance in order that the completed building may be dedicated entirely free from debt, and this will be easily accomplished with a reasonably small sum being raised among the local membership and friends of the church.

Engineers Hear Arguments.
The Board of U. S. Engineers are in Stanfield today receiving evidence pertaining to the subject of the western extension to the Umatilla project. The members of the board are listening to testimony and data being presented to them by farmers on the site of the proposed reservoir and others who would be affected if the reservoir should be constructed in accordance with the plan as at present outlined.

New Road Supervisor.
Harry Rodgers has been appointed road supervisor for the Stanfield district.

R. N. Stanfield went to Portland Saturday night with a shipment of four car loads of mutton sheep.

Miss Minnie Baker, who was obliged to give up her school work in the Stanfield schools two weeks ago on account of illness, has found it necessary to resign her position.

Miss Smith, who has for several months been stenographer for the Inland Irrigation Co., went to Hermiston Saturday to visit Miss Chezik and started from there yesterday for Minneapolis, Minn., where she will make her home.

O. B. Gray of Page, N. Dakota, arrived here Saturday and will remain some time looking after his land under the Furnish ditch.

W. T. Reeves was a Hermiston visitor Saturday.

A. E. Thompson, manager of the East Oregon Independent Telephone company at Echo, was transacting business here Saturday.

San Diego, Calif.—When Collector of Port Walter T. Blake opened his mail he found a money order for $1.75 and a brief note.

Several years ago the writer, a woman, said she visited Tia Juana, Lower California, and when she returned across the line she had successfully concealed a Mexican blanket.

She said she went to Hutchinson, Kas., far from customs officials and the border line, but her conscience disturbed her and she figured out the duty on the blanket and sent it to the collector of the port.

PARIS APACHES BOLD IN RED WAVE OF CRIME

Paris.—The series of crimes which have spread a red wave over Paris was added to this week by the daring robbery of a woman, prominent in French society.

She went to a theater alone. After the performance she took a taxi cab to her home, giving the chauffeur her address. On the way the driver stopped the automobile, left his seat, opened the door and said he did not understand the address, being a little deaf. He put his head quite close to his face as she repeated the name of her street and the number of her house. The woman smelt a peculiar odor as the man closed the door and then a strong sense of drowsiness and illness with which she tried vainly to struggle. The next she remembered she was in a deserted part of the Bois de Boulogne surrounded by the five murderous looking Apaches who had just finished robbing her of her money, jewels and even her sables. They threatened her with death if she gave an alarm.

Frightened nearly to the point of fainting and weak from the drug that had been administered to her she begged to be taken where she could at least see an exit gate of the Bois and asked the robbers to leave her money enough to pay for a carriage to take her home.

But the callous brigands left her in the middle of the park, and she was forced to walk a long distance through the woods in evening dress and without furs. More dead than alive she reached her home near morning, immediately fell ill from the exposure and now is in a critical condition.

No trace of the robbers has been found.

PELLAGRA AFFECTS KENTUCKY HORSES

Lexington, Ky.—A disease similar to pellagra with persons, is reported to have made its appearance among horses in Madison county.

A dispatch from Richmond states that twenty or more valuable horses have died there in the last three weeks from the malady, which is caused by rotten corn.

Robert Walker, the veteran horseman of Richmond, says there is apparently no cure for the disease, which seems to affect the brain of the animal. Farmers and horsemen who have suffered loss by the malady have taken steps to stop its ravages by carefully preparing the food for their horses and seeing that no defective corn is given them.

WIFE ASKS FORGER DEPORTED

He Pleads for Hard Labor Sentence So He May Reform.

Milwaukee.—James Ludford, aged 46, a former English soldier who pleaded guilty in the municipal court to forgery, probably will be devoted to the request of his wife, Ludford himself pleaded with Judge Backus to be sentenced to hard labor in the house of correction. He said previous terms in Waupun and Minnesota prisons had failed to reform him because his good education had led to his assignment to office work.

After Ludford had made his plea his wife, with a 1-year-old boy in her arms and two little tots clutching at her skirts, elbowed her way before the judge and, addressing him as "my lord," said:

"I have a better plan. We are English and in County Suffolk, sir, there is a little farm—my father's farm, on which I was born. My brother has it now, sir, and he is living there alone. My husband is still a British subject, and I think, sir, that you find him undesirable. Couldn't you deport us?"

Judge Backus promised to take the matter up with the United States district attorney.

Sometimes it pays to tell the truth. Henry Labouchere, editor of Truth, left an estate of $4,000,000.

A HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR

Who does not know the value of sage and sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft, glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, sulphur is a natural element of hair and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than sage and sulphur, if properly prepared. The Wyeth Chemical company of New York put up an ideal remedy of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, and authorize druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

If you have dandruff, or if your hair is thin or turning gray, get a bottle of this remedy from your druggist today, and see what it will do for you.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by special agent, Pendleton Drug Co.
