ARTIST LOST HIS MEMORY.
Wallace Robinson Wanders for Ten Days After Fall.
New York—Wallace Robinson, the illustrator who disappeared from his wife and friends more than a week ago is at home again under the care of a physician, who announced that the former California artist is suffering from the effects of concussion of the brain.

Robinson does not know what caused his disappearance. He had gone out to buy fruit for breakfast; he remembers being in a store in Sixth avenue and that the sidewalks were greasy with ice. He has a vague memory of being in New Jersey and of spending two or three days in a Philadelphia hotel. He came to himself in a hotel in Asbury Park.

The $350 worth of jewelry which he wore, and nearly all of the $300 in money, which he had ten days ago were found in his pockets.

HILL BELIEVED TO BE AFTER NEW TERRITORY
Baker, Or.—Considerable stir has been caused here by the recent visit of Major Fred Reed, western manager of Kuhn Brothers, of Pittsburgh, who are believed to be acting for J. J. Hill, in conjunction with the Hill interests in southeastern Washington, and who, it is reported, has secured control of the line from Union Station, on the O-W, E. & N., to the town of Oregon, known as the Central Railway of Oregon. It is thought that the Hill interests intend using this as a connecting link in their recently surveyed line through this section of the state. With the purchase of the P. J. & N. out of Weiser, Idaho, it is believed Hill plans to go into central Oregon from the east.

New York—The Nathan Straus Pasteurized Milk Laboratories, a charitable association, was incorporated in the supreme court.

The association will endeavor to provide milk that will aid in preventing tuberculosis and reduce infant mortality. Milk depots will be established throughout New York state and other states.

Regularly licensed physicians will be employed to instruct mothers regarding the proper use of pasteurized milk.

WOMEN WHO CAN'T VOTE.
Marriage to Aliens Who Are Not Naturalized Is Bar to Citizenship.
Sacramento—According to an opinion handed down by Attorney-General Webb to Secretary of State Jordan, a native-born woman who marries a foreigner or alien loses her right to citizenship and the ballot. This decision will probably create a great deal of consternation among those women born in the state of California or other states of the union whose husbands have not become naturalized and who desire the right of suffrage. It is understood that some of these women have already been registered by county clerks.

BITULLITHIC IS FAVORED BY COMMITTEE

PATENT PROCESS TO BE RECOMMENDED TO CITY COUNCIL.

WILL REPORT NEXT MONDAY

L. C. ROGERS SAYS IT IS SUPERIOR TO ASPHALT.

ENGINEER THINKS BEST PAVEMENT IS CHEAPEST

(Morning Astorian, Feb. 2, 1912.)

In a report to be submitted to the city council at its meeting next Monday afternoon, the members of the committee on streets and public highways, including Councilmen Beland, Knobloch and Curtis and City Surveyor L. C. Rogers, will unanimously recommend that the bitullithic type of pavement be used in the extensive campaign of street paving to be carried out on about 25 streets of Astoria this year.

The members of this committee, having arrived at the conclusion that bitullithic is superior to all other kinds of paving, and is better suited to the needs and conditions of this city than is asphalt.

The committee decided strongly in favor of bitullithic, following a trip of investigation of various types of paving used on the streets of Portland, and after ascertaining the experience of numerous other cities with bitullithic, Hassam, asphalt, wood block, stone, concrete, macadam, Westerlilte and other kinds of paving.

In discussing the subject yesterday for the information of citizens and taxpayers, Mr. Rogers gave his opinion as an engineer, in which he unqualifiedly stated that bitullithic is the superior pavement. He said in part:

"Asphalt is not suited to the conditions in Astoria. It is very slick, and when the weather is wet and cold, horses can't get a purchase because asphalt can't make a rough surface, which is required on hills such as we have here. Bitullithic, however, roughens, and in Portland it has been a success on the hills. It has given satisfaction on two streets in that city that have 21 per cent grades.

"Bitullithic is much better in earthen than asphalt. A piece of bitullithic which I took, myself, from Fifth street, in Portland, where it has been laid for eight years, shows little wear, although this street carries about as heavy traffic throughout the year as any street in that city.

"Bitullithic is a patent asphalt preparation, and it has other patent stuffs in it. When the pavement is laid, it is mixed hot with rock, varying in size from 3-4 of an inch to the finest particles. The whole theory of bitullithic rests on the fact that it is the stone that makes the wear. In selecting the kind of rock, the city may choose either hard basalt or granite. But Astoria has the advantage of a whole quarry of fine basalt.

"When the pavement is in use, the rock wears with the bitullithic, and doesn't break out as in the case of concrete. Bitullithic is pliable and adhesive, and adapts itself easily to changes, so that if a street sags on account of a break in the sewer, the bitullithic conforms with the lowered grade without breaking. When a street is patched the bitullithic assimilates immediately and goes into the old pavement and makes a solid body just as good as when it was new.

"In the construction of bitullithic pavement, a 4-inch layer of 2 1-2 inch crushed rock is first placed on the street. This is rolled with a 12-ton roller. On top of it is put a layer of hot bitumum as a basis of the pavement. Then a sequence of sand or stone chips is spread over it. On this is placed the wearing surface of the pavement itself, consisting of crushed rock varying in size from 3-4 or an inch to dust, which is mixed with hot bitumum in a mixer and then spread on the street at a temperature of about 270 degrees. After this is thoroughly rolled, it gives a finished pavement.

"In my judgment, bitullithic would last forever on the residence streets of Astoria. That this process of pavement is far superior to ordinary asphalt has been proved in the larger cities time and again. Bitullithic is a permanent pavement. It does not go to pieces, and hardly ever has to be repaired. But if it does become necessary to repair it, the city will only have to go over it with a top dressing, which sticks to the lower coat.

"The macadam streets on the hills of Astoria are in bad shape and will soon go to pieces entirely, unless they are thus covered with bitullithic, which would not only make fine streets of them, but would eliminate the necessity for constant maintenance.

"In this connection, it is pertinent to observe that the city last year spent $1600 putting in rock repairs on our old streets. In my opinion, this money was wasted and might just as well have been thrown away. Bitullithic will save the enormous yearly cost of up-keep.

"In my opinion, bitullithic is so far superior to bricks, wood blocks, stone, asphalt, Hassam, Westerlilte, concrete and other kinds of pavement that there isn't any room for comparison.

"One thing in favor of bitullithic is that the crushed rock base gives good and the better for the town will it be. Just as an instance of the penny-wise and pound-foolish policy: The statistics prove that every owner of a 50-foot lot on Commercial street between Tenth and Twenty-third street, has had to pay a total of $1040 in the last 12 years for repairs.

"Astoria won't be trying a mere experiment in using bitullithic. It has been tried out and pronounced a success in cities and towns all over the United States. Following are some of the towns in the northwest that are using bitullithic pavement: Portland, Ore., Walla Walla, Wash., Colfax, Wash., Missoula, Mont., and numerous Oregon towns including Pendleton, Eugene, Salem, Medford, Grants Pass, The Dalles, La Grande, Albany, Ashland, Roseburg, Baker City, and others.

"As an example of the way in which these places have accepted bitullithic, it is sufficient to say that in Medford, bitullithic was opposed at first, but the company finally got some laid there, and when the initial contract was finished and the company was going to remove its plant, the city closed more contracts to put in twice as much bitullithic the next year."
