WIFE WITH NO CEREMONY.

Man Can't Desert Her, Though Never Formally Wedded.

Allentown, Pa.—That it is impossible to repudiate offhand even a common law wife was found out by Thomas Moore, an Allentown business man. Moore is a member of a progressive structural iron concern that does a great deal of work throughout Pennsylvania and especially in the anthracite coal regions. He was hated into Desertion court yesterday afternoon. When he took the stand he declared that the woman who had for nine years been thought to be his wife was not his wife at all, and he did not want anything to do with her.

The woman, plump and handsome, explaining her side of the story, said she had met Moore at a hotel in New York. Complying with his suggestion, she came here with him, and he introduced her to his family and to all his friends as his wife. She said her real name was Nellie Brennan, that she was born in Elmira, and when she first met Moore she was a young girl. They lived happily until about a year ago, when he began to try to get rid of her.

The woman acknowledged that no marriage ceremony had ever been performed, but declared she felt she was a wife. She testified that Moore had taken the furniture and presented it to another woman. This woman was in court, and when she was made to stand up acknowledged that the testimony of Nellie Brennan was true.

Moore acknowledged that he had a large business, but asserted that he was taking out of it only $15 a week. Judge Trexler quickly decided that Nellie Brennan was his common law wife and commanded him to give her $5 of his weekly stipend.

EIGHT GIRLS TRY TO MARRY ONE MAN

Kansas School Principal Gets Leap Year Proposals and Rejects All, But One Seems Sure of Her Fate. Iola, Kas.—Professor Frederick C. Walters, principal of the Washington school, already has had eight leap year proposals of marriage. All of the proposals were made by letter and the names signed to them included some of Iola's most lovely and admirable young women.

They were not all couched in the same elegant language, but they all meant the same thing and read after this fashion, eliminating some of the tender adjectives.

"Dear Professor, I can no longer restrain my impulse to confess my love for you. You are the idol of my heart. Will you name the day?"

"It is leap year," mused the professor, as he ran over his offers. "But I didn't expect such a thing as this. Now, I've heard of linen showers, china showers and silver showers, but bridal showers, what do you think of that?"

Some of the names of candidates were clearly familiar to Professor Walters, and he was puzzled. Confronted with proposals from eight girls, any one of whom was worthy of a good husband, what could he do? He couldn't marry eight, and he couldn't choose between them. So Professor Walters sent out this laconic reply:

"My Dear Miss —: I would if I could, but I can't. There are seven others."

Then a happy thought struck the professor. Why not a private reception, at which he could speak a personal word of appreciation. That cold, coarse note of reply must have wounded every heart. So eight girls surrounded Professor Walters as he tried to tell them how much he appreciated the situation.

"You see," explained the bewildered pedagogue, "how very impossible it was to make choice from this double quartet of pretty girls. Now, if only one should propose I might."

And the professor cast a coy glance at one member of the party. The others caught the gaze. Now it is said the remaining seven have withdrawn their offers and are urging Professor Walters to make good.

A friend to whom the professor confided his experience told another friend—in confidence, of course—and in that way the story came out. The professor admits it is true.

MILLIONAIRE FOR A MONTH HIS LATEST

McDevitt Running for Congress but Willing to Sell Out for Another Trip. Wilkesbarre, Pa.—John Jay McDevitt, who went broke while playing "millionaire for a day," announced that he is in the race as a candidate for the democratic nomination for congress from this district. The democratic party gave him the nomination for county treasurer only to have him sell it and spend the money playing millionaire.

"I know what it is to be a millionaire," he stated. "Now I want to go to congress and see how it feels to assist in running a country as big as this. The party leaders here handed me a juicy lemon, but I am going to get back by going to congress and putting a crimp in some of the things they want accomplished in this district."

"I am pretty sure I can win this nomination. If I am elected I will not step down and out for the party bosses unless some one is good enough to offer me enough money to pay the expenses of running a special train to the coast and permit me to be a millionaire for a month."

CALLS "HONOR" SYSTEM A SYSTEM OF DISHONOR

Professor Says It Assumes That a Student Will Cheat and Affront His Manhood.

Philadelphia.—There are still some things in this world that are not the subject of barter," says Prof. Felix F. Schelling, English professor at the University of Pennsylvania, in the Pennsylvania, in which he attacks the "honor system" at the Wharton school of the university and declares it worse than a failure.

"To ask a man to promise not to cheat," he says, "is to assume not only the possibility but the probability that he will cheat and therefore destroy his reputation for honor. A gentleman is always on his honor, and to assume the necessity of putting him to his promise is to lower the whole standard of his moral system."

"I regard a pledge on the part of a student not to cheat during an examination as an affront to his manhood. You cannot make a man honest by compelling from him a written statement that he is habitually a thief, and you cannot inoculate our student body with a sense of the seriousness of dishonest work by occasional or even reiterated promises to be good. It is only by holding up standards that are ideal that we can raise the student body to the recognition to what true honor is."

HERO OF MOBILE BAY DIES.

Santa Monica.—Edwin Bailey, the oldest member of the National Soldiers' Home at Sawtelle, died at the age of 102. The fatal illness was the first that had confined him to his bed in his life.

Born in England, Bailey went to sea at the age of 9. In the civil war he served aboard Admiral Farragut's flagship.

In the battle of Mobile Bay he saved many lives by plunging overboard and removing the firing device from a Confederate torpedo that threatened the destruction of some of the attacking fleet. For this act of heroism he was awarded a medal by congress.

BEGINNING OF LENT LESS THAN WEEK OFF

FORTY-DAY PERIOD OF FASTING STARTS WEDNESDAY

Local Social Circles Arranging Programs to Conform With Time Honored Custom—Rules of Observations Are Given.

On next Wednesday the Lenten season, the annual period of abstinence by the Catholics and Episcopalians, will be ushered in and local society is making its program of events conform to this custom.

The following Lenten regulations are issued for the observance of the season this year.

During Lent every day except Sunday is a fast day. All the Wednesdays and Fridays, and the Saturday and Ember Week and Holy Week are also days of complete abstinence from flesh meat.

Only those must fast who have completed their 21st year and have not reached their 60th. The following, however, are excepted. The sick and those in feeble health; women nursing children; all who are engaged in laborious and exhaustive occupations.

On fast days only one full meal may be taken. Custom permits coffee, tea or chocolate, with a small piece of bread, to be taken in the morning. Custom also allows the use of eggs, butter, cheese and milk at the evening collation. When the principal meal cannot be taken at mid-day, it may be taken in the evening, and the collation put in the morning.

Flesh meat may be used at all meals on Sunday, and once a day at the principal meal on Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays. Those, however, who are excused from fasting on account of age or hard labor may use fresh meat more than once a day on the days when it is allowed. The use of lard and drippings is permitted in the preparation of abstinence food.

Fish and flesh are not allowed at the same meal, even on Sundays, except in case of persons dispensed from abstinence on account of sickness.

All Catholics must abstain who have reached the age of reason, unless health does not permit. Two exceptions are:

Workingmen and workingwomen, together with their entire families, are permitted the use of flesh meat once a day on all fast days of the year, except Fridays, Ash Wednesday, the Wednesday and Saturday of Holy Week and the vigil of Christmas.

The soldiers and seamen of the United States service have only six days of abstinence during the year, viz., Ash Wednesday, the last three days of Holy Week, the vigil of Assumption and the vigil of Christmas. This, however, does not exempt from fasting.

Wilmington, Del.—Seeing firemen rushing into the home at 825 Market street and believing the house was on fire, the two little daughters of Victor H. Bacon, a cafe proprietor, for got all about their own comfort and thought only about their pets.

One of the girls gathered up a cat in one arm and a guinea pig in the other and the second child snatched up her doll. They did not stop to get a hat or coat, but were making for the door without regard for the near-zero weather when their mother stopped them.

Some one passing in Market street had seen exhaust steam coming from a pipe on the roof, and, thinking it was smoke, summoned several fire companies. Mrs. Bacon, who was alone with her children at the time knew nothing about the affair until the firemen came into the house, dragging lines of hose after them.

NO HATS IN MOSCOW CHURCH.

Pastor Asks Women to Discard Headgear at Services.

Moscow, Idaho.—New spring bonnets will not be necessary in attending Moscow's most fashionable church this season if the edict issued by the Rev. D. H. Hare of the Presbyterian church is carried into effect. The Rev. Hare a week ago requested the women of his congregation "Not to wear hats to church." A large number attended, without hats and by the spirit in which influential members have adopted the suggestion of the minister, it is predicted that by next Sunday few if any, hats will be worn by the women attending the church.

DOUBT CANNOT EXIST.

Investigation Will Only Strengthen the Proof We Give in Pendleton.

How can doubt exist in the face of such evidence? Read here the endorsement of a representative citizen of Pendleton.

Mrs. William McGregor, 711 13th street, Pendleton, Oregon, says: "I was troubled from childhood by kidney complaint. My hands and feet swelled, in fact my whole body bloated and I had a great deal of trouble from the kidney secretions. There was a dull pain in my back and sides and often after stooping, I found it difficult to straighten. Dizzy spells and headaches were frequent and my nerves were all unstrung. I rested poorly, and on arising in the morning was tired and devoid of ambition. As time passed, my condition became worse and it would be hard to fully describe the misery I endured. I spent many dollars for doctor's treatment and I also tried various remedies but to no avail until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills. This preparation restored me to good health. I do not hesitate to tell of my experience and I trust that my statement will be the means of helping other kidney sufferers."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take it often.
