

Save Your Carpets Keep a Dustless Home

It is hard on your carpets to sweep them with a stiff broom or a carpet sweeper. They tear and injure the nap of the carpet more by one sweeping than walking over it a month would.

Beating a carpet on a line is ruinous too. It breaks the warp, takes the natural stiffness out and causes it to wear out much quicker than it should.

If you run over your carpets and rugs every day or two with a DOMESTIC VACUUM CLEANER (runs like a carpet sweeper) you will keep them as clean as your table linen every day and you will never have to take them up off the floor. Not only this, but you will add many months and years to their life. Think of the saving in money, time and hard work it will mean to you.

The DOMESTIC rolls over the floor and sucks up the dirt without the slightest wear to the carpet—no brushes—no bristles—just a strong blast of air rushing through your carpet up into the cleaner carrying all the dust, dirt, moths and microbes with it and not one particle of the dust escapes from the cleaner to settle again in the room as it does with the old fashioned methods.

It keeps the nap raised, making the carpet soft to walk upon and the original colors are kept bright and fresh as new.

Thousands of housewives who are now using DOMESTICS are enthusiastic in their praise of them and would not part with them at any cost. Call and see them. There is nothing to get out of order—nothing to wear out.

COUSINS WED; SEPARATE.

Still Love Each Other, but Find the Union is Illegal.

Laporte, Ind.—Though the wedding was the culmination of a true love affair there was a severing of heart strings when John T. Emmons brought action in the Laporte circuit court for the annulment of his marriage to Mary D. Emmons. The proceeding was prompted by the decision of both husband and wife that they wanted to live according to law, and because of the fact that the laws of Indiana and Michigan do not sanction the marriage of first cousins.

The couple were married in Dowagiac, Mich., June 4, 1911, Justice of the Peace Edwards officiating, and they believed they were legally married until investigation proved otherwise.

The couple parted the best of friends, each vowing love for the other.

CLARK'S "DAWG BUTTON" CONFUSED REPUBLICAN

Washington.—Representative Booher of Missouri, one of the original Champ Clark boosters, walked down the center aisle of the house smiling. On the lapel of his coat he wore a button about the size of a butter plate.

"You've got to stop kickin' my dawg aroun'" was written upon the button.

"Well, what do you think of it?" Mr. Booher asked Minority Leader Mann.

"Of what?" asked Mr. Mann. "Of our new campaign button," said Mr. Booher.

"So that's a campaign button, is it?" said Mr. Mann. "I suppose it's all right, but when I saw you coming down the aisle I thought you were a candidate for the position of official dog catcher of the District of Columbia."

Later mutual friends offered their good offices to the gentleman from Missouri, but he said he harbored no ill-feelings against the republican leader.

PRIEST IS ATTACKED WHILE IN PULPIT

Friction Between Parishioners and Trustees of Russian Orthodox Holy Trinity Church Results in a Near-Riot—Police Club Crowds.

Chicago, Ill.—Friction between parishioners and the trustees of the Russian Orthodox Holy Trinity church, 1121 North Leavitt street, resulted in a near riot at the church when over a dozen angry members of the congregation rushed up on the altar and attacked the pastor, the Rev. Valdimir V. Alexandroff.

An auto patrol filled with policemen hurried to the church after the priest had locked himself in a room behind the altar and appealed to the police for aid. Five of the men who took a prominent part in the disturbance were arrested.

Police Club the Rioters.

Police waded through the throng of excited foreigners with their clubs and many of them were felled before the outbreak was quelled. Some of the men were suffering from bleeding heads when they fled from the scene.

The congregation had formed in line and the march was on to the altar to kiss the crucifix shortly after noon. Father Alexandroff was on the altar. Suddenly about fifteen men, the police assert, broke from the line, rushed upon the altar, and several seized the priest. Father Alexandroff in his struggles to break away was thrown down, his head striking against the wall.

Priest Phones for Help.

Policemen Bistricky and Dominski dashed upon the altar and clubbed the more militant foreigners. The crowd shouted threats against the two bluecoats and when Father Alexandroff heard these threats he went to a telephone and called up the West North avenue station.

When the prisoners were arraigned before Municipal Judge Cottrell at the Shakespeare avenue court all of them demanded jury trials. Father Alexandroff was present but no testimony was introduced.
