FIGHTING DEAF-MUTES DISPERSED BY PENCIL

Policeman's Commands on Pocket Tablet Subdue Silent but Expressive Combatants.

St. Paul, Minn.—Acting Chief Catlin may have to add one more qualification to the list of requisites for an all around policeman as a result of an encounter between four deaf-mutes at Wabasha and Seventh streets.

Scouting trouble Patrolman Wettergren rushed to the scene of action but already a large crowd had surrounded the fighters.

As he made his way toward the contestants he thought to himself, "This can't be much of a fight; nobody's swearing." And then remembering that he had heard of girls scolding so mad they could not talk he redoubled his efforts and charged through the throng.

There they were, hitting with one fist and talking, evidently swearing with the other. He separated the quarter with difficulty and then asked them what the matter was.

They all talked at once. And Patrolman Wettergren couldn't tell whether they were talking to each other or talking to him. He was at sea in a maze of fingers.

Just as Wettergren was about to blow his whistle for help one of the deaf mutes, who had recovered his equanimity to a certain extent, took a pad out of his pocket and on it wrote out a translation.

It seems that two of the men charged that the other two had been selling by subscription something that both parties had a right to sell.

Patrolman Wettergren, picking up the pad and drawing a pencil from his pocket, suggested that the best thing they could do was to disperse and forget their troubles.

Partner talked to partner for several seconds; then they decided to follow the suggestions of the patrolman and departed in opposite directions.

against the offender. A consultation of the city ordinance failed to assist him in the solution and finally he determined to label him as a "night lodger" and liberate him in the morning with a warning against again appearing on the streets without a chaperon.

ASKED "NEW YORK SERVICE."

Dalton, Who Didn't Get What He Wanted, Arrested in Cincinnati.

Cincinnati.—A man who said he was John Dalton, a well known contractor of New York City, and who was well dressed and otherwise prosperous in appearance, as taken in charge by the police and locked up for a time for safe keeping, as the officers explain the case.

In a popular restaurant in fifth avenue, near Vine street, he became highly excited on demanding "New York service." He was told by an attendant that the place didn't happen to have any of that kind on hand. Finally a policeman was called.

Dalton was released after a few hours' detention, there having been no serious charge or complaint made against him.

The restaurant was of the sort in which customers serve themselves at a counter with individual trays provided for the purpose.

MATCHES CAUSE RUNAWAY.

Mount Carmel, Ill.—When a box of matches in the buggy occupied by Mrs. Herbert Newkirk and her 2-year-old daughter exploded and set fire to the rig the horse became frightened, ran away, throwing the occupants from the buggy and tearing rig and harness to pieces. Mrs. Newkirk was hurt about the head, but the child escaped injury in the fall.

GOVERNMENT TAKING NOTICE OF IMPENDING COAL STRIKE

Cleveland, Ohio, March 28.—Charles P. Neill, United States commissioner of labor, is here by direction of President Taft, investigate the strained situation between the miners and operators of the bituminous coal fields and is holding secret conferences with the leaders of both sides. It is said President Taft fears a general suspension of mining in both the anthracite and bituminous regions.

THRILLING EXPERIENCES ATTEND FRISCO FIRE

San Francisco, March 28.—Exciting incidents came thick and fast in a fire destroying a $30,000 business building here today. The inflammable character of junk in the building made two companies necessary to put out the fire. A fireman broke his leg sliding down a pole to go to the fire. Three Chinese saved their lives by leaping from the top of the building into life nets.

Lorimer Almost Whitewashed.

Washington, D. C., March 28.—By a vote of five to three, the Senator Lorimer investigating committee today decided that the charge of fraud in the election of Senator Lorimer of Illinois, cannot be reopened again in the senate.

THE REALM FEMINE

Mrs. May Arkwright Hutton's Suffrage Epigrams.

Why need suffrage interfere with housekeeping any more than it interferes with a man's business?

Peaceful, quiet tactics win where militant methods fail.

The women of Oregon should follow Washington's example and not allow outsiders to interfere.

I received my suffrage training under Mrs. Abigail Scott Dunway almost a generation ago and she always counseled against unwomanly methods.

When Mrs. Pankhurst offered to give 12 lectures in Washington for $1200, I replied I would give $1000 to keep her out of the state.

Make your campaign an appeal, not a fight. Our greatest help came from the quiet, home-loving women of the state, who worked with their husbands, friends and neighbors.

The Way It Happened.
A little girl was teaching her dolls a Sunday school lesson.

"Children," she said, "you know God made Adam, so God put him to sleep and took out his brains and made a fine lady."

The Home of the Swallow.
"What little boy can tell me where the home of the swallow is?" the teacher in natural history asked.

Long silence, then a hand waved.

"Well, Bobbie, where is it?"

"The home of the swallow is in the stummock."

For the Spring.
White serge, white homespun, white worsted and white Bedford cord are equally smart for spring, and since it has been predicted that we are to have a white season, one may feel safe in choosing any of the above-mentioned materials. The Bedford cords are light in weight and make up beautifully. The finished worsteds are also much in demand and are ideal for strictly tailored suits.

About Jackets.
The fashionable jacket for the average figure measures exactly twenty-two inches in length. The only curves that are in evidence are in the seams under the arms. The model is cut so narrow that the coat looks as though it were fitted to follow the lines of the figure. The smartest finish at the neck is the turned-over four or five inch collar and revers over which is a fitted collar and revers of plain material matching the color of the stripe. Sometimes a tracing of embroidery is run along the edge of the separate collar. The cuffs are treated in the same manner. A good deal of this coarse embroidery is being done on canvas. Such sets are in colors and are detached.

PARISIANS LOOK FOR NEW COURT SCANDAL

Excitement Manifested by Forthcoming Appearance of Mme Steinheil's Book in Which is Revealed Intimacy With Faure.

Paris.—Parisians are in a state of great excitement just now over the forthcoming appearance of Mme. Steinheil's book, "My Memoirs," in which it is said sensational disclosures and new scandals of French official life are made, which may result in a number of duels between persons high in court life. Extraordinary details connected with her trial for the murder of her husband and mother receive much space from the pen of Mme. Steinheil.

Concerning her intimacy with the late President Felix Faure, who was found in the palace with Mme. Steinheil's head in his lap, the madame makes it plain that she was entrusted with state secrets, and that Faure relied on her judgment in various political situations.

On the death of her husband and mother, Mme. Steinheil reiterates the statements made at her trial that the crime was the work of unidentified masked men.

PEEPER AT GIRL'S COLLEGE.

Wellesley, Mass.—A Tom the Peeper is at work at Wellesley College. Despite the efforts of the college authorities, the girls and the police of the town, he has escaped capture. The peeper works days as well as nights from a perch in the top of a tree. The police hidden in the towers of the college discovered the young man but he managed to get away. Several of the college girls also have encountered a "bugger."
