"Of course, this fine old earth," said he, "can't but be rollin' right for me; And even if she gave a roll That sorter jostled my old soul, As quick as is a flash o' light, She'd settle down and soon roll right!"

"Of course, a feller may complain Of thunder, roarin' through the rain, An' forty thousand things at hand He hasn't time to understand; But when Earth wabbles in her flight She soon rolls right—she soon rolls right!" —Frank L. Stanton.

A GOOD THING OVERDONE.

If the cabinet government plan and numerous other governmental changes proposed by W. S. U'Ren in the name of the Peoples' Power League are placed before the people of Oregon this fall under such conditions that the people must swallow them all or none the move will certainly fail.

There are some splendid things about the short ballot propoganda. It is true our present system is faulty. It is true the people are now burdened with the election of officials that should be appointed. Minor offices calling for technical fitness should be appointive. There is no reason for requiring the people to elect the state food and dairy commissioner, the state printer of the state engineer. The pruning down of the state ballot would be a step in the right direction. Also the county ballot. The people should give closer and more business like attention to public affairs. Each set of officials should be elected by themselves. County, state, district and national officers should not be chosen all in a mass. It is not a policy to promote efficiency.

But the various reforms proposed should be taken up separately, discussed and tried out on their individual merits. It is not necessary nor is it wise to fill the stomach of the voter with a thousand new schemes all at once. They cannot be digested.

The objection to Mr. U'Ren's latest proposal is that he offers entirely too much at once and in one lump. Also it will be objected that parts of the lump are not what they should be. For instance under the proposal the members of the legislature are so limited as to pay that no member would be allowed to draw more than $120 a session no matter if the session should be extended to a longer period than 40 days. That is not enough to pay for legislators. It does not pay their personal expenses not to mention their campaign expenses and the loss of time from their business. But the U'Ren proposal has other faults more serious than this.

In the opinion of the East Oregonian the short ballot forces will make more speed by going slower. Another reason for going rather slow is that along with the granting of greater powers to a few elective officials earnest work should be done towards improving the grade of public officials. The short ballot system requires good men in office for its successful operation.

A NEWSPAPER.

The Pilot Rock Record devotes a column and a half to the East Oregonian because this paper published in full the speech delivered here recently by Walter M. Pierce when he opened his campaign for the democratic nomination for senator.

If the Record will watch this paper closely it will observe that it often publishes the news "in full." When the corner stone of the Eastern Oregon State Hospital was laid here a few days ago the speeches delivered were published by this paper. Some of those speeches were by democrats, some by republicans. When Theodore Roosevelt emerged from the wilds of Africa and gave his celebrated address on "Citizenship in a Republic" before the Sarbonne in Paris the East Oregonian published that speech in full the day it was delivered. It was probably the only small daily in the country that did so and many metropolitan papers did not carry the speech in full.

Each fall this paper publishes in full by innings the news of the world's baseball series. When the world's pugilistic championship was settled at Reno this paper covered the fight by rounds and had its papers on the street with full details a few minutes after the affair was over. When a big brigade of Idaho boosters were here last week they were met on their arrival by copies of the East Oregonian containing a half page of that days news from their home towns gathered by wire for their especial benefit. Also a line-type sketch of the state of Idaho.

The East Oregonian does such things as these because it is a newspaper and desires to live up to the reputation it has of being the best small daily paper in the world, published in a town the size of Pendleton. It is the opinion of this paper that if some of its contemporaries would follow its lead more closely than they do and give less time than they do to politics of the petty, pilfering, partisan variety, they would stand higher with their patrons.

GOOD WORK PAYS.

Before the business section of Pendleton was paved there was considerable objection to the move on the score of the expense involved. However the advantages resulting from paving have been so great that since the work was done no one has given any thought to the cost. The expense is not burdensome to anyone because the property owners have ten

EQUAL SUFFRAGE AND THE CLUB WOMEN

BY MRS. C. B. WADE

The club women of Oregon for the first time, as club women, are actively working for suffrage, under the Club Woman's Campaign Committee. They have effected a strong organization, not in opposition to any other organization, but for hearty cooperation with all along the line. Club women are fine workers and have their own methods. They know how to work together and they accomplish results. Club women are not "suffragettes." They are not believers in the methods of the militant workers, but their work counts and they are in the campaign in Oregon this year and will use their best efforts to see the end of suffrage campaigning in Oregon, when the vote is counted in November. There will be a parlor suffrage meeting Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Lee Moorhouse, on Water street, for club women and their friends, for an interchange of ideas in the best way to do practical work, and it is likely years in which to make the payments. Nor will the expense of paving on good residence streets, such as Jackson, Raley and West Court work undue hardship on property owners. It is not necessary to have wide driveways on residence streets. It is sufficient to pave the center of the street and to provide a wide park on each side. It is the belief of this paper that if the north side streets are improved as the city administration is desiring to do the property owners will not regret the work. If those streets are not improved everybody will regret it.

Now that all the available water power near Portland has been taken by the trust Portlanders are kicking themselves because they did not see to it that the city secured some municipal power. The people of Pendleton have a chance to profit by Portland's misfortune.

The late Mr. Young certainly did leave a large assortment of wills.

With summer almost at hand a coal strike may be endured.

With two suffrage armies in the field this fall the enemy is liable to be surrounded.

THIS IS CHARGED TO CHICAGOAN

At a recent house party given at the country estate of Sir Edward Powell, just outside of London, at which many distinguished men of letters and persons high socially and in professional life were present, a certain social leader of Chicago had been invited in company with her husband. The lady in question had come into her social position of late years due to her husband's good luck in cleaning up a fortune by cornering some commodity at a time when prices careful consideration. The uniting of black and white, which is still very fashionable, is in itself striking, and the combining of a color with black is equally effective and demands considerable skill and good taste on the part of the designer. The old idea that any color looks well with black has been exploded, for every color is not becoming to every woman, and nowadays it is individual taste that counts.

About Street Costumes. Incidentally let it be mentioned that there are two distinct styles in street costumes. One is the severe, almost mannish coat and skirt made of rough material or serge and only suitable for morning wear, shopping or traveling, and the more elaborate coat and skirt that run from semi-simple to almost lavish styles. Such gowns are being made of broad cloth, fancy serge, satin, chiffon cloth and silk. Usually the coat is made to be worn with skirt and blouse to match or with the one-piece costume that is now so highly favored for spring. Such coats and gowns are also shown in all the lovely light weights and colors of satin-face cloths.

Buying a Hat. When buying a hat do not forget to look at it from every side. A hat which looks well in front may have an ungraceful back or side line, and to be really becoming it should be in perfect line with the contour of the head from all points. Do not buy a hat which fits the head uncomfortably, no matter how attractive it may be; for after wearing it awhile, it will give the face a strained expression. A hat which is well made and adaptable to its wearer will fit the head as comfortably as a well-fitting glove fits the hand; and it should seem to be almost a part of the head, not perched upon it or only remaining there because it is held by pins.
