MAN THOUGHT SLAIN ENDS A "MURDER" CASE

Reappears After Two Years to Remove Suspicion He Was Victim of Violence.
Muncie, Ind.—Charles Simpson, believed dead for two years, has returned to his old haunts. He says he has been traveling. His return lifted the finger of unwarranted suspicion from Goldie Hewitt, a farmer and Simpson's one time employer.

The two drove to the office of the prosecuting attorney to remove the last vestige of doubt in the law's eye that there had been foul play.

Two years ago the report came to the sheriff and police officers here that Simpson had been murdered and that Hewitt was under suspicion. The officers were told the body of the murdered man had been placed above the coffin of a man newly buried in a cemetery just across the Delaware county line in Henry county. So Prosecutor Long, Sheriff W. A. O'Harra and others, including newspaper men, made a trip by night in an automobile to the cemetery and dug down into the grave, aided by a farmer who, with barn lanterns furnished the light for the ghoulish task. Simpson's body was of course not found. The matter was also brought before the grand jury.

Simpson was not aware of the commotion he had caused and of the trouble he had brought on his friend, but when he learned the facts he insisted on driving to town to show the officers and others that there was no foundation for their suspicions.

MILLIONAIRE AGED 24, TO AID VASSAR GIRL

Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—William Wallace Smith, 24, the only man in the world besides his grandfather, William Walla Smith, millionaire cough drop manufacturer, now 84 years old, who knows the recipe for the confection that has made the Smith millions, is engaged to Miss Olive Hawthorn Lancaster, a senior at Vassar.

Miss Lancaster is a daughter of Mrs. William Lancaster, of Worcester, Mass. The marriage will take place directly after the graduating exercises in June.

The old millionaire would not entrust the cough drop secret to his own son, Arthur G., but gave it to William, who is 24 years old and general manager of the big factory. He graduated from Williams College in 1910. After graduation he made a tramping tour of Europe with friends.

William Wallace Smith is in ill health in Atlantic City. William is his favorite grandson, and will inherit the largest part of the big estate.

A Remedy No Family Should Do Without

No matter how healthy a human being may be it is safe to say that not many months are passed without some obstruction of the bowels, in other words, constipation, even if only temporary. The bloating, dull feeling may start after the evening meal. If a laxative is not taken that night it is certain that sleep will not be sound, and you will awake unrefreshed.

Hence, it is important for you and for all the members of your family that a good, reliable laxative be always kept in the house for just such emergency. It is sure to be needed, and when needed you want it at hand. No family that is careful of its health can do without such a remedy. But the question of which remedy to have on hand is also of vast importance.

The laxative most highly recommended by the majority of intelligent Americans, as being best for babies and grownups is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a liquid

There is no substitute for Cottolene, because there is no shortening as good as Cottolene. It is pure, clean, neutral in taste and flavor, and absolutely the most economical and healthful frying and shortening medium. It goes one-third farther than butter or lard.
