"HOUN DAWG" SONG IN TEXAS.

Something of a Fighter Is the Cowboy's Canine Friend.

Austin, Texas.—The Texas cowboy version of the Missouri houn' dog song is different from that which comes out of the Ozarks. It is said that the lop-eared hound which is found in the ranch territory of this state is of sterner breed than that of Missouri, and that the animal fearlessly follows its cowboy master into town ever ready for a scrap. The houn' song of the Texas ranches seeks to portray the cowboy estimate of his canine companion. The lyrics follow:

When I ride in from Lazy Z
O' Jim-dog trots along with me;
It makes no difference if he is a houn'
You bet the town boys don't kick him aroun'.

One day a tenderfoot come to the door
Of old Sam Peterson's general store,
An when he saw my lop-eared houn'
He made a start to kick him aroun'.

I jus' lit in and smoked him up,
While Jim-dog chawed on the onery pup;
'Till the tenderfoot had to be made a-new,
When me and my o'houn' got through.

Every time I come to town
I bring along o' Jim-dog houn';
He trots along by my cayuse
An' mixes in when hell breaks loose.

We runs things in our ranch town—
Don't care what boys are a-hangin' aroun'.
But my o' houn' dont bother none
Unless some dern fools starts the fun.

Additional verses are improvised to suit the time and occasion by the riders of the range.

RULES GUIDE AIRMEN IN CASE OF BIRTH OR DEATH. New York.—The international congress on the laws of aviation in Paris has adopted a regulation for the guidance of an aviator on whose machine a birth or death occurs.

The new rule of international law is as follows: "In the event of a birth or a death occurring on an air craft the pilot must enter the event in a log book and notify the authorities at the first place he descends."

RUBBER MANUFACTURING PLANT FOR STANFIELD

"Pritchard's Antiseptic Spit Receptacle was invented and patented in 1908 by R. W. Pritchard, an Oregon man, and consists of a mouth-piece which is made of rubber and is dome-shaped with a self closing slit and a rigid portion at the base, on which to attach the receptacle.

The receptacle or bag may be constructed of rubber, paper, skin, oil cloth, or other suitable material and a net covering to protect the receptacle.

The officers of the company are Dr. G. E. Watts, president; R. W. Pritchard, secretary and manager, and E. V. Littlefield, counselor. They have chosen Stanfield as a factory site they declare because of the ideal climate of the lower Umatilla valley for the manufacture of rubber goods and because many of the residents of the Furnish project formerly lived near Akron, Ohio, the home of the largest rubber factories in the country and consequently are in a frame of mind to give the infant industry encouragement and backing.

The company is throwing 100,000 shares of the capital stock upon the market, according to Mr. Hurd and confidently expects to pay as large dividends as are paid any rubber factory in the United States.

FRAME RESOLUTION FOR COLUMBIA RIVER OPENING

ways for commerce in this vast Inland Empire, reaching to all parts of the same;

And Whereas, These highways are not in condition to afford transportation for the vast amount of produce grown in this Pacific northwest;

And Whereas, The United States government has on hand machinery suitable for undertaking the project of making these two streams navigable and the utilization of said machinery would be economical, and along the line of the broad public policy that initiated the Panama canal;

And Whereas, The benefits of the Panama canal will not be realized to the Pacific northwest unless the Columbia and Snake rivers are made navigable;

Therefore Be It Resolved, That the Pendleton Commercial association request our senators and representatives to urge upon congress the advisability of utilizing the machinery used in the construction of the Panama canal, after its completion, for the improvement of the Columbia and Snake rivers, making the Columbia navigable to the international border, and the Snake river navigable to American Falls, Idaho;

And Be It Further Resolved, That the Pendleton Commercial association enlist the co-operation of all the commercial bodies in the northwest, the delegations of the Inland Empire states in congress, and all others interested in opening the Pacific northwest to the markets of the world, in the said improvements.

LITTLE FOX TERRIER IS MADE TOWN'S MSCOT

Has No Known Owner, but Manages to Get Along Just the Same.

Grandview, Wash.—A diminutive fox terrier drifted into Grandview a short time ago and since his arrival has divided his time between a local drug store and the Northern Pacific depot. Tramp is the name applied to him.

A few mornings ago a record crowd left here to attend the Yakima bicentennial festival. Tramp likes crowds and followed to the depot without attracting attention. Soon after Grandview was left, passengers noticed Tramp seated in a car seat alone.

The conductor inquired for the owner. Several women explained that the dog was a tramp and asked that he be allowed to remain on the train. The conductor yielded.

At North Yakima Tramp paid no attention to the Grandview crowd and trotted up Yakima avenue. Just what he did to amuse himself during the day is not known, but when the train was ready to return to Grandview there was Tramp. On the return trip he attracted considerable attention, for those who saw him wondered how he spent the day and how he happened to be at the depot at the right time.

Since his return he has been popularly voted the town mascot as long as he chooses to hold the office.

DREAM OF ELOPEMENT TRUE

Mother Gets Son to Confess and Pardon Are Forgiven.

Pittsburg, Pa.—Dreaming that she saw her son, William C. Stiltzell, aged 21, and Marie Jean Fulton, aged 19, enjoying wedded bliss in a three-room flat, wealthy Mrs. W. H. Stiltzell, mother of young Stiltzell, persuaded her son to confess that he and Miss Fulton had been married on April 15 at Greenburg.

Upon the pair's return home neither Stiltzell nor the bride said anything about the marriage, but the dream of Mrs. Stiltzell's so weighed on her mind that she was unusually depressed, and the son, fearing she would become ill, confessed the elopement. The young pair were forgiven.

A man minus a grouch of some kind misses a lot of fun.

ROWDIES HOOT CARNEGIE.

Disturbance Marks First Speech as Lord Rector of Aberdeen University. London.—Rowdy scenes marked the delivery of Andrew Carnegie's address as Lord Rector at Aberdeen University at Aberdeen, Scotland. The students, the number of whom was large, hurled chairs and rugs about the hall and kept up an incessant din, singing and whistling, but finally permitting the ironmaster to proceed. After he had begun the rowdiness was resumed, but the proceedings closed with rousing cheers for Carnegie and Mrs. Carnegie. Carnegie advised the students to "remain teetotalers until you have become millionaires."

Many a man is so unlucky that if he ever got a place on the ladder of fame the rungs would break.
