

DISORDERED NERVES

sometimes start from mental strain or indigestion, but more often from general weakness, and lead to appalling conditions unless checked.

Treat the cause, not the effect.

SCOTT'S EMULSION overcomes nervousness in a wonderful, permanent way by making life-sustaining blood corpuscles; it nourishes the nerve centres and acts as a bracing tonic to build you up.

Scott's Emulsion does not stupefy—it feeds them in Nature's way.

PHOTOPLAY ...OFFERINGS...

News of the "movies"—Gossip of the pictures—Newest photodramas and Comedies of the screen.

Where to Go in Pendleton.

Orpheum.

An unusually good program for Friday's change. Four full reels of the best pictures.

1. An Official Appointment. Vitagraph. A warning to practical jokers. The joke is remedied, but late. An old colonel's heroism, a rebuke to fool's jest. Mr. Charles Kent plays the role of the old colonel, Mr. Teoft Johnson the secretary, and Miss Norma Talmadge his daughter.

2. Hereditly. Biograph. A white man meets an Indian maid who later becomes his purchased bride. A son is born. He grows up with his mother's Indian traits. Then the racial difference between father and son is felt. He compels his boy to go on a trip with him, but later during the trip he becomes ashamed of his Indian wife and boy. Broken guns and bad whiskey sold the Indians by the traders, inflame their desire for vengeance. In the coming attack the war cry stirs the young Indian's blood. The father's crimes prove his own destruction while the mother and her boy are claimed by their own.

3. "A Money" Essany. A corking good comedy, replete with sparkling situations. Cal and Billy, two young chaps, turn over their money to their friend Stepping, for safe keeping. He promises to let them have a certain amount each day. One day he refused them and they pawn his suit of clothes. When he finds his suit gone he is horrified, but the boys were more than horrified to find that the money was sewed up in the suit they pawned. After much trouble they find the suit on an old tramp.

4. Anne Boleyn. Pathe. An epoch making occurrence and one of the most important in all history. The perfect coloring gives the atmosphere a grandeur which is prevalent in the palaces of kings. It is the story of Henry VIII of England and his infatuation for Anne Boleyn which resulted in the founding of a new religion.

The Pastime.

The home of good pictures, Friday's change of program.

"Michael McShane Matchmaker," Vitagraph. John Bunny plays the picture's central character, Michael McShane, who teaches Danny O'Toole, bashful laddie-buck that he is, how to make love successfully, to pretty Colleen O'Brian. We think it one of the best things Bunny has done. The producer's whole method in making the offering is worth high praise. It is thoroughly Irish in its characters, its scenes and its action. Mabel Lumley (Colleen O'Brian) is lovely as a lassie just budding into womanhood. Charles Cox's Danny is perfect. Beatrice Grover, as Colleen's mother, and James Pryor as her father, fill their parts in perfect satisfaction.

"Victims of Fate," American Pathe. Lieut. Summers, military attaché to the American embassy at Japan, marries a Japanese girl, and they live happily until he is ordered back to America. He then informs her their marriage must terminate in the regular course provided by Japanese custom. The girl is broken hearted. Her brother, Count Midsuka vows vengeance. When Summers returns to Washington he resumes his acquaintance with the pretty daughter of General Meeker and they are soon to be married. Count Midsuka follows the lieutenant from Japan, presents his card to Gen. Meeker and tells him of the lieutenant's action and the tragedy it caused. The general is furious and calls Summers before him. The lieutenant confronted by the Japanese, confesses his duplicity and surrenders his sword.

"An Indian's Friendship," Essanay. Mr. G. M. Anderson featured in his world-famous role of "Bronch Billy." A strong, vigorous tale of days in the old west.

"A Doctor For an Hour," Edison. A farce in which a tramp impersonates his victim and there's no end of fun in the resulting complications.

"Dian France," A picture of high educational value.

Cosy.

For Wednesday and Thursday, a program that you'll like.

"The Redemption of Riverton," Victor. Florence Lawrence and Owen Moore play the leads in this human interest drama. To the wicked little town of Riverton came the Rev. John Gibson. On learning the condition of affairs he started to reform the town and being of a vigorous personality he resorted to forceful methods and personal combat to win. Ably assisted by Miss Jane Math he was the final victor. Because it portrays human nature and is spirited throughout it will be liked.

"The Call of the Desert," Nestor. A big theme, well worked out. The man and his wife gave up the hard life of the desert mining camp and went to the city. The man tired of this and went back to the desert. But the wife lingered, till she finally yields to the "call" and also returns. To those who like the big open, out door life this picture makes a strong appeal.

"The Better Part," Gem. A strong story of the mountain country. The heroine, whose eyes are under treatment tears away the bandages so she may rescue a young man. In doing so she sacrifices her sight for life. She wins his love, which is the "better part."

"The Black Hand," Eclair. A careless painter left the imprint of his black hand in various parts of the house, much to the alarm of the millionaire owner. Very funny and lively.

"Mother's Bank Roll," Eclair.

Cottolene at Cake-Baking Time

It is mighty hard to obtain uniform results in cake making—if you use butter or lard—because both of these products vary so in quality. Cottolene is always uniform—always produces good results. With its use, you can count on a certain kind of cake being the same every time. Cottolene sells at about the price of lard, and is so rich that one-third less is required than either butter or lard.

TRY THIS RECIPE:

Cream 1/2 cup Cottolene, add 1 cup sugar and mix in alternately 1/2 cup milk and 2 cups pastry flour in which 2 teaspoons baking powder and 1/2 teaspoon salt have been well sifted. Beat well, add the well beaten yolks and whites of 3 eggs separately. Bake in two layers. Use any desired filling or frosting.

Mother put the bank role in the kitchen stove for safe keeping. Extremely funny.

"ODD EYE" IS LATEST LURE OF WOMEN

One Larger and Brighter Optic, They Think, Appeals to Man's Love for Unusual.

Paris.—The odd eye is the latest freak fancy of the fashionable women, but to obtain it she must be prepared to risk serious damage to her sight.

If you wish to be alluring, weird, mysterious, have odd eyes to match the odd side of your dress.

Nowadays gowns have in many cases an odd-sided appearance.

Some have only one sleeve, the second arm being covered with floating chiffon. Other dresses are trimmed and draped at the back on one side only—or laces and soft materials are swathed around one hip or one side of the bodice and not the other.

This has evolved the idea of the odd eye, and now women are using belladonna to make one eye larger and brighter in appearance than the other, and they are even dropping coloring matter into one eye to make it a different tint.

A woman who has adopted the "odd eye" fashion recently stated that it is supposed to fascinate men who are known to like anything unusual.

because it attracts them in the first place, and the more mysterious women are the more men will think about them.

AT THE OREGON THEATRE

"The Red Rose."

On December 12 at the Oregon theatre, "The Red Rose," a musical comedy with Zoe Barnett in the leading role, will be on view. The libretto of the piece is by Harry B. and Robert B. Smith, with music by Robert Hood Bowers. The scene of the play is Paris, the first act in an art school, the second in the grounds of a wealthy baron and the third at the Four Arts Hall, Paris. The company comprises some sixty-five people, including a large and attractive chorus. The production is under the personal direction of John C. Fisher of "Florodora" fame, which in itself is a guarantee of art that is best in this field of endeavor.

Depicts Circus Life.

A conflict of emotions, wherein all that is hateful is arrayed against all that is good, is the theme of the delightful comedy drama, "Polly of the Circus." Frederick Thompson's massive production with pretty Miss Elsie St. Leon in the title part, which comes to the Oregon theatre on Dec. 9.

Circus life is depicted, three scenes showing a ring performance with a regulation size ring, the outside of the tent, known as the "pad" room, where the actors lumber up, and the rear of the tent, showing the circus going away at night after the performance, while the other scenes are laid in the parsonage of the Rev. John Douglass, the village parson, who falls in love with Polly to the amazement and distaste of the village people. The gossip starts when Polly is taken to the Rev. Douglass' home suffering from an injury received during a performance of the circus. Deacon Strong, a pillar of the church, is the villain, and does all he can to hurt Polly in the eyes of Douglass. All that is done in opposition, makes Douglass all the more determined to marry the little circus rider. The last scene shows the circus winding its way over the hill in the distance, while Polly and the minister are left alone together, she consents to give up the circus life for her love for her preacher.

Mr. Thompson has given this production a scenic equipment that has surpassed anything he has ever attempted, and it is as truly portrayed as can be for use on the stage.

This is the same play that was seen at the Liberty Theatre, New York City for one solid year.

The more pains you take with your eating the fewer you will have afterward.

PRETTY JAP WEDS

SEATTLE HOTEL EMPLOYEE WINS NIPPON BEAUTY

Romance of Long Time Culminates in Wedding in Seattle With Court Officers as Witnesses.

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 6.—The United States courtroom was the scene, and the Federal grand jury and court officials witnesses of a picturesque marriage ceremony when Hana Fukugawa, said by many of her countrymen to be the prettiest Japanese girl on the Pacific Coast, became the wife of T. Saito, a hotel employe of this city. The wedding marks the final triumph of a romance which followed the traditional rough pathway of true love.

Representatives of several government departments attended. The service was read by Dr. W. A. Major, of Bethany Presbyterian church, and Miss Cordelia Thiel, chief clerk for the district attorney, was bridesmaid. J. W. Augustine, foreman of the grand jury and a prominent merchant, was master of ceremonies and his fellow-members of the jury contributed with him in supplying the fees for the marriage license, ring, flowers and other incidents of the ceremony.

Miss Fukugawa and Mr. Saito both appeared as witnesses against Albert H. Young, K. Sugira, Shotaro Washio, and Koyama Ita. In their testimony their own story played a prominent part and marriage was suggested. They first became acquainted in San Francisco.

She followed him to Tacoma and last summer, she testified, she was kidnaped by Shotaro Washio, who had been a suitor in San Francisco, and other Japanese who represented themselves as government officials. Saito took up a search for her and in August found she had been taken to San Francisco. He followed and was severely beaten on the wharf by friends of Washio. He was again attacked when he found her at 1929 Stockton street, San Francisco, and tried to rescue her. The last fracas came to the attention of the immigration authorities, who rescued her and brought her to Seattle.

The charges against the four men are the result of the kidnaping.

Your Child's Health Your First Thought

If you have children, naturally your first thoughts are for their health. You certainly want them to develop strong, healthy constitutions. The most careful attention must be given when children show the first symptoms of the many common ailments. Perhaps they are weakly and thin, or grow too fast, thus sacrificing strength. These and other apparently minor ailments may be the forerunner of a weak constitution for life.

Such children need Jayne's Tonic Vermifuge which is essentially a children's tonic. First of all, it will also improve the appetite and will add strength to the other organs of the body. In cases of thin or impure blood, it increases the number of red corpuscles enabling the enriched blood to keep the body healthy and strong.

Among the most common ailments that children develop is that of a disordered stomach, leading to an impaired digestion. In many cases this trouble is due to parasites in the intestinal tract. To correct such trouble, Jayne's Tonic Vermifuge is unsurpassed. For more than eighty years millions of children have been restored to health through the use of this tonic. Insist upon Jayne's; accept no other. Sold by druggists everywhere. Dr. D. Jayne & Son, Philadelphia, Pa.
