DEPOT SALOONS MUST GO BY 1914 IS EDICT

Salem, Ore., Feb. 21.—The Hoskins senate bill, prohibiting saloons in depots after 1914, and aimed especially at the saloons in the Oregon Electric depot in Portland, is now up to Governor West.

Bonebrake of Benton, a minister, said he didn't see why a year's latitude should be allowed the saloons.

"Well, I've always believed half a loaf was better than no bread," commented Howard of Douglas, the other minister in the house.

Bonebrake assented then, and the bill was passed.
