Woman and Her Varied Interests

Entertaining One's Guests.
"You must come home with me and be my guest. You will give joy to me and I will do all that is in my power to honor you."

The above quotation from Shelley which I came across the other morning while browsing in my library appealed especially to me as I had just been listening to the confidential complaints of an intimate friend about a week's stay she had made at a country house, writes Mrs. Edward Brunson Clark. My friend is a rather lively young matron who as she expresses it likes to have "something doing" most of the time. She does not ask for anything elaborate but is satisfied with small pleasures.

Our conversation set me wondering if we are not as a nation apt to run to two extremes when we entertain our friends for any length of time. We either rush them from one thing to the other so rapidly that they scarcely have time to breathe or we allow them to be bored. It is thoughtless and selfish to invite visitors to one's home and leave them to pick up diversion as best they may and it is also no less an infliction of cruelty on innocent persons to over-entertain—not to leave the visitor a moment's time to read a book or paper, to take a nap or to write a few letters.

I have found that it invariably works out excellently when planning the entertainment of guests to have part of their day open in which the visitors may be left to their own devices. For instance, if the morning is to be given over to a long drive or a motor trip or something similar then let the guests do as they please during the afternoon, which gives the hostess time to prepare something for their entertainment in the evening. Unless the day has been very strenuous indeed something should be planned out for the evening, no matter how simple. Don't leave guests, as my friend expressed it, "to look at the moon." Of course, there are cases where people prefer to be left alone to take their pleasure very quietly.

Then, there is another don't I want to impress upon would be hostesses if they desire to be popular with their friends and want them to come again, and that is don't invite more people at once than you have comfortable accommodations for. Hospitality today is looked at askance. If the visitor has to be asked to sleep with some restless child or two guests who know each other but slightly are requested to share the same room.

This caution does not of course, apply to the case of a lot of young people asked to stay over night for a big dance that occurs at some nearby country club. Young girls and men are usually so eager for such festivities that they are glad to put up with anything.

In inviting guests to visit one nowadays it is decidedly better form as well as much more sensible to give a definite invitation for a certain date and stipulate how long the visit is to extend.

If the hostess has horses or an automobile she should meet the guests at the station or boat either in person or the chauffeur or coachman should be sent to look out for them. If her establishment boasts no such luxury then she should write to her guests full information regarding stage lines or carriages that may be hired at the station or dock and in the latter case the guests should pay their own carriage hire.

The welcome guest is naturally the one who most gracefully falls in with the customs of the household, takes pains to be punctual at meals and shows her appreciation of the efforts that are made to entertain her.

One Egg for Two.

A reader of the Monitor offers this recipe, which she says "gives the only way I know whereby one egg will serve two people": Boil one egg hard. If for breakfast, the egg may be boiled the day before. Cut open and remove the yolk. Cut the white in small bits and stir into a white sauce made as usual by rubbing one spoonful of butter with one of flour until blended and then adding a cup of sweet milk and cooking to a cream. Remove from the fire and spread the sauce over slices of toasted bread from which the crust has been removed. Rub the yellow of the egg through a sieve or colander and sprinkle each slice of toast with it. This is sometimes called eggs a la golden rod.

On Washing Day.

A little soap shredded into the boiler on washing day makes the clothes a good color and if you put a small piece into the starch it will make the ironing easier and it imparts a lovely gloss to the clothes, according to the New York Press. All the little bits of soap that are left over should be put into a jar with a little water. Place the jar in a moderate oven and leave until the soap has dissolved. This is excellent for washing flannels and woolen things.

HAS NO FAITH IN FAIR HEADS

Speckles Declares He Lacks Confidence in Men Who Are Conducting Exposition.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—"The exposition corporation is in control of men in whom I have no confidence," This was the declaration of Rudolph Speckles, banker and man of public affairs, and President Moore of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, listened to it unmoved, with only the width of a table between him and the speaker.

Speckles was testifying in the suit which the exposition has brought against him to compel payment in full of his subscription of $25,000, on which he defaulted after sending his check for $2500 as first payment.

Conditions Not Met, He Says. Across the face of a statement of alleged indebtedness Speckles wrote in returning it:

"The conditions of my subscription have not been fulfilled and I do not owe your corporation anything."

In testifying he explained that his subscription had been given in the understanding that federal aid for the exposition was to have been sought and that such had not been the event. "To what men do you refer when you say you have no confidence in the exposition?" asked counsel.

Names Are Given.

"To certain men whom I believe in control of the board of directors," "Name them."

"They are Charles C. Moore, Thornwell Mullaly and Mr. De Young. Moore is president of the exposition, Mullaly is assistant to the president of the United Railways and M. H. De Young is the owner of the San Francisco Chronicle."

SEAT HOG COMPELLED TO PAY DOUBLE FARE

GENEVA, Aug. 14.—It doesn't pay to hog an extra seat on a Swiss passenger train, unless one is prepared to pay for it.

Owing to the crowded state of the Geneva-Basel express the other day, a tourist had to stand in the corridor but subsequently noticed that a seat was occupied by a pile of hand baggage. A passenger sitting next to it declared that the baggage belonged to a traveler who had gone to the dining car and wished to retain his seat.

The seat had not been claimed at Lausanne, and the passenger in question alighted, taking up the baggage. The tourist grabbed him and then informed the station agent that the baggage belonged to a man in the dining car. The passenger then had to confess that the baggage belonged to him and he had to pay for two seats.

The lesson was a severe one, but as many tourists are addicted to the same conduct it is well to know the penalty.

PITTSBURGH, PA., Aug. 14.—Resolutions congratulating the trainmen and conductors of forty-two eastern railroads on their victory in forcing the roads to arbitrate the wage demands, were expected to be passed when the International Brotherhood of Stationary firemen met in annual session. ITALY KEEPS VERDI'S BIRTH

National Celebration Opens Today—Will Continue Till Oct.—Many Ceremonies.

PARMA, Italy, Aug. 14.—Italy's national celebration of the anniversary of the birth of Verdi was formally opened here today and will continue until October 15. The house in which Verdi was born here was opened to the public this morning with elaborate ceremonies, as was also a national theatrical exposition, devoted entirely to the history and development of the stage in Italy from the days of the early Greeks and Romans down to the present day. A goodly section of the exposition is devoted to the works of Verdi.

Beginning today there will be daily concerts of the opera composer's music. Choral societies from all over Italy have planned pilgrimages here to give concerts and enter into the competitions which have been arranged for the purpose of popularizing Verdi's music. An opera season will be begun the first week in September in the Royal Opera house at which all of Verdi's masterpieces will be presented in their chronological order under the direction of Campini of the New York Metropolitan Grand Opera house, who was born at Parma. The casts will include practically every great opera singer in the world today, all of whom have donated their services for the centenary celebration.

Later in September an immense concert hall, the largest in Italy, to be known as "Sala Verdi," will be opened and a national monument to Verdi unveiled. The culmination of the ceremonies will come on October 10, the anniversary of Verdi's death, when a world-wide pilgrimage will be made to the tomb of the composer at Milan. Assurances already have been received that the principal musical societies of practically every country will be represented at this pilgrimage.

INDIGESTION GOES WHEN YOU EAT SAND

At Least This Is What Some Say Who Have Tried Remedy—Any Kind of Sand Goes.

MUNCIE, Aug. 14.—Sand—parboiled, baked or fried—has cured stomach trouble for George W. Cromer, former congressman from the Eighth congressional district; John Fitzgibbons, president of the Muncie Ornamental Iron company, and Harry W. Long, lawyer, and twice prosecuting attorney of Delaware county. Today, despite much laughter, that sometimes greets them when they tell the stories of their recovery from indigestion, dyspepsia and other stomach troubles, they are spreading the gospel of sand.

Fitzgibbons read of the sand cure in a Chicago newspaper and tried it out. It worked wonders for him. It was much the same way with Cromer and Long. With only half faith, but desperate from years of suffering, they tried out the sand cure and declare they are again sound and whole in the regions of the stomach and that their general health has been improved seventy-five per cent.

"But why different treatment of the sand," Fitzgibbons was asked.

"I can't explain it. Raw sand will do the trick for some people. Baked sand will do it for me. Another might have to have the sand parboiled, steamed or fried. Just look me over. Before I took the baked sand cure I was nervous, generally run down, and subject to violent attacks of stomach trouble which made me worthless at my desk and a nuisance to my friends and my family. If there is anyone in the world who feels better than I do these days or who can stand more work and be pleasanter about it than myself, I'd like to get a look at him. The sand I use is the common ordinary sand with the dirt picked out."

RECALL IS IN PROGRESS AGAINST 5 AT SALEM

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 14.—Recall petitions are being circulated here against Councilman Gideon Stolz, H. W. Hatch, John Turner and Chief of Police Shedeck and City Recorder C. E. Elgin, and it is understood that a recall petition will be out soon against Mayor B. L. Stevens.

The movement is being put forward very secretly, the petitions being kept under cover as much as possible and the source of the petition being kept secret. It is reported that no specific allegations against the city officials are contained in the petitions. They allege that the men are not serving constituents faithfully and are not working for the best interests of the city. The petition against Stolz was the first out, having been in circulation for several weeks.

GREAT RAIN AND WIND REWD CROPS OF BAKER

BAKER, Ore., Aug. 14.—A fierce electric storm struck Baker shortly before 5 o'clock Sunday evening, causing destruction of property and crops. The rainfall was accompanied by a heavy wind, and almost reached the proportions of a cloudburst. The rain came in such volume that the storm sewers would not carry the water from the business district, and sidewalks were overflowed and cellars filled with water, in many cases destroying goods stored in the basements. The unique sight of a row-boat on Main street was one of the features, the craft being a part of a water carnival company equipment that is showing here this week.

Socialist Leader Dead.

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—August Bebel, head of the German socialist party, died at Grauhunden.

SAYS SALOME WAS BUT 11 YEARS OLD WHEN SHE DANCED

Performed Before Herod and Got the Head of John the Baptist—Discovery Made.

PARIS, Aug. 14.—Salome, the alluring dancer of Biblical fame, was only 11 years old when she performed before Herod and was paid for her dance with the head of John the Baptist, according to a report read recently before the French Academy of Science by Theodore Reinach. M. Reinach has just returned from the Orient where he studied the coins of the ancient Nicaea, capital of Little Armenia over which Salome ruled. According to portraits of the notorious princess as shown on the coins, she was quite pretty, had classic features and was unusually intelligent. But, says M. Reinach, her husband, Aristobule, was a beast as to ugliness and utterly stupid looking if medallion reliefs of him may be relied on.

SERVANTS USE THE WILSON AUTOMOBILE

WINDSOR, Vt., Aug. 14.—The appearance of the big, purring cars from Harakenden House, where the president's family are spending the summer, on the streets and roads about here, do not create the excitement and comment that they first did. At first, when the natives recognized the White House automobiles they perked up considerably at an opportunity to see the First Lady of the Land and her daughters. But it wasn't always the president's family who rode in the automobiles.

Mrs. Wilson believes that the whole household came here for rest and as much vacation as they could get, and in order to carry out this principle she lets the servants go for the mail and occasionally take a short spin after dusk in the White House machines. The women servants are given considerable "time off" which they generally spend at the "movies." The men spent most of their spare time playing the ancient and honorable game of pool or billiards at the one estimably respectable pool and billiard parlor in these parts.

Costly Treatment.

"I was troubled with constipation and indigestion and spent hundreds of dollars for medicine and treatment," writes C. H. Hines, of Whitlow, Ark. "I went to a St. Louis hospital, also to a hospital in New Orleans, but no cure was effected. On returning home I began taking Chamberlain's Tablets, and worked right along. I used them for some time and am now all right." Sold by all dealers.—Adv.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS

PORTLAND, Aug. 14.—The Portland postal savings bank, just twenty three months old, is a husky commercial infant, according to figures which show that $807,304 is on deposit in local banks. This does not represent the total that has been deposited during the 23 months, which runs into millions, but the amount actually on hand.

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—After devoting almost all his life to a study of cancer, Prof. Edwin Goldman, professor of surgery at Freiburg University, is dead from cancer of the liver.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Clubdom received a nasty shock when Sir George Alexander, England's famous actor-manager, who has long been regarded the best dressed man in London, confessed that he had worn the same dress suit for 12 years. In an article in a weekly paper he declared that the subject of fashion scarcely inter-

BELOGRADE, Aug. 14.—When the mayor of Mokrling became ill no suitable adult could be found to take his place as all had gone to war. It was decided to let his 15 year old son have a try at the job. The boy performed the duty so successfully that now that his father has recovered the citizens refuse to restore the old man to the position.
