SEEN IN SHOPS.

Scrap baskets of the colored raffia in combination with white willow are very pretty. They are so closely woven that no scraps, however small, can sift out—a decided point in their favor says the Newark News.

An aluminum quart measure has the cupfuls marked on it.

Norfolk jackets of angora come in solid colors edged in white. If the jackets are in white, the edging is in color.

Cuff protectors of a preparation resembling transparent celluloid are shaped quite like turn-over cuffs, even the stitching being simulated.

Some new banks for the children are made to resemble such fruits as peaches, oranges, apples and pears.

Coats of Fall Will Be Longer. There have been made decided changes in suits that will radically stamp a suit as the new season, says a writer for the New York Press.

Coats will be longer, especially at the back. The cutaway in the model that has been accorded high favor.

In front there is great opportunity for decoration, and the most noticeable feature is the waistcoat. This is separate or incorporated in the suit; but it gives a note of color to a jacket and allows of so many novel touches that it virtually makes the coat. The waistcoats are of satin, all corded silks, suede cloth, chambray, moire and washable pique. Bindings of braid and trimmings of buttons are the decorative features and a smoothness of fit is essential, or else the entire effect is lost.

The waistcoats of these fall suits have square, pointed and crossed tops, with inset crossed revers of lace and satin and moire collars. Pockets are also used for the comfort of all wearers.

On the fall suits there will be used sleeves of the long, fitted type and the kimono sleeve with the dropped armhole.

The cotton effect, especially at the front, is particularly striking. From the front a sweeping line over the hips and a long tail at the back finish the coat.

A Russian model of velvet will bid for applause. The pelum of the skirt has considerable fullness, and rich fur trims the collar line and the cuffs. Braid and buttons giving a dashing effect to the line of fastening.

In the skirts of the fall suits there will be many innovations. The long line from waist to hem is rarely left unbroken. Seams are modified by tabs, extensions and flaps. Side seams are slashed. There is drapery at all points, the folds around the top of the skirt being the newest, and giving the pettop effect, which is a sign of the times.

Fullness at the back of the skirt is held down flat under a short strap belt or a group of tucks.

Buttons, buttons everywhere is the cry when one looks at the suits for fall. They are useful and ornamental. The slashes on the skirt have frequently regular buttonholes and buttons which work. This keeps the length of the slash—and some of them come quite high—under the control of the wearer.

A military trimming of braid and buttons in horizontal lines on a coat is sure to appeal to the woman who prefers a jaunty style. A straight military collar is used with this type of coat.

Black and white mixtures, leather color, hunter's green, dark blue and a burgundy red are the colors that sound a neutral note. Bright touches are given in buttons and the glimpses of a vest.

Home Hints.

The best way to make boiled ham juicy and tender is to leave it in the water in which it is boiled until quite cold.

Orange peel dried and grated makes a very fine yellow powder that is delicious flavoring for cakes and puddings.

To brighten a carpet sweep it with a broom dampened (not wet) in salt water. Care should be taken to shake the broom well after each dipping.

Nominations Are Sent Senate.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The following nominations were sent to the senate: John Randolph Tucker, to be federal judge for the second district of Alaska; F. M. Tuxton to be federal district attorney in the same district.

Miss Lotta L. Fleek, librarian of the Pendleton library for the past three years, will come to Portland this month to accept a position as general assistant in the new public library. Miss Fleek, who is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin library school, has managed the destinies of the Pendleton library with great success during her tenure of office in that city, and her leaving is the occasion of sincere regret among Pendletonians.—Journal.

The Y. P. S. C. E. of the Christian church has arranged for a unique form of entertainment tomorrow evening in the lecture room of the church building. It will be a Chaussette (sock) Social at which the size of the guest's foot will determine the amount of his contribution. A musical and social program has been prepared and lunch will be served.

Pendleton society is out in large numbers this afternoon to attend the card party in the Eagle-Woodman hall at which Mrs. John Vert is hostess. Both bridge and five hundred are being played and an orchestra is present to furnish music during the afternoon. It is one of the largest affairs on the fall social calendar.

On account of the convention of the Federation of Women's Clubs at Hood River this week, the Thursday Afternoon Club, which was to have met with Mrs. Tom Thompson tomorrow, has postponed its meeting until Saturday afternoon.

Portland friends of Dr. and Mrs. Fred Llenallen, of Pendleton, will be pleased to learn of their decision to live in Portland, where Dr. Llenallen will practice medicine. They will be domiciled at Fifth and Hawthorne streets.—Journal.

Mrs. Sam R. Thompson entertained a few friends informally at her home on East Court street last evening in honor of Miss Martha Skewiss of Tacoma who is her guest for a few days.

Mrs. M. A. Rader, well known former Pendleton lady, arrived in the city this morning from Walla Walla where she has been visiting relatives.

Mrs. Charles J. Smith of Portland is visiting in the city and is the guest of Mrs. R. E. Ringo.

IRRIGATION MEET HELD AT ECHO

(Special Correspondence.) ECHO, Ore., Oct. 8.—The directors of the Paradise Irrigation district and of the Teel Irrigation district held a joint meeting at their offices here Tuesday morning. In the afternoon the land owners under both districts held a meeting at the same place. The purpose of both meetings was to discuss ways and means of assessments of land, equalization, etc.

The directors will be in session at Echo for the next ten days as a board of equalization.

A large number of out of town visitors were here in attendance at the meeting. Among them were C. S. Terpening of Pendleton; L. Schmutz of Walla Walla; Joe Conley of Pendleton; Wm. Slusher of Noll; T. P. Goss of Walla Walla; Frank Sloan of Stanfield and others.

The heavy rain that fell here Monday afternoon and night was a great blessing to the farmer, the stockman and the traveler.

Within eighteen hours there was a fall of one and one-tenth inches of rain.

T. D. Matthews returned to his home in Pendleton on Tuesday after a business visit here.

B. F. Atkinson, wife and son Lee, visited with friends in Pendleton last Saturday.

F. T. George was transacting business at the county seat today.

SEATTLE TO CONSIDER COMMISSION FORM

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT

IT'S GRANDMOTHER'S RECIPE TO KEEP HER LOCKS DARK, GLOSSY, THICK.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that besides a beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and thinning hair.
