The Orpheum.
For Tuesday's change a splendid two part Selig "The Young Mrs. Eames." Featuring Kathleen Williams and Hobart Bosworth. The psychology of love is wonderfully pictured in this modern emotional play. Doris Eames, attractive young widow, becomes engaged to Gerald Leighton, an impulsive youth. Her daughter Lucille comes home from boarding school and Gerald is so much impressed with her that he forgets the mother and makes violent love to the daughter. Mrs. Eames overhears it and in a bitter and humiliating moment realizes she is growing old. She gives back the boy his ring and fortunately fate holds something better for her and a faithful bachelor appears and claims her.

The End of the World. Biograph. Larry and Muggsy were on their summer vacation when eats became scarce. They fell in with a band of Holy Grainers and everything went well until the prophet appeared. Poor Larry!

The Otter. Pathéplay. An entertaining and educational colored film. In the Abruzzi, Italy, Pathéplay. This shows a section of Sunny Italy, famous for its splendid scenery.

Sisyphe. Selig. The story of the regeneration of a spoiled boy.

A Saturday Holiday. Biograph. He goes for a joy ride, loses his watch and things look bad for the poor landlady.

IF HAIR IS TURNING GRAY, USE SAGE TEA

HERE'S GRANDMOTHER'S RECIPE TO DARKEN AND BEAUTIFY FADED HAIR.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks dry, waxy and scraggly, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred fold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant.

Pastime.
This theater will present Tuesday and Wednesday a pictorial adaptation of the symbolic story from the pen of the world-famous March King, John Phillip Sousa, entitled "The Fifth String." It is so ordained that whosoever shall but even touch the fifth string while playing the violin shall pay the penalty. A successful musician, everman, lionized by society, plays upon the four strings of the violin, and finds his every wish gratified. To him comes love, power and success. He is urged to play the forbidden fifth string and in spite of his better judgment consents to do so, and for which he pays the forfeit.

The Engaging Kid. Lubin. George Cagle, spending a vacation at the seaside, is a flirt and finds himself engaged to four girls. Frankie Somers, however, is the real one, but the others threaten suits. George appeals to his mother, who is an actress. She makes up as an impossible old woman and assuming the air of a virago, quickly convinces the three injured ones that they could not stand for her as a mother-in-law. She then sets things right with the real one and gives her benediction.

Trimming a Boob. Bob Green a hayseed, comes to town with a bank roll, determined to double it by investment. A sport lures him into a gambling joint. Just as Bob loses his last dollar, the joint is raided by the police. The gamblers find all the exits blocked. Bob tries the roof, but is to fat to get through the trapdoor. He sits at the top of the ladder. The gamblers try to get through to the roof but Bob will not move until they come through with his money and their own as well. Bob goes home with his bank roll doubled.

A Jungle Flirtation. Pathe comedy.

Cosy.
Program for Monday and Tuesday: "The Veteran Mounted Police Horse." Two reels. Thanhouser. This two part film story reminds one of the famous book "Black Beauty" in that it depicts an old police horse turned out to pasture telling the story of his life to a young colt, the incidents, some stirring and some pathetic, being shown on the screen. It makes one realize how a horse feels and will make a strong appeal to everyone.

"Of Such is the Kingdom." Bellamy. A beautiful child drama. The minister did not wish his little girl to play with the poor neighbor's children; but when they saved his child from death in a heroic way he realized that his attitude was wrong. "Of such is the kingdom of heaven."

"House Hunting." Majestic. This story is exciting enough to make it a real feature. The hand-to-hand counter between the young man and the three ruffians is full of thrills aplenty.

"Artillery Practice at Montauk Point." Majestic. A glimpse of the great guns in action.

The Wilsons—Jean and Peggy—in an entire change of songs today. These clever entertainers wish to announce that during their engagement here they will sing any song requested. If you have a favorite song, new or old, you would like to hear sung, leave notice at the box office.

Alta Theater.
Tonight repeats last night's bill of pictures and vaudeville. The Merkle Sisters in a dainty singing and dancing act was substituted at the last minute for the sketch team booked and advertised to open last night. Howard and Esher in a rattle and bang fast talking act is in the same bill. Four especially good photographs complete the bill.

12 Funny Clowns.
The comedy element of the Al G. Barnes Big 3-Ring Wild Animal Circus program has been given particular attention. Twelve funny clowns—not the "smutty" kind, adorned by a number of comedy animals, supply places in the entertainment where one can relax after seeing an exciting, shivery wild animal act and have a good hearty laugh.

"Votes for Women." a comedy by the clown suffragettes, is a real scream. These "ladies" also show the very latest creations in a hobble skirt, sheath and other popular gowns. The milking of "Daisy" and watering the giraffe are two other clean comedy offerings by the clowns. Totoduoro, the famous fun-maker and his dog "Spot" in "hunting rabbits" is a very clever bit of travesty. These clowns are continuously busy with their antics. One can't keep from laughing.

"The Barber Shop" and "laundry comedies, given by a troupe of elephants always provoke a big laugh. To see such cumbersome brutes shaving one another is especially comical. "Danger" and "Dynamic" mules, have a standing offer of a dollar per minute to any one who can stick on their backs. Many riders try for the dollar. The one result, however, is inevitable—they go away without the money.

None of the glitter, tinsel, spangles, pink lemonade, sawdust rings, nor general good time spirit has been taken from the Barnes show. They're all in its make-up. Over 250 educated animals appear on the program. The four-hand, glittering, mile-long street parade is given at 10:30. Two performances will be given here Wednesday, October 15.

STOP THIEF PROVES TO BE A SIDE SPLITTER

The fall season at the Oregon theater was formally inaugurated last night by the presentation of Cohan and Harris' three act farce, "Stop Thief" and a crowded house was present to enjoy the opening attraction. If the first offering is any index of the class of attractions to be served up this season, Manager Welch need entertain no fears of poor patronage. The Pendleton theater goes enjoy the good things of the road and not a one but is loud in praise of "Stop Thief" and the admirable company which presented it.

The farce is one of the kind which defies competition by the movies and emphasizes the fact that the play can never supplant the stage production when the latter is high class. "Stop Thief" is by far the best farce that has entertained a Pendleton public for many years. It is one sequence of comedy situations and the audience of last evening was simply convulsed with laughter from first to last, even during the silent scene of the final act.

The company was one of balanced talent. Elmer Booth as Jack Dugan, the thief, was a show in himself but the success of the piece did not rest on his efforts alone. Albert Tavernier as the absent minded head of the house and Lydney Stone as James Cunney, the English bridegroom, did some clever acting and furnished innumerable laughs by reason of their growing suspicion that they were kleptomaniacs. The other characters were taken by players of more than ordinary talent. The action of the piece was amazing in its swiftness and complexity and differentiating it from the average farce, was the fact that there was always some new situation arising without having been anticipated.

"Stop Thief" made a hit in Pendleton and anything else with as much merit will receive patronage as good.

IDOL OF NEW YORK FANS

Christy Mathewson proved the heavy hitter on the field and the heavy hitting pitcher on the mound. He is the idol of the New York fans and endears him none the less to the fandom of the world. By his victory, the only one of the series which the Giants took, proved to the world that in spite of his 16 years of service, he is still the peerless pitcher that he was in his youth.

His defeat Saturday makes him none the less an idol to the New York fans and endears him none the less to the fandom of the world. By his victory, the only one of the series which the Giants took, proved to the world that in spite of his 16 years of service, he is still the peerless pitcher that he was in his youth.

The wonderful control which he has over the ball, combined with his brain power has kept him at the head of his profession for several seasons. "Matty" is one of the examples of the college man who has made good in baseball. In his college days he starred for the Buckness University team.

STORM WORKS HAVOC ON ALASKAN COAST

NOME, Alaska, Oct. 12.—Gasoline schooner Nera, which sailed from St. Michael a few days before the big storm of last Sunday, having on board Herbert Gulster, his native wife and three boys, with several others, whose names have not been learned, was wrecked on the beach at Simrock and all lost. Four bodies have been found.

The gasoline schooner Princess, which sailed from St. Michael with the Nera, was wrecked on the beach at Cape Prince of Wales. She was manned by Charles Green and Martin Bramble, who were drowned.

The gasoline schooner Sea Wolf, which has just returned from Siberia, reports that the gasoline schooner El Sueno is a total wreck at Kalooch Bay, Siberia. On board were Captain Alex Allen, E. T. McIntyre, Martin Morrison and a moving picture man, name could not be learned. It is believed all were drowned. The Eskimos say the El Sueno was abandoned before she struck.

The Sea Wolf sighted the wrecked schooner Marie at Cape Prince of Wales. She reports many other schooners, along with launches, dories and other small boats, strewn along the Siberian and Alaskan coasts.

The Sea Wolf picked up in St. Lawrence Bay the log of an unidentified vessel. The log, which is typewritten, tells of a bad leak, with water rising in the hold at the rate of four and a half inches an hour in spite of the pumps.

The log at first was supposed to be that of one of Stefansson's ships, because they are the only ones in the Arctic that are known to have typewriters aboard. But as Stefansson's boats have all reached Point Barrow safely this theory is not tenable.

Use Flax Thread.
A French expert in crochet work calls attention to the importance of using for some new raised crochet requiring a padding thread, says the Chicago Journal, a coarse make of flax thread instead of one of soft cotton generally selected for Irish lace work, which, being more twisted than the softer flax, is somewhat too stiff to be easily bent in some of the shapes apt to be in demand.
