ORDER DEPORTING BOAT AWAITS INVESTIGATION

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Advises from Admiral Badger at Vera Cruz indicate the court of inquiry which is investigating the case of Correspondent Boat will adjourn this afternoon, or tomorrow. Before doing so it is expected the court will examine Ensign William Richardson, from whom among other naval officers, Boat says he got the story of the shooting of unarmed fleeing Mexicans by the American landing parties during the occupation of Vera Cruz. Daniels asked Admiral Badger to telegraph a summary of the court's findings to Washington. It is understood the suspended deportation order issued against Boat will be held up until the full text of the testimony is received here.

If men received all they pray for they would soon be too lazy to get out of each others' way.

Deputy Sheriff West of Freeewater came in this morning in charge of a patient for the Eastern Oregon state hospital.

New Pop Corn Wagon.
L. S. Richardson has purchased a new pop corn wagon which made its appearance for the first time on Main street Saturday.

Celebration Still on.
The Indian celebration at Cayuse is still going on and the Indians camped there do not expect to break up until Wednesday. About 50 tepees are on the grounds. The celebration started the week of the Fourth.

Going as "War Correspondent."
William E. Lowell, son of Judge and Mrs. Stephen A. Lowell passed through Pendleton yesterday with the members of the Idaho national guard on the way to the annual encampment, and will be "war correspondent" for the Boise Statesman, with which paper he is employed.

Fight in Saloon; Arrested.
Pat Rooney and Jack Campbell were arrested Saturday night for starting a fight in a saloon. Rooney is alleged to have knocked another man down when Campbell interfered. Acting Judge Haley gave each a choice of paying $20 or spending 10 days in the city jail and they took the latter.

Idaho Guardsmen Here.
Members of company L, of Weiser, Idaho, national guard, stopped for a brief interval in Pendleton yesterday on the way to the annual encampment at Gearhart, Ore. The young citizen soldiers strolled about the streets until it was time for their train to leave. Members of the Midvale company were also with the special trains.

School Needs Sidewalk.
The construction of a concrete sidewalk along the property owned by the Struve estate leading to the new Matlock street bridge has caused sentiment to the effect the school district should build a walk on two sides of the Lincoln school so as to finish out the improvement. There is now a continuous walk from Raley street to the new bridge save along the school property.

Well Known Attorney Dies.
C. C. Gose, well known attorney of Walla Walla and who is well known in Pendleton, died this morning according to a message received here. Mr. Gose was operated upon for appendicitis a few weeks ago and shortly afterwards blood poisoning set in from which effects he could not recover. He was well along in years and had been with the firm of Gose & Gose, a pioneer partnership in Walla Walla.

Jailed for Fighting.
Frank Rice and Joe Murphy, both transients, were sent to jail this morning by acting Police Judge Haley in lieu of paying fines assessed against them of $10 and $5 respectively. They were arrested Saturday after a fight on the streets and when Officer Manning appeared started to run. They were overhauled and promptly locked up. Rice chose to serve five days and Murphy three days in the city jail.

Divorce is Granted; Another Denied.
Judge Phelps this morning allowed the decree of divorce in the case of Mrs. Jeannette Caldwell against her husband William Caldwell. In the divorce suit of Cross against Cross, the woman was denied a decree on the grounds she has not been a resident of the county for sufficient time. They formerly resided near Milton but later moved to Walla Walla where they had resided up to near the time that the divorce papers were filed.

Hero Officer Leaves for Home.
Deputy Sheriff George McDuffee, who was wounded during the fight with the hold-up men on train No. 5 on the O.-W. R. & N. two weeks ago, left for his home at Heppner yesterday morning. The wound which was superficial has healed beautifully and complications which were feared at first were happily avoided. The deputy sheriff expressed himself as feeling in excellent health and was full of praise for the way he has been treated at St. Anthony's hospital and by the friends he made while there. He said that he was hopeful of being able to return to Pendleton this year to see the Round-up.

Seeks to Find Smith.
R. McArthur, a prisoner in the county jail awaiting the grand jury on a charge of forgery, declares that if he can find Joseph Duwane Smith, he will be able to "square himself." According to Deputy Sheriff Estes, McArthur was arrested on a charge of forgery. The prisoner claims he gave Smith $50 out of some money he had saved while working for Contractor Buffon and that Smith told him he had deposited the money in a local bank to the credit of McArthur. It was on this sum which McArthur claims to have drawn a check believing the money was in the bank. Smith in the meantime left the city and now McArthur is anxious to locate him.

Perse for McDuffee.
To show their appreciation for the work of Deputy Sheriff George McDuffee of Heppner in breaking up the attempt to hold up O.-W. R. & N. train No. 5 and thus keeping the "bandits" out of their special Pullman cars, the delegation of Idaho politicians on the way home from the progressive convention at Boise has subscribed a purse of $125 which will be presented McDuffee as soon as he reaches home. Dr. J. B. Morris of Lewiston has the money which will be forwarded to the deputy. The politicians were traveling in two special Pullman cars which had the hold-up men entered would likely have got a rich haul. The action of McDuffee in opening fire on the ring-leader, killing him, and putting the others to flight, balked the plans of the trio.

Finding Much Water.
Water is being found in great quantities at Sand Hollow about 20 miles out of Echo, according to Judge Esteb of Echo, who is here today. On the ranch of W. D. Newland, five wells have been sunk and water was struck at 145 feet, giving a flow of 75 feet. The finding of water in such quantities will mean much to the Newland ranch and it is planned to carry the water to other farms where it is needed. Mr. Newland has a large ranch at Sand Hollow and is making extensive plans to reclaim a large area of it by use of the water.

Fined for Bootlegging.
Jack Joyce, accused on two charges of bootlegging, was found guilty in police court this morning and fined $50 or 20 days in jail. He accepted the latter sentence. Joyce pleaded not guilty to the charge but the hearing before Acting Police Judge Haley brought out sufficient evidence to convict him. The Indians to whom he is accused of having sold liquor are Charles Bennett, Sr., Charles Bennett, Jr., and Isaac Wack Wack.

Motorcyclist Collide.
While riding along Court street Sunday afternoon, both machines going in the same direction and each carrying another passenger besides the driver, the machines came together throwing all occupants off and bruising them. Ross Carroll, "Red" Williams, "Doc" Richardson and Bob Fouls were the four injured. One motorcycle was considerably damaged. The accident happened near the corner of Alta street and no one seems to have fixed the responsibility for the collision.

Enjoying His Trip.
Folsom Tallman, son of J. V. Tallman, is visiting with sisters of Mr. Tallman in Chicago. He attended the convention of school fraternities at Dayton, Ohio, where he represented the local fraternity, and thence went to Chicago. Before returning home he will go to Los Angeles to visit friends.

Elevator Nearly Ready.
The new elevator at the St. George Hotel will be placed in commission the latter part of the week, according to the present plans of the contractor. All the material has now arrived and most of it has been installed. The remodeling in the front of the hotel is also nearly completed.

Company Gives Drill.
While the members of Company L of the Idaho national guard were here for a brief time yesterday, they spent a short while in drilling and attracted quite a crowd to watch the maneuvers.

Son is Born.
A son was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Cooper of 312 South Main street. The little fellow will be named Robert Merle Cooper.

Bad Storm in East Washington.
That the thunder storm early this morning was much more severe in eastern Washington than in Pendleton is shown by reports received here today. Rev. Nathan Evans, who came over this morning from Ellens-

You wonder why we are the big busy store. The answer is simply this—we buy in large quantities for 70 busy stores direct from the mills and cut out the middle man's profits, in this way we secure exceptional values that one store merchants can't expect to get. Then too, we are always on the lookout to give The Golden Rule Stores' patrons high grade merchandise at the very lowest price possible. That's what we had in mind when we bought this big lot of short lengths of calicoes, gingham, skirts, chevits, crepes, table damask and many other items at about half their real value, and offer them to the trade in the same way.

Hundreds of them to select from and every one a bargain at double the price

UNVEIL STATUE TO CARNEGIE AT HIS BIRTHPLACE

The Andrew Carnegie celebration at Dunfermline, Scotland, the birthplace of the multi-millionaire steel magnate, on June 27, was the occasion of a public holiday in that city. The actual ceremony of unveiling the statue of the philanthropist occupied several hours. The town council and city council, the school board and other public bodies assembled at the municipal buildings and marched in a pain short order, calling to my partner to beat it."

The meeting late Saturday afternoon in Sheriff Taylor's office was the first which has taken place between McDuffee and the men who played the part in the train hold-up. Under circumstances more favorable than upon the first occasion. Neither the young prisoners, Meadors nor McDuffee was able to recognize each other. Deputy Sheriff James Estes introduced them and the trio shook hands.

There was a silence for several minutes which threatened to become embarrassing and the two prisoners shifted uneasily in their chairs and Meadors puffed nervously on a cigarette. The Heppner sheriff was the first to speak and he did so in a low voice as though speaking to some children who had gone wrong instead of addressing men who had figured in a train hold-up.

"I am sorry for you boys," he declared, "that you have got into this scrape."

"No one is more sorry than we are," responded Meadors, who showed a willing disposition to talk freely with the officer. "We made a mistake. So far as I am concerned this was the first and last time for Albert Meadors to figure in any such scrape as that was."

Meadors then brought up the question of who fired the shot that wounded Deputy McDuffee. The prisoner declared emphatically that although he got the automatic revolver from Manning's hand before the latter collapsed under the fire of the deputy sheriff, only one chamber had been fired and that by Manning. The other gun which Manning also carried, Meadors said, had been practically emptied although he was not prepared to say how many chambers had been fired. He said that when he got the automatic he immediately left the car.

On the other hand, while McDuffee did not dispute the statement with the young prisoner, the former declared later that despite the denial of Meadors, he was sure that he is the man who fired the bullet. Manning, says McDuffee, hit by the first bullet from the latter's gun, apparently had no idea of where to return the fire and according to the deputy sheriff held his guns so low as to have made it impossible for a shot to strike McDuffee. Meadors himself admitted that Manning apparently took no aim when he fired back.

Stoner, McDuffee thinks, is a youth who could be easily led into wrong doing but he is not so sure about Meadors. He thinks Meadors capable of doing some thinking for himself and would be hard to lead into anything that he did not care to enter.

The prisoners shook hands with McDuffee again before the latter's departure and wished him good luck.
