BATTLE OF AISNE RIVER CONTINUES; RESULT IN DOUBT

Allies Making Strenuous Efforts to Crumple Extreme Right Wing Under General Von Kluck.

RHEIMS STILL BOMBARDED

German Charges at Bayonet Point Are Constantly Being Repulsed—Long Range Artillery Duel Being Fought—Losses on Both Sides Are Said to Be Enormous.

PARIS, Sept. 21.—Fighting continued as fiercely as ever along the Aisne and to the southward this afternoon. Apparently it was still a draw.

The allies were making strenuous efforts to crumple the German extreme right under Von Kluck.

General Von Bluelow, at the right of the German center and between Von Kluck's and the crown prince's armies, was endeavoring to pierce the allies' line at Craonne. The fighting at this point was particularly desperate. Again and again the Germans charged at the point of the bayonet only to be beaten back with dreadful slaughter.

ISSUE STILL IN DOUBT. PARIS, Sept. 21.—The battle of the Aisne entered its second week today. The issue was still in doubt.

The conflict was settled down to an artillery duel this morning, some of the shelling being at a range of seven miles. All the batteries were masked.

That the German fire was wreaking terrible havoc in the ranks of the allies was admitted. How seriously the Germans were suffering could not be learned but it was said they were sustaining as heavy losses as the allies.

LOSSES ARE STAGGERING. LONDON, Sept. 21.—The allies are beginning to realize the strength of the German positions along the Aisne river today. The losses of the former are said to be staggering.

The war office, however, pronounced the situation favorable from the standpoint of the allies.

The position of General Von Kluck on the extreme German right was said to be serious despite the fact that he was receiving reinforcements estimated to be 100,000 strong.

The weather showed no improvement today and was seriously hampering operations. Rain fell steadily and the battlefields were being converted into huge bogs.

HEAVY PENALTY ASSESSED FOR SHOOTING PHEASANT

JOHN ZONES OF M'KAY CREEK FORFEITS LICENSE AND PAYS FINE.

Forfeiting his hunting license for the remainder of the year, losing his gun permanently and paying a fine of $25 and costs, amounting in all to $32.50, John Zones of McKay creek is sorry he shot a Chinese pheasant. He was arrested yesterday by District Game Warden Averill and pleaded guilty this morning when arraigned before Justice of the Peace Parkes.

Early yesterday forenoon Superintendent Horn of the county poor farm discovered a man hunting. As he has been carefully guarding and caring for the young pheasants which are becoming plentiful on the farm he started in pursuit. Before he reached him, however, the hunter, who later proved to be young Zones, killed a pheasant. He picked it up but when he saw Mr. Horn coming he dropped the bird and started for the hills on the run. The superintendent saved chase but the hunter proved to be younger and fatter of foot.

When Mr. Horn saw he could not overtake the young man he returned to the house, got his automobile and came to town after the game warden. The two men took up the trail where Mr. Horn had left it and soon had the game law violator under arrest.

In imposing sentence this morning Judge Parkes expressed surprise that anyone would shoot Chinese pheasants in this country where the sportsmen and farmers are going to so much trouble and expense to introduce them.

Montenegrins Successful.

CETTINJE, Sept. 21.—Montenegrin troops have occupied Rogbitza in the Austrian province of Bosnia. Rogbitza is only 10 miles from Sarajevo, the provincial capital.

2,000,000 MEN FIGHTING IN GALICIA; AUSTRIANS RETIRING SLOWLY BEFORE RUSSIAN ARMY

PETROGRAD, Sept. 21.—Two million men were fighting in Galicia today. The battle was the third general engagement on Austrian soil since the war began.

Today opened with the Russians strongly reinforced, driving General Dankl and his Austrian army backward with the czar's siege guns directing a heavy fire upon the stronghold of Przemysl on the River San which was replying furiously. Casualties on both sides, especially among the Austrians, were enormous, official dispatches said.

A drizzle of sleet and cold rain was reported, causing great hardship among the troops and rendering the roads so heavy that the retreating Austrians were compelled to abandon much artillery and transport equipment.

"HAPPY CANYON" WILL BE OPEN TO PUBLIC WEDNESDAY EVENING

"Cities can be built in a week but it takes generations to grow a forest," says the conservationists in pleading to campers to be careful with their fires. The first part of the quotation has been fully demonstrated here in Pendleton during the last week for the town of "Happy Canyon" has grown from nothing to a thriving frontier metropolis and, commencing Wednesday evening, will be a scene of commercial activity and hilarious festivity.

Carpenters and painters have almost completed their task of town-building and the old fair pavilion has been completely changed by them. The entrance is the same as of old but that is about all that has not been changed. The visitors, upon passing through the gate, will find themselves within a commodious hotel through the doors of which they pass on to the Main street of Happy Canyon. This hotel, a three story structure, has been named "Stagger Inn."

To the right of "Stagger Inn," down a short side street the front of "Tim Hogan's Livery Stable" may be seen. Going east down the Main street there is a solid row of weatherbeaten buildings, some white-washed, a few decorated up in brilliant hues but the most present the unvarnished lumber to view. The first building on the corner is the Chinese Laundry which flaunts a sign reading "How Ling Li Kell & Co." Then follows a building painted a delicate pink in which the latest frontier styles of millinery will be displayed. "Spender's Bank," where interest is charged on deposits, stands on the corner of Main street and Jack's Alley and across the street from it is the First Chance Saloon. Next comes the old Villard Hotel, named after the old hotel which formerly stood in this city, and then, in the order named, the office of Judge I. Stickem, Justice of the peace, insurance agent, notary public and veterinary surgeon, a general store, Raley & Sommerville's drug store, also named after a pioneer Pendleton shop, a postoffice, stagecoach office and the Log Cabin Saloon.

Across street at the end of the pavilion presents the front of the town jail, the blacksmith shop and the fire-department to view. Through the Log Cabin Saloon is an entrance to the big dancing pavilion where 500 couples can be accommodated. Through the Villard Hotel the crowd can pass into the Red Dog saloon and gambling place where roulette wheels, faro banks, poker, Klondike, keno and other games will offer plenty of opportunity for holders of the buck notes to buck the wheel of fortune.

The committee in charge is now meeting two or three times a day and is mapping out a program of entertainment that will leave nothing to be desired. Commencing at 8 o'clock each evening there will be a program of an hour, a program filled with drama and comedy of a distinctly western type. One event will follow another in rapid succession and there will be laughs every minute.

The general festivities will commence at 9 o'clock and continue just as long as the crowd wants it to.

ROUMANIA REPORTED TO BE PREPARING FOR CONFLICT

ROME, Sept. 21.—Roumania's entry into the war as an Anglo-Franco-Russian ally was reported to be so imminent that the German minister was said to have been called from Bucharest.

Rate Hearing to Reopen.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The interstate commerce committee granted the application of the eastern railroads to reopen the five per cent rate increase case.

WAR TAX BILL IS INTRODUCED TODAY

Measure is Referred to Ways and Means Committee—House Will Consider it on Thursday.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The war tax bill was introduced in the house today by Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee, to which it was referred and it will be reported out tomorrow. The measure will be considered by the house Thursday.

Except for taxes on beer, wine and gasoline the measure follows closely the war tax imposed during the Spanish war.

The method of collecting tax on telephones and telegraphs will be changed. Instead of affixing a penny on telegrams the company will be required to keep a record of all messages and remit a penny for each.

A penny tax also will be imposed on all telephone messages. The telephone tax applies to all messages costing more than fifteen cents, but does not affect local telephone calls.

EMPEROR OF AUSTRIA SAID TO HAVE DIED WEEK AGO

LONDON, Sept. 21.—That Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria died a week ago and that the news was suppressed lest a revolution ensue, was asserted today by a high official of Lausanne, Switzerland, who was just back from a visit to Vienna, according to a dispatch received by the Chronicle here.

The same rumor was circulated before. It entirely lacks confirmation.

NEWS SUMMARY

General.

Battle of the Aisne continues without advantage for either side.

2,000,000 men engage in Galicia.

Austrians said to be retreating slowly before the Russians.

Roumania reported ready to enter European fray.

Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria said to have died a week ago.

Local.

Pendleton's week of festivities starts with big crowd and ideal weather.

Many contestants already here.

Charles Wellington Furlong, noted author, and A. Phinister Proctor, celebrated sculptor, arrived for the Round-up.

Round-up crowd this year will be as great as last, declares accommodation director.

Shooter of pheasant pays fine, loses gun and hunting license.

Happy Canyon will be scene of joyous life.

Business will suspend during Round-up afternoons.

CROWDS BEGIN TO GATHER HERE FOR ROUND-UP IDEAL WEATHER GETS VANGUARD OF VISITORS

Though the Round-up is still three days off, Pendleton's annual week of festivities has, nevertheless, begun.

Already a large crowd of outside people are here, decorations are fluttering in the breeze, ideal weather has succeeded a stormy week and the very air is charged with the eagerness and excitement with which the great frontier show is anticipated.

Cowboys and cowgirls have been pouring into the city for the past few days and the list of entrants for the championship contests this year promises to eclipse anything in history, not only in number but in the quality of the contestants.

Hardly a name noted over the west for superiority in cowboy pastimes but has its own here or on the road.

Yesterday the bunch of illustrious sons and daughters of the plains of which Ed McCarty is chief arrived. The list includes Skeeter Bill Robbins, Cuba Crutchfield, Sam Garrett, Ed Lindsay and Van Gliford, all ropers and riders of proven skill. Dorothy Morell, "Minnie" Thompson, Blanche McGaughey and Mrs. Ed Lindsay, cowgirl riders of bucking bronchos.

Lucille Mulhall here. Lucille Mulhall, who is generally conceded to be the best cowgirl roper of steers in the country, arrived last evening and will defend her title against all comers. She also intends entering the contest for cowboys and declares she will make a strong bid for the money in that event.

Otto Kline, champion trick and fancy rider, arrived yesterday in fine shape for the coming exhibitions. Johnny Baldwin, another well known trick rider, and Tillie Baldwin, the popular Round-up favorite who will this year build a steer, will arrive Wednesday. The Blancetts, Del and Bertha, returned to Pendleton yesterday also, while Buffalo Byers, Art Accord and Chester Byers were already here.

Ruth Parton to ride. With her own string of nine relay horses, Ruth Parton of Yakima arrived last evening and will not only enter the relay race but will do the drunken ride as well. Miss Parton has looks as well as class and promises to become a favorite. Last week she won the relay race at Walla Walla.

Allan Drumheller, son of George Drumheller of Walla Walla and the favorite rider of the people of that city, has entered the relay race, cowboy race and the bucking contest. Lee Caldwell, who has already won three championships in bucking contests this year, is back to try his fortune in his home town. There are only a few of the hundreds of good riders, ropers, and bulldozers entering the Round-up contests.

The Indians from the local reservation, Umatillas, Cayuses and Walla Wallas, began coming in today to put up their tepees in the grove at the Park. Director Roy Bishop declares the Indian feature of the annual celebration will be better than ever this year. With their best horses they are coming in and are showing a great deal of enthusiasm.

The weather for the week will be clear and warm, according to local weather phenomena and the fact that the moon changed yesterday.

THE ROUND-UP HAS STRONG GRIP UPON PUBLIC ATTENTION

There is a nation-wide interest in the Round-up and that interest is not confined to those who have seen the show or expect to see it this year. Many unable to attend are keenly interested in what is going to happen and in what has occurred at past Round-ups.

It is largely for the benefit of such people that the East Oregonian is going to such efforts to publish a fine series of papers during the Round-up. The Round-up numbers this year will be the best and largest ever published. There will be a 28-page paper each day, instead of a 24-page paper as previously announced. Each issue will be well illustrated and will contain not only the actual Round-up news, handled by experienced men, but will include many appropriate stories relating to western life.

If you wish to send something to friends or relatives to give them a taste of the Roundup and the Round-up spirit you can do nothing better than to send them the East Oregonian during the show. The entire series may be had, the papers wrapped, addressed and posted for 25 cents. Place your orders now and avoid the rush.

Austrian Warcraft Lost. VIENNA, via Venice and Paris, Sept. 21.—The Austrian torpedo-boat No. 27 was sunk in the harbor of Pola Monday. Much secrecy has been maintained regarding the occurrence, which is believed to have been due to a boiler explosion. The crew was rescued.

ALL BUSINESS WILL CLOSE AFTERNOONS OF ROUND-UP

There will be no business done in Pendleton during Round-up days from 1 o'clock until 5 in the afternoon. The town will simply shut up shop and go to the show. The consent of all of the business houses to this agreement is being solicited this afternoon by C. E. Roosevelt and G. B. Wyrick, representing the Commercial association, and they are meeting with success.

Postmaster T. J. Tweedy has received an order from the postal department closing the postoffice between those hours and Circuit Judge Phelps today declared that he had notified the witnesses and jurymen that court would suspend during Round-up days.

Reservations are pouring in so rapidly that Mr. Tatom has two solicitors in the field yet this week securing further rooms. Quite a number of the rooms he had listed last year he finds have been rented by the same people who had them last year directly. Then, too, he states, more people than ever before will find accommodations on the trains that are parked here each night. The railroad men, who relied upon the accommodation bureau last year, are all finding sleeping quarters in Pullmans held here over night.

Everybody that comes will get a bed, declares Director Tatom, at a reasonable price.

GERMANS SAY FIRE ON RHEIMS FORCED

BERLIN, Sept. 21.—Regret was expressed here for the necessity troops found for bombarding Rheims, but it was declared it couldn't be avoided on account of the fire directed from there upon the German forces.

FRANCE TO PROTEST.

BORDEAUX, Sept. 21.—A formal protest to the neutral powers against the destruction of Rheims cathedral was ordered by President Poincare.

"The Germans from no military necessity but from sole pleasure of destroying," he declared, "systematically and furiously bombarded the cathedral. Its famous basilica is a mass of ruins."

PARIS INDIGNANT.

PARIS, Sept. 21.—Parisians were entirely unable to find words to express their indignation over the destruction of Rheims cathedral by the German bombardment.

The outrage, they declared, was worse than the one at Louvain. The wooden framework erected inside the cathedral to facilitate repairs which were in progress at the time the bombardment occurred, was set afire by a bursting shell. The flames spread quickly. It was said, and it was with great difficulty that German wounded were gotten outside.

20,000 BLACK BASS ARE PLANTED IN LOCAL WATERS

PONDS BETWEEN PENDLETON AND CAMPBELL WELL STOCKED WITH FISH.

Twenty thousand black bass were planted in the ponds along the river between Pendleton and Campbell this morning by members of the Umatilla county fish and game association. The fish were sent here by R. E. Clanton who is in charge of the work of fish propagation and distribution for the state board of fish and game commissioners.

These bass were obtained from the sloughs between the Columbia and Willamette rivers, west of Portland and were brought to Pendleton in the state fish car, "Rainbow." The car did not stop here but went on to La-Grande where several thousand were unloaded for Wallowa and Union counties.

ROUND-UP CROWD WILL BE JUST AS LARGE AS IN 1913

The Round-up crowd this year will be just as large as last year. This is the statement made by Dean Tatom, director of accommodations who is probably better able to judge than any other one person. From the reservations made in advance, Mr. Tatom predicts that the visitors will number fully as many as ever before.

Reservations are pouring in so rapidly that Mr. Tatom has two solicitors in the field yet this week securing further rooms. Quite a number of the rooms he had listed last year he finds have been rented by the same people who had them last year directly. Then, too, he states, more people than ever before will find accommodations on the trains that are parked here each night. The railroad men, who relied upon the accommodation bureau last year, are all finding sleeping quarters in Pullmans held here over night.

Everybody that comes will get a bed, declares Director Tatom, at a reasonable price.

NOTED TRAVELER-AUTHOR ARRIVES FOR THE ROUND-UP

CHARLES W. FURLONG WILL REPRESENT EASTERN MAGAZINE AT SHOW.

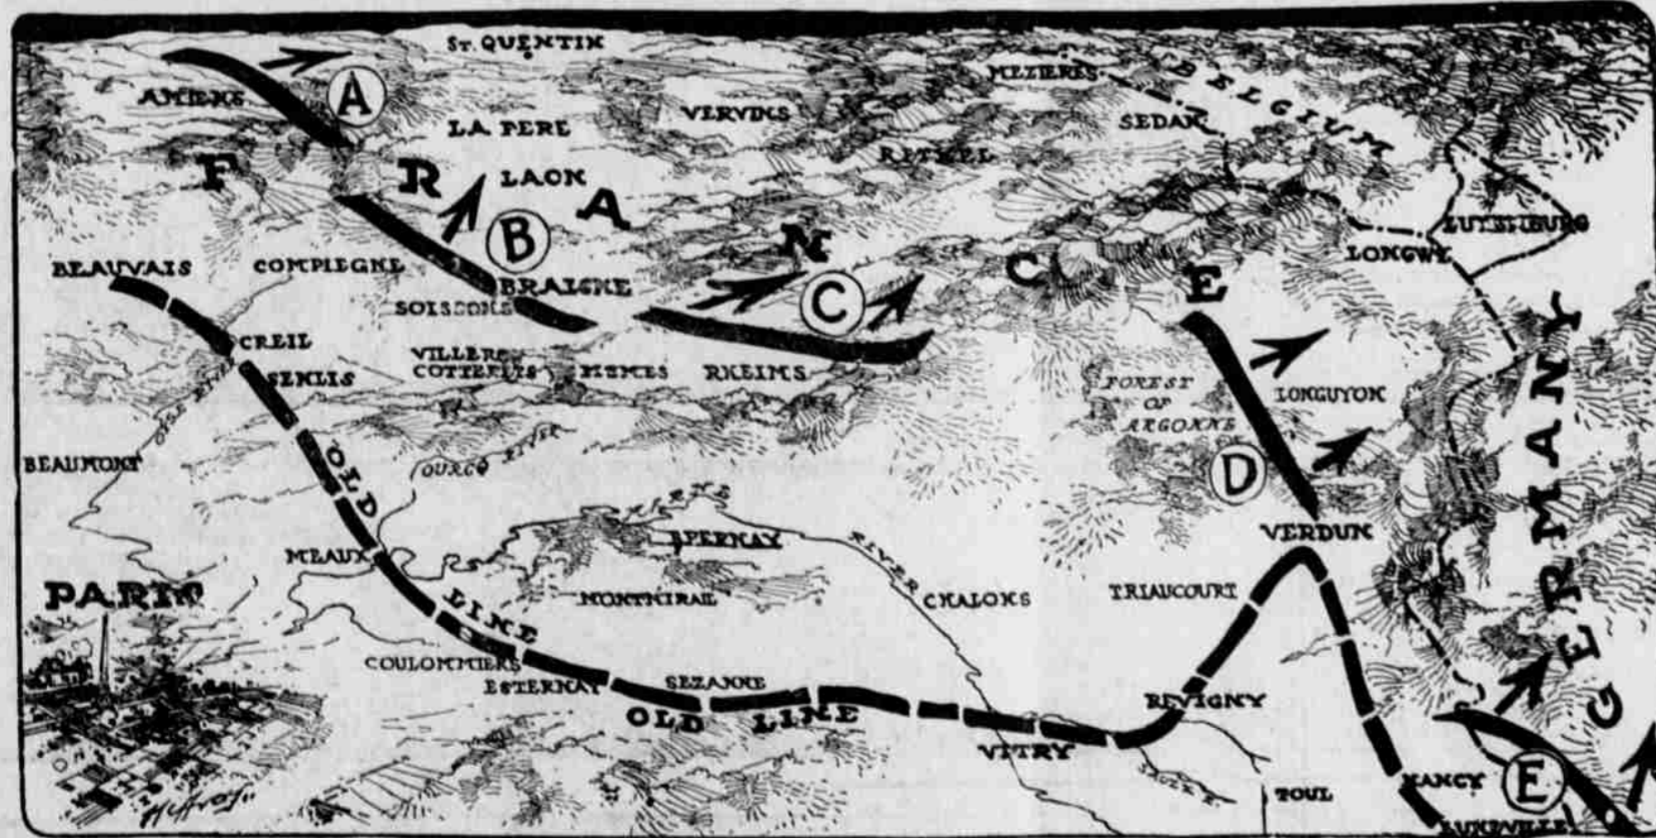

All the way from Boston Charles Wellington Furlong, F. R. G. S., noted author, traveler and painter, has come to see the Pendleton Round-up that he can again tell the world of it in the magazines for which he writes. He arrived on No. 17 today, full of enthusiasm for the cowboy carnival and there was a satisfied smile upon his face when he looked up and beheld the smiling skies of blue.

Under a commission from Harper's Weekly and the Outing Magazine, Mr. Furlong comes this year but he has another purpose, too. Tomorrow evening he is going to give a lecture in the Oregon theater for the purpose of raising a nucleus for a fund to erect a monument to the cowboy in this city. He volunteered his services as lecturer and has chosen his lecture on "Argentine and Her Vast Patagonian Pampas" one of his best. It will be illustrated with views which he took while in South America.

Last year Mr. Furlong paid the Round-up a visit and became so enthusiastic over it that he even tried to ride one of the bucking bulls. Subsequently in the World's Work he described what he saw and felt and his article was quite the best that has ever been written on the Round-up. He will have more to say of Pendleton's big show in Harper's and Outing and he is going to get his views from a different angle for this year the Round-up board has made him one of the arena and track assistants.

Wealthy Merchant Dies. PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 21.—John A. Heuener, 44, wealthy president of the Royal Baking and Confectionery company, died suddenly from uremia poisoning.

FORMER GERMAN BATTLE LINE BEFORE PARIS AS COMPARED WITH RETREAT

The old battle line of the German army is shown by the heavy dotted line. The latest bulletins from the front show that this line has now been broken into large units and that each unit is retreating rapidly in an effort to escape the French offensive. The various units are indicated by letters, namely:

A—The army commanded by General von Kluck, which is reported to have surrendered, and part of General von Buelow's forces are shown to have fallen back from Amiens and Laon.

B—The balance of Von Buelow's army are retreating from the Compiègne and Soissons toward St. Quentin.

C—The armies commanded by the Prince of Wurtemberg and General von Hausen are moving north toward Reuel.

D—Crown Prince Frederick William and the Crown Prince of Bavaria forced back from the neighborhood of Argonne. With part of General von Heeringen's forces, the crown prince is making the last stand of the German army.

E—The major part of General von Heeringen's army has been thrust across the French border by the French offensive and the region between Nancy and the Vosges is cleared of Germans.
