"The Potter and the Clay." New two-part Kalem handles delicate sitwithout offense. Revenge uation because wronged woman doesn't allow for daughter's clean heart. Marin Sias has the lead in this drama. The chief point in this picture is the interesting contrast which different bringing up makes on two half-sisters. One is illegitimate and her mother has had her brought up in a convent where the Sisters have taught her humanity and kept her heart clean enough so that her judgment is unblased and unselfish. The other, early left motherless, has been brought up by the worldly-selfish father. The woman whom this father had wronged had watched the child growing up and has envied the advantages denied her daughter by the same father. She never realizes that her child in the convent is the more fortunate of the two. She has nursed thoughts of revenge and her don were Pendleton visitors yesterchance comes when the society girl day, is beginning to go out alone among people, to card parties at fashionable homes and the like.
