Cleaver is the Only Dry Candidate for Congress

N. J. Sinnott Present Congressman, is Wet and Supported by the Wets. His Own Townsman Turn Him Down. STOP! LOOK! LISTEN!

TO THE HON. N. J. SINNOTT, OF THE DALLES, HIS CAMPAIGN MANAGERS AND FRIENDS:

My attention has been called to an article sent in to the press by Congressman Sinnott, in which he states that my friends are maliciously misrepresenting him on the temperance issue.

In reply, I beg to say, that I am somewhat to blame for the report that Mr. Sinnott is wet, and if I have encouraged my supporters to use this argument against him, without sufficient ground, I hereby make apology for such action.

In support of my contention I must say that Mr. Sinnott was introduced to me by the leading brewer of Eastern Oregon, who was then conducting him about my home town and helping him with his campaign. I have seen Mr. Sinnott patronizing the bars of Saloons and associating with saloonmen of this district.

"The committee of One Hundred," of the Dalles, his home town, (with a membership of nearly 500 representing all parties) in a resolution endorsing me for Congress used these words, "We, the committee of One Hundred of the Dalles, Oregon, consisting of business and commercial men and laborers, consider Mr. Sinnott as wet, a society which believes that the financial prosperity of economic growth of a people depends upon their moral as well as their industrial status, and that the beverage liquor traffic is responsible for more than one half the crime, immorality and industrial depression, and standing, therefore, in favor of a Dry City, a Dry Oregon and a Dry United States, do earnestly endorse the candidacy of George L. Cleaver, of Union County, Oregon, for Congress, the only dry candidate for the second Oregon Congressional District."

"We furthermore endorse the movement launched at a mass meeting of a thousand citizens in his home County for a house to house canvass of the voters of the Second Oregon Congressional District, in the interests of a Dry State and a Dry Nation, expressed in the following words:

"I hereby express my intention of voting for the Prohibition State Constitutional Amendment in order to make Oregon dry, and for George L. Cleaver for Congress, the Only Dry Candidate, in order to make the United States Dry."

Signed by order of COMMITTEE OF ONE HUNDRED, assembled at the Dalles on October 14th, 1914.

Chairman, M. G. ELLIS, Sec'y, DR. ADELINE KEENEY."

You can see by this that his own fellow citizens, who have known him for years in business and politics, consider Mr. Sinnott as wet.

Furthermore, Father O'Rourke, of the Roman Catholic Church informed Mr. Sinnott, the National Prohibition Chairman, in my presence, that Mr. Sinnott was wet, and not in favor of prohibition.

With the evidence submitted, I leave it to the good judgment of the public, and especially those interested in a Dry State and Nation, whether I have mis-represented Mr. Sinnott in Wasco County, or any other place.

Mr. Sinnott has in no way supported or stood for the temperance forces of Oregon, and every effort to get him to commit himself on anti-Saloon Legislation has failed.

He feels the sentiment of his district now and makes a political play for the dry vote. In view of his personal habits, beliefs and activities, he has no more right to ask for the support of the dry forces, than I have to ask for or expect the saloon vote.

If you will read his article carefully you will readily see that Mr. Sinnott does not say that he favors State or National Prohibition but states that he will "represent his constituents" to vote for a national amendment. This is the position that every astute politician takes in regard to reform measures in order to be elected, but the energy they put behind the measure after election always depends on their personal principle or belief before election.

The issue now, is a wet or a dry Nation and must therefore, be carried to congress, and the friends of National Prohibition agree that their issue is safest in the hands of its undoubted friends, and not in the hands of politicians who are forced to vote against their principles.

I am perfectly willing to acknowledge that Mr. Sinnott has stayed at his post faithfully and so far, has been diligent for his district, but the consensus of opinion from the standpoint of Anti-Saloon forces, is that he is wet, and therefore, not entitled to dry support.

I am dry personally, publically and politically, and my support from all political parties is most gratifying.

GEORGE L. CLEAVER.

PORTLAND BANKERS PREDICT GREAT PROSPERITY REIGN

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 29.—Predictions of prosperity were made by Portland bankers today.

"The country is in fine shape," said John C. Ainsworth, president of the United States National bank. "Deposits with banks from such towns as The Dalles and Walla Walla were never larger. There is a ready sale at high prices for all our agricultural products. I am informed there is no longer any doubt about obtaining all the ships necessary. There is sufficient money to move the crops."

"We couldn't keep prosperity away if we tried," said Wilfred P. Jones, vice president of the Merchants National bank. "We have not to admit that we have gone through somewhat of a sweating process but we are going to be all the better for it. What we have to sell is being bought and the demands are increasing."

"Is the Louvre open now?"

BRAN NEW BRIDGE SWINDLE FOUND; LET GILLILAND TRY TO EXPLAIN IT

Discovery Made That Plans Were Changed on Six "Eberhart" Bridges After Contracts Had Been Awarded; Lighter Bridges Built But County Paid for Heavy Bridges.

Further evidence showing crooked work in connection with the building of bridges under the "Eberhart system" in vogue during the time T. P. Gilliland was county judge has just been discovered. The facts show that after Eberhart had secured a contract for constructing six bridges in 1909 the plans were changed so as to allow him to build lighter and inferior bridges thus netting him an additional profit of $1,030 on top of the excessive price he was already getting.

The substitution in the plans was discovered a few days ago by Geary Kimbrell, county surveyor while making a personal inspection of the bridges in question, accompanied by County Judge Maloney. Both Geary Kimbrell and his father J. W. Kimbrell assert the evidence is clear and plain that a swindle was worked upon the county.

These six bridges are the bridges referred to in the story from Mr. J. W. Kimbrell published in the East Oregonian October 21, in which he recited how he found a "frame up" on the part of Eberhart and a man named Gallagher who had been brought here in hopes he would be a competitor on these bridges. The disclosure shows that Eberhart, not satisfied with getting his $11,884 contract at a hold up figure, proceeded to build seemingly with the court's consent lighter bridges than had been contracted for, and thus "stung" the county for an additional $1,030.

In the following affidavit J. W. Kimbrell exposes the steal: THE SWINDLE EXPOSED.

I, J. W. Kimbrell, being first duly sworn, say that I am now and have been for a number of years past a resident of Pendleton, Ore.; that during the year 1909 I was county surveyor of Umatilla county, Ore.; that during that year the county court called for bids on six steel bridges, all 60 feet in length, the superstructure being the same in each case; they are namely, the Lee bridge over Dry creek; the Adams bridge, the Raulstone bridge, the John Price bridge, the Eastland bridge and the Tachella bridge. Being anxious to secure competition I asked the Northwest Bridge Works of Portland to compete on these bridges. At their request I made copies of the plans for the bridges and had duplicate typewritten copies of the specifications. I sent blueprints of these plans and a copy of the specifications to the Northwest Bridge Works, retaining in my office the original copies of plans and a copy of the specifications. The contract for these six bridges was let to A. E. Eberhart for the lump sum of $11,884.00; the bridges were erected supposedly in compliance with that contract; after those bridges were constructed I discovered that the bridges built were not in conformity with the original plans and specifications, being a lighter type of bridge; then I went to the Court House and found that the original plans and specifications had been removed from the files and had been replaced by plans (only) conforming to the lighter bridges erected. I further found that Mr. Eberhart had been paid for these bridges the full price of his contract for the heavier bridges.

JOHN W. KIMBRELL. Subscribed and sworn to before me this 29th day of October, 1914.

FRANK J. DORSEY, Notary Public for Oregon.

HOW THE COUNTY WAS "STUNG."

Following is the affidavit of Geary Kimbrell, verifying his father's story and giving a careful estimate on what the county lost by the substitution in plans:

State of Oregon, Umatilla County—ss.

I, Geary Kimbrell, being first duly sworn, say that I am now and have been for a number of years past a resident of Umatilla County, Oregon, and am now the County Surveyor of Umatilla County; that I am familiar with the facts stated in the affidavit given by J. W. Kimbrell relative to six bridges erected by Umatilla County in 1909 and attested to the truthfulness of the same. From the copy of the original plans in the County Surveyor's office I have made a careful estimate of the weight of the steel that would be required for the bridges originally contracted for by the County and also the weight of the steel in the bridges that were actually built. I found that had the bridges been built according to the contract, the total weight of the steel in the six bridges would have been 83,700 lbs.; that the weight of the steel in the bridges actually built is 73,400 lbs. At the rate the County was paying Mr. Eberhart for steel, 10 cents per pound, the loss to the County through his substitution of plans was $1,030.00.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 29th day of October, 1914.

GEARY KIMBRELL, FRANK J. DORSEY, Notary Public for Oregon.

GERMANS WERE VERY SURE OF REACHING FRENCH CAPITAL

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—A British army officer was conveyed half way across the German empire into France, disguised and acting as a chauffeur to Count De Biscuola Villafraunce, of Naples, Italy, was related by the Count on his arrival here on the steamer Carpathia.

"With my wife and chauffeur, I was motoring in Germany when the war was declared," said the Count. "At Carlsbad I met the British officer, who was an old friend. He asked if he could join my party as my chauffeur, and I consented. The regular chauffeur became a manservant. We were arrested nine times before reaching France. Only once was the identity of my friend suspected and that was when he unconsciously returned the military salute of a sentry who held us up."

"In France our troubles continued. During the seven days after we left Carlsbad we were arrested 32 times and I was accused in turn of being a spy of British, French, Russian, Austro-Hungarian and Italian nationality."

Corn Comes Off as Easy as You Please

"Gets-It" Being Used by Millions!

It is the first time that a real sure-act corn cure has ever been discovered. "GETS-IT" is the new corn-cure, based on an entirely new principle. It is a new, different formula, never successfully imitated. It makes corns shrivel and then vanish. Two drops do the work. You don't bundle up your toe any more with sticky tape and plasters that press down on the poor corn—no more flesh-eating salves that don't "stay put," no more hacking at corns with knives or razors, no more bleeding or danger of blood poisoning. No more limping around for days with sore corns, no more corn pain.
