AMBASSADOR FROM TURKEY TO RUSSIA LEAVES HIS POST

Diplomatic Relations Between Two Nations Severed and Hostilities Believed Inevitable.

SULTAN'S APOLOGY REJECTED

Czar Issued Manifesto in Which He Says Slaves Welcome War With Ottoman Empire—Ah Turks Will Probably Be Expelled From Russia Within Very Few Days.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 3.—Fareddin Bey, the Turkish ambassador to Russia, left Petrograd today with his staff after having been assaulted by the Russian employes of his own embassy.

The allies previously had rejected the sultan's partial apology for the acts of hostility by Turkish warships.

Hostilities apparently being inevitable, the ambassador began preparations to leave. Russian help at the embassy demanded four months' arrears in pay and the ambassador replied that it would be forthcoming when the Turks took Odessa.

One clerk struck him upon the jaw and when the police were called they refused to interfere. Members of his staff finally succeeded in protecting the diplomat, and he and his party left by way of Finland.

"Russia," proclaimed a manifesto which the czar issued today, welcoming a war with the sultan, "will resist this fresh aggression on the part of the ancient persecutor of the Christian people with tranquility. The sultan will meet the issue with confidence, realizing that, with God's help, their valiant armies will triumph again over the Turkish hordes and punish the insolent foes of the fatherland."

The sultan's apology took the form of an expression of regret for the attack on Russia in the Black sea and offered to withdraw his fleet from those waters.

The allies insisted that the cruisers Goeben and Breslau be put out of commission until the end of the war, that German officers in Turkish service be dismissed, and, according to some accounts, that the Turkish army be demobilized.

The Constantinople government showed no signs of acceding to these terms.

DYKES CUT FORCE GERMANS TO QUIT TRENCHES ON YSER

Thorough preparations are being made by the East Oregonian to receive the election news as early and as complete as possible.

The East Oregonian will have the regular Western Union report covering the state election and the general contests in the elections in other states.

Owing to the fact the polls do not close until 8 o'clock the counting of the votes will start somewhat late and necessarily the returns until midnight will be meager.

PARIS, Nov. 3.—The Germans were being hard pressed in northern France and in Belgium, according to declarations made this afternoon by military experts who stated that the Teutonic offense had lost its force and that the allies were everywhere advancing.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—That the allies in Northern France and Belgium have been fighting offensively since October 26th was announced by the official war information bureau this afternoon.

It is said a large proportion of the Germans engaged were half trained and were suffering from lack of food.

"It is now certain," said the report "that success will favor the side possessing the most endurance and capable of flinching fresh reserves into the fray whenever they are badly needed."

The transfer of British troops from the vicinity of Paris to the sea coast to resist a German attack in that quarter was said to have been accomplished without loss or hitch, the men moving noiselessly at night, sometimes evacuating trenches only 100 yards from those occupied by Germans, without the latter's knowledge.
