Orpheum—Thursday and Friday

The ninth episode of the "Perils of Pauline." Pauline finds ranch life tiresome and joins a moving picture company for a lark. She is taken along on a trip to Devil's Island where they are to produce "Paradise Lost." She takes the part of one of the angels while Owen gets himself booked as one of the lost souls. Both a disolute fellow becomes enamored of Pauline and Owen bribes him to abduct her. Hicks, meanwhile, is doing his best to keep Harry from the island but Harry finally seduces him and arrives on a raft just as both tries to overpower Pauline. Harry jumps into an aeroplane but the pilot accidentally upsets the machine and grabs the only parachute and leaves Pauline to her fate. Come and see how she escapes.

"The Battle." Two part Sterling, a splendid juvenile comedy in which all the parts are played by children. The whole affair is a clever concoction of humorous situations and brilliant acting. Little Billy Jacobs is featured. "For His Father's Life." Elclair, Mr. Ripley tells his son Jim he must leave home and shift for himself. Several months later Jim rescues his father from a deserted mine shaft and makes a perilous ride to save his life and there is a happy reunion.

Pastime Today. Reviewed by James S. McQuade. A five part photo drama of tremendous interest, adapted from Marie Corelli's story of that name. The cast is exceptionally strong. Mme. Regina Badet, as the countess, carries the difficult role with the convincing art of an accomplished actress. With feline, sinuous grace she betrays by physical deportment, the treachery and serpentine mazes of an unholy mind. That smile and her twining attitude before her victims gives us a clear insight of the soul of the most strongly drawn character of the Corelli story. It will be interesting to know that Mme. Badet is a celebrated opera singer in Paris, and that many of her successes have been made in the Sarah Bernhardt theater. Count Fabio Ramanal is in the able care of George Baud, whose fine physique and good looks fit happily with the description of the count in the story. Special mention is due the quality of the photography in these films. It is, indeed, a delight to study the soft and well defined effects throughout. Cosy—Wednesday and Thursday. The Metropolitan Newboy Trio in singing, comedy and harmony is the vaudeville act for these two days.

On Thursday Viola's Animal Circus will open for three days with 25 trained birds, monkeys and animals of various kinds. "A Madonna of the Poor." Two reel Thanhouser. Muriel Ostriche and the Kidlet in a drama of home life and of one man's awakening before it was too late. Mutual Weekly No. 93. Views of the ruin wrought by the hostile armies in France and Belgium and other war news in motion pictures. "Shot in the Excitement." Keystone. A slap-bang "Rube" comedy with a regular riot at the end. This is one of Keystone's funniest offerings.

ENGLAND ORDERS HORSES FROM OREGON ALBANY, Ore., Nov. 4.—An order from the English government for 3000 Oregon horses, weighing from 900 to 1100 pounds at $60 to $100 a head has been secured by A. J. Kirk of Brownsville, who returned from a purchasing trip in eastern Oregon. The horses are to be used in the European war. ### KAISER STOPS COUNTING LISTS DEAD AND WOUNDED

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 4.—A letter received here by a resident from a friend near the border tells some interesting facts of the way Germans regard the progress of the war. The letter follows: "I have seen a little from a very high German official who has been at the front since the beginning of the invasion of Belgium and is now installed home in which he says 'the war is not going as we expected. The resistance of the allied forces is extraordinary and we are beginning to feel very nervous as to the result. Our (German) losses are terrible, so terrible that the emperor has forbidden their disclosures. Our generals have wondrously wasted our men, who have been mowed down in thousands. Whilst it is impossible to say exactly what our losses are, I should estimate them about 250,000 or 400,000 altogether. If it continues at this rate much longer we shall be quite unable to meet Russia with any hope of success."

You Needn't keep on feeling distressed after eating, nor belching, nor experiencing nausea between meals. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures dyspepsia. It strengthens the stomach and other digestive organs for the proper performance of their functions. Take Hood's.

Allies Gain African Town

PARIS, Nov. 4.—A dispatch to the Havas Agency from Bordeaux says: "A report received here from General Doherty, commanding the French forces operating against the Germans in Equatorial West Africa, says that two Franco-British columns occupied Edoa October 26 after serious fighting, in which the French troops showed great bravery. "Edoa is an important railroad station on the Salanga, 990 miles from the coast."

Lakeview may be on the proposed new railroad line from Butte to San Francisco.

"SYRUP OF FIGS" FOR CONSTIPATED CHILD

DELICIOUS "FRUIT LAXATIVE" CAN'T HARM STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When crows, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleanser" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs" which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeiters sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

ENGLISH TELL STORY OF FIGHTING AROUND SOISSONS

LONDON, Nov. 4.—A graphic story of the fighting around Soissons is told by Sergt. Meade of the st Royal Berk shires, in a letter written to his wife from the military hospital at Leeds: "After the firing had lasted for two and a half hours," he says, "the order to retire was given, and we retired through a wood. Then General Davis came along and said, 'Turn about men—you must save the guns at all cost.' There were only about fifty of us. We made a series of short rushes under a heavy shrapnel fire until we were up to the guns. The Germans were not more than 500 yards away but we were getting a very few burst shells, while we could see the Germans going down in scores. Every shot of ours told as it was impossible to miss the enemy, who had formed from 6 to 10 deep. We could see our artillery shells simply mowing the Germans down. Still they came on. "Presently the order rang out to abandon the guns but gallant young Lieut. Hibbert said, 'No, boys, we will never let a German take a British gun!' Then our chaps raised a cheer, and resumed rapid firing. Presently we were reinforced by the South Staffords. The guns' crews stuck to their task most heroically, and amid cheering we rescued the whole of them. "I saw the Scots Greys and the 12th Lancers make a grand charge. Some of the Germans dropped on their knees and held their hands up, but as soon as our cavalry got through the Germans who had thrown their rifles to the ground picked them up and commenced firing again. They quickly turned about, and then rightly showed the Germans no mercy."

Russian Smothers Grief

PETROGRAD, Nov. 4.—The Russian journal Sviet tells the following story of the Spartan conduct of Colonel Lopoukhine. He was listening after the first great battle in Galicia, to the reading of the report of his regiment's casualties. "We have lost 200 killed and wounded," he was told. "How many soldiers killed?" demanded Colonel Lopoukhine. "So many —" "How many officers killed?" "Only one." "What is the name of this officer?" "Lieutenant Lopoukhine." "Not a muscle of Colonel Lopoukhine's face moved. "Where was the officer killed?" he asked. "The place was indicated. He went to the body of his dead son, dismounted from his horse, kissed the forehead and lips of the child, made the sign of the cross, remounted and continued giving orders."

Priest Hailed as Hero.

PARIS, Nov. 4.—A French priest who led to save four English soldiers who got lost from their troop is being hailed as a hero in a little village in eastern France. The four "Tommys" reached the village late in the afternoon. The priest, realizing what it would mean to him if the Germans found him harboring them, took the soldiers in and few them and provided them with a place to sleep. Not long after a band of Uhlans rode into town. Assembling the townspeople the officer in charge demanded that they tell where the Englishmen were as they had seen them enter the town. The townspeople all knew where the four soldiers were but they looked towards their priest. In a loud voice, so that all the townspeople would be certain to hear him, the priest disclaimed any knowledge of the English soldiers. "They must have gone towards Paris," he said.
