RANGE CHANGES WILL BE MADE GAME LAWS ARE URGED CHANGED

CHIEF OF GRAZING AND FORESTRY SERVICE OUTLINES FUTURE PLANS.

One of the principal speakers before the Oregon Wool Growers' convention in this city yesterday afternoon was Thomas P. McKenzie, chief of grazing of the forestry service of the northwest and, as a result of his discussion of the policies and plans of the forestry service for the benefit of the flockmasters, many of the delegates present expressed themselves as hopeful of better range conditions. The old policy of fighting the forest-officials rather than co-operating with them was declared to be laid by forever.

One of the plans which the service will put in force immediately, Mr. McKenzie explained, was that of increasing individual sheepmen to increase their allotments on the range. This will be done, he said, by granting temporary permits for the use of additional range and, if at the end of three years no application has been made by new men in the industry for the extra-range, these temporary permits will be made permanent. He declared that the forestry service would endeavor to make the range conditions such that growers can carry over yearling ewes for the building up of the flocks. He urged particularly that the wool grower give his personal attention to the range allotted to him in order that it might be built up. "In this way," he said, "you can make six sections do you as much good as ten sections would under a haphazard system."

Mr. McKenzie was formerly connected with the sheep industry in New Zealand and he suggested that Oregon wool growers adopt some of the methods used by the New Zealand flockmasters to increase their income and reduce their expenses. For instance, he suggested that they build up their flocks by selecting those breeds of ewes most given to producing twins. He also advocated that special pains be taken to raise twins and suggested that the twin lambs be placed in pastures by themselves.

Mr. McKenzie declared the average Oregon woolgrower does not dip his sheep often enough. It costs money to raise ticks, he said, for the ticks live on the blood of the sheep and thus sap the animals of vitality, keep them thin and impair the growth of their fleeces. He advocated dipping once a year and stated that in New Zealand this annual dipping is done at a cost of one cent a head.

He also advocated the eliminating of those sheep which produce but small fleeces. Careful tab should be kept of those animals which shear only four or five pounds and the flock should be rid of them as it is just as easy, he said, to raise a sheep with a ten pound fleece as it is to raise one with half that much wool.

Another thing he recommended was the chopping of the hay that is fed to the sheep, declaring it to be a more economical method and one productive of better results.

In conclusion Mr. McKenzie stated that his department is now trying to devise a plan that will keep the cattlemen from trespassing upon the ranges of the sheepmen. Cattlemen cannot herd their stock, he said, the cost being prohibitive and for that reason it was hard to prevent the cattle from straying beyond the boundaries prescribed for them. A system of inexpensive fencing had been found very practicable in some reserves he said.

DEADLY MINE AFLOAT IN SEA NEAR NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—A mine with fine contact points extending from it is afloat six miles west of Fire Island Light, according to Captain Davies of the steamship Etoulin, in from London. Captain Davies said he passed the mine while his ship was bound in. The spot where the mine is said to be a drift lies in the pathway traveled by all trans-Atlantic vessels leaving and entering New York harbor. How the mine happened to be there, whether its presence was accidental or by design, were problems. The possibility that it had been set afloat in the belief that it might eventually find lodgment against the side of a warship, caused some speculation. The only warships seen recently near this harbor have flown the British flag. For some time British warships patrolled the doorway to the harbor, passing and repassing the spot where Captain Davies said the mine was afloat.

AVIATION TEACHER KILLED AT VENICE

VENICE, Cal., Dec. 4.—Thomas J. Hill an instructor at the Schiller aviation school fell 1500 feet in an aeroplane and was instantly killed near the school's grounds at Venice. Hill was flying in a monoplane of his own construction. While soaring at an altitude of 2500 feet one wing of the machine was seen to crumple. The machine fell slowly at first. Hill tried to unstrap himself from the seat, and had nearly succeeded in so doing when the aeroplane crashed to earth. He was crushed to death.

LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES

They Are Closely Observing Public Health Conditions. An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because of kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. According to this it would seem that a medicine for the kidneys, possessing real healing and curative properties, would be a blessing to thousands.

From Hong Kong to Shanghai the Manchuria carried 45 Germans, the last Germans permitted to leave the city. Ship officers reported that all Germans eligible for military service in the city have been placed in a detention camp at Kowloon, where they will be held pending the duration of the war. November 4 was the final date set by the Hong Kong authorities, inclusive of which German residents would be allowed to leave the city. Many of the stores and smaller business houses owned by Germans closed.

Church Fund War Blind. PETROGRAD, Dec. 4.—The Novoe Vremya publishes an explanation of the recent wholesale expulsion of Germans from the capital, saying it was due to the discovery of subscription lists for the building of ships for the German fleet.

The newspaper prints in detail the amount subscribed as well as the givers and collectors, many of the names being those of prominent German manufacturers. The paper says that many directors and managers of important German concerns in Petrograd and vicinity took part in collecting the sum, using their employees or the wives of their workmen as canvassers.

The Novoe Vremya alleges that the campaign was started by Count von Pourtales, the German ambassador to Russia, during the month immediately preceding the war, in the guise of funds for German Lutheran missions in heathen countries.

CAPTAIN OF MICHIGAN WHICH WAS GROUNDED

Captain Albert P. Niblack was in charge of the United States battleship Michigan when she grounded off Cape Henry on the Virginia coast Thanksgiving day. He was feeling his way between Capes Henry and Charles, and as a thick fog had settled down he concluded not to try to make the treacherous entrance to the Chesapeake. He anchored some ten miles out at sea. In the morning when the tide went out he found the stern of the vessel, supposed to be in thirty feet of water, was resting on the bottom.
