WALTER SMITH KILLED BY CANADIAN SOLDIERS

Walter Smith is the young man of Buffalo, who was shot to death by Canadian soldiers while he was hunting ducks on the Niagara river near Fort Erie. Can. International complications with Great Britain have been suggested as a result, but officials of both governments insist there will be no serious consequences. Smith, with a friend, Charles Dorsch, according to accounts of the affair, were out early in the morning. They took their boat over into the Canadian side of the river. The Fort Erie chief of police rushed to the bank to warn them off because it was closed season for hunting ducks in Canada. Later he called members of a military company from the fort. They fired on the two men in their boat. Smith was instantly killed, while Dorsch was wounded.

City Cases Treated—Surgical, 8; Medical, 20. Total, 28. I have kept no record of inspections and nuisances abated but have responded to all calls of complaint. The visits have been many and covering most every part of the city.

The business part of the city is much better condition from a sanitary standpoint than any previous year at this season. Residents and the business men are more responsive to clean-up instructions and co-operation to this end is more readily accomplished.

There is much credit due the Civic Club and Floral Society for the improvement of homes, lawns, parkings and streets. There has been no epidemic during the fall and winter months except a few cases of chicken pox.

Small pox and measles so prevalent last winter have apparently been completely eradicated.

The openings in the sidewalks are still a menace to health, unsightly and unclean and should be closed.

A source of much annoyance to residents of the west end of the city is due to outdoor toilets not connected to the sewer.

The birth and death reports herewith submitted, are somewhat incomplete owing to doctors and undertakers' indifference and negligence in making proper reports. It is encouraging to note they have made some improvement over the preceding year.

Respectfully submitted, I. U. TEMPLE, City Phys.

BIG TIE ORDER IS PLACED WITH PORTLAND FIRM

Nevada Northern Contracts to Purchase 2,500,000 Feet for Spring Delivery.

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 6.—Contract to furnish 2,500,000 feet of cross ties for the Nevada Northern Railway company has just been secured by the C. C. Crow & Co., with offices in the Henry building. This order, which represents an expenditure of about $55,000, is one of the largest tie orders placed by a western road in several months.

The product will be supplied by a dozen sawmills located in the Willamette valley. Shipments will commence immediately and it is expected that the entire order will have been filled by the middle of March of April. Oregon fir will be used. The ties will be used for replacements. The freight charges on the shipments will total fully as much if not more than the original cost of the ties. The Southern Pacific railroad will handle all of this business since it has the only connecting line with the Nevada Northern. Mr. Crow obtained this big order on his recent trip east.

Mr. Crow, who feels highly optimistic over the lumber outlook of the immediate future, also announces that he has received additional inquiries for at least 12,000,000 feet of ties and he hopes to be able to land some of this business. "The tide appears to have turned and from now on I expect that the lumber and shingle business will experience a marked improvement," he said.

Airmen Use Fire Dart

LONDON, Jan. 5.—In a message sent from Belgium to the Daily News William Riddal describes the new weapon with which the members of the allies flying corps are being armed. The Germans, he says, will probably find out all about it in due course.

It is a new pattern dart, not dissimilar in appearance from that in use by the Taube and Aviatik experts. But it has a singular virtue of its own. In its head is fixed a highly inflammable material which immediately ignites when the dart passes through its substance. The dart continues to fly, but the fire remains behind.

The value of such a weapon in countering Zeppelin attacks can as yet only be imagined. But it is calculated that one dart dropped into the envelope of an airship would cause it to burst instantaneously into flame. These darts are to be dropped automatically, 50 or 60 at a time, and they spread over a considerable area in their downward flight. The cost of them is approximately $1 each.

British Freight Rates Up

LONDON, Jan. 6.—In view of the high freight rates now prevailing, increased pressure is being brought to bear on the government to release a part of the German tonnage captured since the outbreak of the war and now lying idle and useless in docks here and abroad.

At the present level of freight the steamers would earn large profits is employed in general trading, or they could be utilized by the government as transports.

In the freight market 43s 6d a ton was paid by shippers to carry grain from the river Platte to the United Kingdom, against a normal rate of about 12 shillings. It is said one vessel has been chartered at the unheard of figure of 45 shillings a ton.

The shortage of steamers is due partly to congestion at French Atlantic ports, where there are poor prospects of increased unloading facilities at present.

Man, 70, Gets 10 Years

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 6.—Ten years in the county prison was the sentence imposed on 70 year old Charles Fox 2132 North Arianna street, for attacking 11 year old Mary Mitch, 2644 Martha street, and 13 year old Irene McCree 2644 East Stella avenue.

Fox was convicted by a jury before Judge Davis in quarter sessions court. The little girls testified that Fox who is a huckster, enticed them in his home on the excuse that he had work for them to do.

Fox, who is gray haired and bent with age, denied the charges. He declared that the girls had persistently annoyed him by entering his home and begging for fruit.

BRITAIN TO OPEN ROAD FOR COPPER SHIPMENTS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Development in the negotiations to stop British interruptions of copper shipments have reached a point, it was understood here, where Great Britain will not interfere with shipments to well known Italian firms if they are made in Italian ships.

Shipments to well known manufacturers in Sweden and Holland, it is also understood, will also be uninterrupted, but it has not been made plain if they must be made in ships of those countries.

Commercial Club Calls on Legislature to Keep all Appropriations Low

Urging the legislature to refrain from passing any laws that will depress business conditions, discourage railroad operations or keep capital out of the country, the Pendleton Commercial association, through its board of managers, has adopted the following resolutions and sent a copy to each member of the Umatilla county delegation:

Whereas, conditions of trade, finance and investment in the state of Oregon at the present time are such that everything possible should be done to encourage and stimulate business and all legitimate enterprise, and no action ought to be taken which will render the situation more acute or tend to discourage capital already invested in the state, or to deter new capital from entering the state, now therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Pendleton Commercial association that the prospective and welfare of the state and of the inhabitants thereof would be best served if the Oregon legislature, during its 1915 session, should keep all appropriations of money within all low limits as possible, pass no legislation which will tend to make greater the burden upon railroad operations and other legitimate business, or which will render this state an undesirable field for investment; consider and enact only absolutely necessary legislation. And be it further

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to each member of the Umatilla county delegation of the Oregon legislature; that copies be furnished the local newspapers; and that they be requested to give this action full publicity.

Stories From the War Zone

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS. (United Press Staff Correspondent.) WITH THE FRENCH ARMY AT THE FRONT, Nov. 29.—(By Mail to New York.)—Just how thoroughly the Germans were prepared for this war does not really sink in on one until one crisscrosses about the war zone. The stories one hears of their preparations are amazing and if a tenth of them are true one can not be surprised at the rapidity of their invasion at the beginning of the war.

French army officers were dumfounded, for instance, at the rapid crossing of the Marshaes of Saint-Gond, northeast of Paris, by the Germans. These marshes are miles and miles in extent, covering the lowlands in the region of the source of the Petit Morin. The marshes resemble a distance a beautiful meadow but even the natives of the region do not venture in the tall grass for fear of being swallowed up in the ooze. Perhaps a half-dozen guides know the swamp's intricacies and these make a living leading hunting parties through them. For an unguided person to attempt to cross the marshes would be as much as his life is worth.

Nevertheless the German troops crossed the marshes without the slightest trouble or delay. They did not even hesitate. The native guides were all well known and accounted for; they did not lead the German soldiers over. How did they escape the bogs?

Well, here's a story told me by a civil officer of the district. He had had a part in the deal and he ought to know. About three years ago a company was formed in Germany for the purpose of buying up and reclaiming swampland. The first land this company set its heart upon was the Marshaes of Saint-Gond. These lands belong to the commune, or county—or rather several counties—and the officers representing the communes were asked to get together for a deal with the Germans. The German company proposed to drain the swamp and turn the land into the richest of farms, which would be sold off in lots to French farmers.

How much would Germany give for the swamps? The company would make an offer as soon as the proper estimates of the cost of drainage could be made out.

A score of German engineers thereupon began work in the marshes. Every rod of the district was explored, sounded and charted; every island and tree and hummock duly mapped every road, bridge path and pigtail indicated, and every possible detail set down.

Then the German company made its offer. It was small, ridiculously small. The commune officials laughed at the offer and the deal fell through and was forgotten—until along towards the close of last August when the German army advanced across the Marshaes of Saint-Gond without losing a man.

Another story I heard, from another source, was that some years ago a German bought a country home for himself near Paris. Upon a commanding ridge stood his house and upon the right and left of the house he planted a single line of fir trees, with graceful, peaked tops, and, down the slopes a few hundred yards, a tennis court in cement and asphalt was laid.

The German seemingly took a sudden dislike to his country home about the time he had finished improving it, for he went back to Germany and did not show up again—until war was declared.

Then he was wearing a uniform, the uniform of a German officer of artillery.

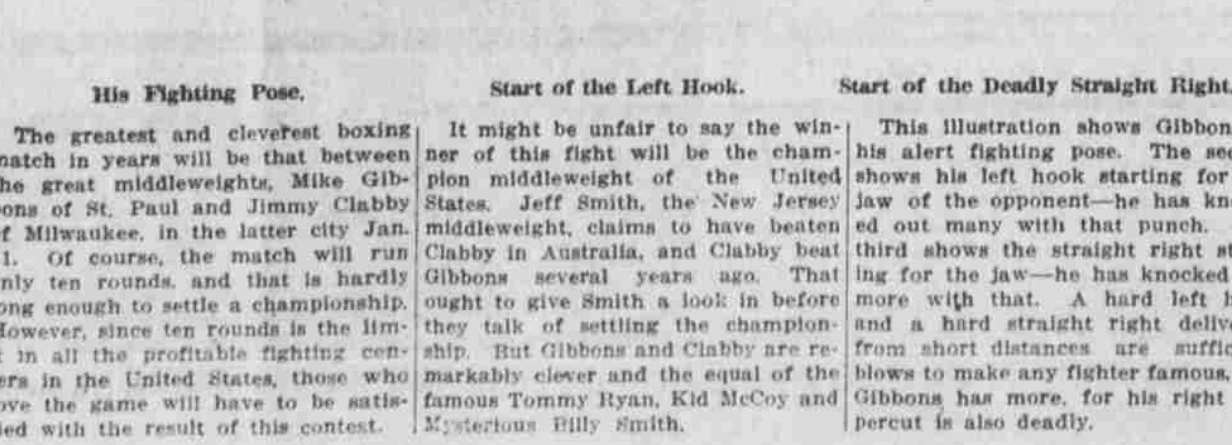

The tennis court was nothing more than a foundation for heavy guns; the country house, with its pointed turret was the center of a sighting system, of which the fir trees to right and left were adjuncts (notches). The story has it that had the Germans advanced to this point they could have planted their heavy artillery on the tennis-court-in-disguise, used the turret and fir trees to sight by and dominated every quarter.

BAKER COUNTY NO LONGER TO GRANT WIDOWS PENSIONS

JUDGE MESSICK ANNOUNCES PAYMENTS WILL CEASE AFTER THIS MONTH.

BAKER, Ore., Jan. 7.—No longer will widows' pensions be paid in Baker county.

Judge Messick announced today that after this month all payments under the widows' pension act will be discontinued.

"The payment of these pensions is entirely discretionary with the county judge," said Judge Messick. "I do not favor them and so will not pay them. The only reason I am paying this month is that the widows have not been notified and they were counting on this money from the court. This does not mean, however, that we will not take care of destitution. Baker county has always cared for the destitute widows and has helped them put their children through school and otherwise cared for them. But we will handle each case individually and will not pay any state pension just because persons happen to be widows."

There are about 30 widows in the county who will be affected by the decision.

MAY PROVE FATAL

When Will Pendleton People Learn the Importance of It?

Backache is only a simple thing at first;

But if you find 'tis from the kidneys;

That serious kidney troubles may follow;

That dropsy or Bright's disease may be the fatal end,

You will be glad to know the following experience.

'Tis the statement of a Pendleton citizen.

Mrs. George W. Badgett, Box 529, Pendleton, says: "One of my family had spells of backache and at times was laid up for a month. Straightening up quickly after bending caused severe twinges in the small of the back. The kidneys were out of order. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended by a physician and they have never failed to relieve these ailments. I have also used Doan's Kidney Pills myself and recommend them as a good kidney medicine."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Badgett recommends. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.
