This was presented to the Portland delegation.

Circuit Court Meeting.

The regular January session of the circuit court commenced this morning with the trial of the case of A. M. Seay vs. J. L. Hammock. The suit involves the ownership of a team of horses. Esteb for the defendant. The case of Homer I. Watts vs. Moses Taylor will be taken up next. This is for the collection of about $1200 alleged to be due for attorney fees in five different actions.

Grand Jury Thinks Differently.

The grand jury evidently had a different mind in two separate cases than did Justice of the Peace Joe H. Parkes, returning indictments upon original investigations despite the fact that the justice of the peace had refused to bind the defendants over to it for consideration. The defendants are Arthur Gulliford and Carl Kirk, charged jointly with stealing cattle from Charles, James and Sam Nelson, and Joe Bohl, charged with carrying concealed weapons. The Gulliford-Kirk case was brought in the local justice court by Sheriff Taylor last October and Judge Parkes dismissed the action for "lack of evidence." The case against Bohl was dismissed more recently, Judge Parkes ruling that an unloaded revolver is not a weapon under his interpretation of the Oregon statute. All three have been arraigned and have pleaded not guilty.

Robert Johnson, accused of being the man who assaulted Mrs. May Hanna in this city on January 5, was indicted on a charge of assault with intent to rob. Walter Gilman, who had been indicted twice before, was made the subject of a third indictment, it being alleged that on Sept. 1 he stole from John Crow a calf valued at $17.

Not true bills were returned against Joe Lueallen, who had been accused of injury to a fence, and against Mike Lingren, who had been charged with larceny from a dwelling.

Seven other indictments were returned but the names of the persons are being withheld until the sheriff has had an opportunity to take them into custody.

In its final report the jury sets forth that it met first on October 1 for two days and again on January 5 until Jan. 9, that it had returned a total of 32 true bills and two not true bills, had made a brief examination of the property about the court house and had inspected the county poor farm and found it in "good shape." "Its stock and equipment seem to be well cared for" the report says.

The new grand jury will not be drawn for several days, Judge Phelps wishing to use all of the jury list for a few days for trial cases.

THOMAS MILARKEY, PIONEER, DEAD AS RESULT OF FALL

WELL KNOWN MAN SUCCEUMBS TO INJURY AFTER LINGERING ILLNESS.

As the result of a fall he suffered during the recent silver thaw, Thomas Milarkey, pioneer resident and property holder of this city, died at five minutes after noon today at his home on West Court street. For the past week his condition had been very grave and little hope was entertained for his recovery. Mr. Milarkey slipped on the sidewalk and fell about two weeks ago, striking on his hip. An injury from which he had been suffering for years was made worse by the fall and his age was a hindrance to remedies that would have been effective upon a younger person.

Deceased had been a resident of Pendleton almost ever since the city was founded and had acquired considerable property here. He lived in Umatilla county before this city was laid out, running freight wagons from Umatilla to Boise. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Joseph P. Murphy with whom he made his home.

NEW WATER SYSTEM IS HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR LOW RATE

50 PER CENT REDUCTION IN INSURANCE DUE TO RECENT IMPROVEMENT HERE.

Official information to the effect that the gravity water system was responsible for 50 per cent of the reduction in insurance rates made here last fall is contained in a letter which Messrs. Bentley & Leffingwell have received from James N. McCune, secretary of the Underwriters Equitable Rating Bureau, which organization rerated the town.

In response to an inquiry the local insurance firm today received the following letter from Mr. McCune: Portland, Ore., Jan. 9, 1915. Messrs. Bentley & Leffingwell, Pendleton, Ore.

Dear Sirs:—We are in receipt of your favor of the 5th instant, making inquiry in behalf of the East Oregonian as to what proportion of the recent reduction in rates for the City of Pendleton was brought about by the new gravity water works system.

In segregating this item of the reduction we may say that approximately 50 per cent of the total reduction for the town of Pendleton was owing to the improvements in the water works system.

Trusting this is the information you desire,

Yours truly, JAMES N. McCUNE, Secretary

This letter confirms the estimate made several days ago by Mr. Leffingwell, who estimates that the reduction in rates made by the fire insurance companies means a saving of $17,000 a year to local property owners. The two factors contributing to the reduction in insurance rates were the water system and the improved fire department.

Marshall P. Wilder Dies. ST. PAUL, Jan. 11.—Marshall P. Wilder, the author and humorist, died at a St Paul hotel from heart trouble, complicated by a slight attack of pneumonia. Mr. Wilder had been in poor health for two weeks and last Friday was forced to cancel his vaudeville engagement here. Since the death of his wife, more than a year ago, Mr. Wilder has been visibly depressed, his friends say, and this had affected his health. Two weeks ago he contracted a cold. This developed into pneumonia.

Mr. Wilder, who was born in Geneva, N. Y., in 1859, became a public entertainer at an early date and in this capacity appeared at one time before English royalty. Among his best known books are "The Sunny Side of the Street" and "Smiling Around the World."
