GEOLOGIST DISCUSSES CAUSE OF QUAKE THAT JARS ITALIAN TOWNS

PROFESSOR AT UNIVERSITY OF OREGON GIVES SOME POSSIBLE CAUSES.

Shaking Kingdom Has Not Seen Its Last Tremble by Any Means, Says Warren D. Smith—Weak Spots in Earth's Crust Discovered Many Years Ago in Italy.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Jan. 20.—(Special)—The earthquake that caused the death of more than 30,000 persons in Italy was perhaps due to a shifting or dropping of some rock fault, according to Dr. Warren D. Smith, professor of geology at the University of Oregon and member of the Seismographical Society of America. Dr. Smith makes the reservation, however, that exact details are not yet at hand.

"Italian geologists have found throughout weak spots in the earth's crust. A line drawn through these spots follows certain rock formations or structural lines, and the greatest disturbances have occurred at the intersections of some of these tectonic lines," says Dr. Smith.

"It has recently been demonstrated that there is a measurable rock tide caused by the same attractive forces that produce the ocean tides, and the reason this tide is not detected by the naked eye is that the crust of the earth is incomparably more rigid than the surface of the ocean, and the accumulation of stresses in the rocks finally results in a giving way at some points, these points naturally being the weak ones in the crust of the earth. They lie along the borders of the ocean and usually in the portions of the earth geologically new.

"Italy is situated in one of these newest portions of the earth, as are also California, the Philippines, the west coast of South America and other countries.

"In development of the rock tide theory, the geologist Perrett says that at certain times when some of the heavenly bodies get into a straight line, the pull becomes so great on the weak spots of the earth's surface that movement results along the faults. This theory is now upheld by a great many geologists, and at Potsdam, Germany, geologists have actually measured the rock tide."

"That this is not the last earthquake Italy will have, by any means, is Dr. Smith's belief.

"The people in certain parts of Italy have been warned to move their cities. This was the case with Messina, where a few years ago an earthquake and subsequent tidal wave caused great loss of life and property. Scientists are now able to tell by seismograph records the location and intensity of earthquakes in distant parts of the world before the telegraph wires bring the news, and have also been able to predict where the next disturbance was most likely to occur. The next step will be to predict when the earthquakes will come and thus make possible a preparation to escape them," says Dr. Smith.

Highbrow Worm Dead.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 20.—Harvard's educated worm is dead, according to an announcement made by its tutor, Professor R. Myrkes. The worm has had a decent burial. Overstudy caused his death.

Before "Pete" masticulated in the psychological laboratory of Professor Yerkes he was leading an idle life and dissolute life in a Cambridge barnyard.

Professor Yerkes gave "Pete" an education in an effort to prove that worms have intelligence.

Erwin this argued that Miss Elsie Daniel, a German student, undertook to improve it. That caused Professor Yerkes to rig a tube shaped like a "T" for "Pete" to wriggle in. The right arm of the arm of the "T" led to a comfortable burrow of wet blotting paper. The other arm led to wires that would give "Pete" an electric shock. Sandpaper also discouraged "Pete" from making a trip the wrong way.

It took many trials for him to discover which road led to worm paradise, but the professor finally trained him so that he could make the trip 20 times a day. Once he was kept out of the "T" tube for a month and kept the first time he was put back he remembered which was the road to comfort and which to danger. In all he made more than a thousand wriggles through the tube.

BANKERS PROTEST TO RESERVE BOARD

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Irate at being included in the Philadelphia regional reserve district of the new currency system instead of in the New York district, the formal protest of New Jersey bankers was made today to the federal reserve board. A big delegation of Jersey bankers are here for the hearing before the board.

The principal argument was that the normal course of banking was disturbed when the Jersey banks were ordered to do business through Philadelphia instead of New York. It was argued that from time immemorial practically all Jersey banks has maintained close relations, because of proximity and natural course of commerce with New York and, with the exception of Trenton, Camden and other cities near Philadelphia, had had little relations with Philadelphia bankers.

Bankers from Newark, Hoboken and Jersey City, particularly expressed opposition to their inclusion in the Philadelphia district.

The Jersey protest today followed the formal hearing recently given Baltimore bankers who protested against being "linked up" in the Richmond district instead of with Philadelphia. The assignments were made by the preliminary organization committee for the reserve system, and are subject to change by the whole board, but it is doubtful if immediate action will be taken on either the New Jersey or Baltimore protest. Others are to come from Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Texas.

Stories From the War Zone

BY P. M. SARLE.

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) LONDON, Dec. 23.—(By Mail to New York).—Thrilling personal experiences in the Belgian trenches are related by Miss Jessica Bortwick, niece of the late Lord Glensiek, who has just returned to England to enlarge the equipment of the field ambulance corps which she organized in conjunction with Dowager Lady Suffolk, Lord Methuen and others, and whose work she has been superintending.

"The other day," she said, "I was standing in the road on the way to Dixmude talking with an officer when a shell fell, taking off his left arm completely as though it had been chopped off with an axe, killing five others, and shattering a nearby house to the ground. A cow standing near was also killed, but another a few yards away simply looked around and went on eating. For a moment I felt stunned, but was conscious of a shower of every kind of stone and dirt. One man, not otherwise wounded, was struck deaf and dumb by the shock.

"That night we went to Dixmude. The Germans were holding the country on one side of the town, the allies on the other. We left our ambulance on this side of the canal and carried our stretchers over the bridge and through the main street. Germans hidden in the cellars fired upon us as we passed.

"Some of the strange contrasts of the war were seen on this journey. On one side of the bridge, piles of German dead, saturated with kerosene were being burned. The green waters of the canal were running peacefully on; and in them Belgian soldiers, in the half hour between the fighting were calmly fishing as though nothing was happening.

"The moon was full that night. It shone over a flat country in which one or two trees were still left standing. When we got near the trenches we lay down flat in order not to show up against the sky-line. We picked up sixteen French and Belgian wounded, many of whom had been dying unattended for three days. They were carried back, three or four at a time to the bridge over the canal, and taken into a little house, one of the few that had been left standing. One man died that night. The others were removed as soon as possible to the base hospital.

"It is sometimes very difficult to do anything for the poor fellows. One young Belgian was wounded in the head, and he kept tearing the bandages off. He continually cried for chocolate, and no sooner did he get it than he grew quite calm and sane. Hot coffee or beef essence bring a man round better than anything else, and it is one of the purposes of my present visit to England to arrange for a small hospital field kitchen so we can supply hot drinks to the wounded in the trenches before we carry them back."

Mrs. Borthwick recently received from the Belgian war office the honorary rank of corporal in recognition of her valuable services.

Lady Smith-Dorrien, wife of General Sir Horace Lockwood Smith-Dorrien, commanding the second British army corps has made an appeal on behalf of the horses whose needs in the present war have been all but overlooked by the people of England.

"War without horses would be impossible," she writes, "and the frightful loss caused by modern weapons in creating a shortage in horses absolutely unprecedented. It behoves all therefore to do their utmost not only to endeavor to save as many horses as possible for patriotic reasons, but because it is our duty to endeavor to ease the sufferings of these poor faithful animals.

"Our Dumb Friend league started the Blue Cross fund, while the French government has officially recognized its existence and gratefully accepted its offer of help for the horses.

"The French minister of war has not only authorized the installation of horse hospitals in France, but has given every possible facility to the Blue Cross for carrying out its work. The Blue Cross hope to open light base hospitals for wounded horses during this month."

ECZEMA ITCHED FOR 20 YEARS—RESINOL CURED

Dec. 8, 1913: "I had eczema for 20 years. It started on me when I was but 13 years old and am now 34, and have suffered all these years. It started with small pimples all over my face, arms and hands. My hands would swell up so that I could not shut them, and I was almost blind. It would itch, then burn, and I had to keep the affected parts wrapped up so that I would not scratch them. I couldn't sleep at all—just walked the floor a whole night.

"I had tried many different remedies, and spent a large sum of money, but had no relief. Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment were recommended to me. They gave me great relief after the third application, and after using four jars of Resinol Ointment and three cakes of Resinol Soap, I am completely cured." (Signed) Mrs. H. E. Fleager, Box 13, Dauphin, Pa.

Casualty Numbers Grow. LONDON, Jan. 20.—The Exchange Telegraph's Vienna correspondent, in a dispatch sent via Copenhagen, says 110 Austrian casualty lists, which do not include the loss of the last two months, give the following totals: Officers wounded, 9590; officers captured, 628. Men killed, 30,827; men wounded, 231,160; men captured, 9502. The last five Prussian casualty lists according to the correspondent, give the names of 25,764 officers and men killed, wounded or missing, making the total Prussian losses as disclosed in 136 lists 877,107.

Has Fine Action in the Blood Does Real Work in Cleaning Body of Impurities.

It is to the skin that blood impurities are driven by Nature. And it is in the skin that S. S. S., the famous blood purifier, has its most pronounced influence. For it is here that you see the results. S. S. S. is none the less effective in the joints, glands and mucous surfaces in driving out rheumatism, overcoming boils and ridding the system of catarrh. The purely vegetable ingredients in S. S. S. are naturally assimilated but they enter the blood as an active medicine and are not destroyed or converted while at work. It is this peculiar feature of S. S. S. that makes it so effective. It acts into action all the forces of the body, across digestive secretions, stimulates the blood circulation to destroy disease breeding germs. Upon entering the blood S. S. S. is carried throughout your body in about three minutes. And in a brief time it has your blood trouble under control that it no longer can multiply. Gradually new flesh is formed in all broken-down tissues and the skin takes on the ruddy glow of health. Be sure and get a bottle of S. S. S. today of any drug gist, but avoid all substitutes. Around the bottle is an illustrated circular that tells you how to obtain special free advice in quickly overcoming serious blood disorders. S. S. S. is prepared only by The Swift Specific Co., 58 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

WHAT the Press Agent Has to Say of Present and Coming Attractions

Pastime Today.

"The Game of Life," a Selig feature played to crowded houses yesterday at this theater and expressions of approval were heard on all sides. This entertaining picture will be repeated again today.

Splendid Cast of Famous Players in the William Fox Production Extraordinary of "A Fool There Was."

Headed by such famous players as Edward Jose and the notable Parisian actress, Theda Bara, the cast assembled for the William Fox Production of "A Fool There Was." Porter Emerson Browne's powerful drama of a siren and her victim, is in every sense a remarkably distinguished one. The play, which is released in its screen form by The Box Office Attractions Co., calls for acting ability of the very highest order, not only in its principal characters, but also in the minor roles, every one of which is important.

Edward Jose is known to theatergoers all over the world. Starting his stage career with Mme. Bernhardt. Mr. Jose played practically every classical role in that actress' repertoire. It was with Mme. Bernhardt that he learned the value of careful attention to detail which has earned him the name of "The Warfield of the Movies." When he produced Cyrano de Bergerac, Rostand's brilliant play, in Paris one of his audience was the "divine Sarah," who warmly congratulated him on his success.

Miss Bara is known to audiences in Berlin and Vienna as well as in Paris, where she was leading woman at the Theater Antoine and the Gymnase. She is peculiarly suited by appearance and temperament to enact the part of the beautiful heartless vampire woman, who lures men to her only to destroy them. The gowns she wears in this role, in themselves, cost a small fortune and were designed largely by Miss Bara herself.

Other important members of the great cast of "A Fool There Was," are Clifford Bruce, an actor of distinction and ability; Victor Bonoff, a well known juvenile man of wide experience and authority; Miss May Allison, known as "the most beautiful woman in the pictures," Mabel Freeman, an actress of exceptional grace and charm and the little Runa Hodges, without a doubt the cleverest child actress in this country. Taken all in all it can be said that "A Fool There Was" is cast as few pictures have ever been. It is not a case of one big name and the rest just "fillers."

Every actor and actress was selected by Director Powell after a long process of elimination. The fact that Miss Bara was brought from Paris especially to play the vampire-woman attests to this as well as does the prominence of the other players.

Pastime Thursday and Friday.

SUFFRAGISTS OF EMPIRE STATE HOLD A BANQUET

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 20.—More than 200 prominent suffragists of New York state are here today to attend the annual banquet of the state organization tonight. Enthusiasm was evident wherever the advocates of votes for women gathered. The tendency of Governor Whitman toward the cause of Mrs. Whitman's well-known espousal of suffrage have brought conviction that the voters will favor equal rights when it is put up to them at the polls.

Servian Ambition Grows.

ROME, Jan. 15.—Contrary to statements that have appeared in the newspapers of London, Paris and Berlin that an understanding has practically been reached about the Servian outlet to the Adriatic Sea, it is said in Servian official quarters here that this will not now satisfy Servia.

It is declared that such a concession would have been satisfactory two years ago, when the subject was discussed at the London conference, but that now, after a war in which her life and independence were risked, Servia could not accept a port or a strip of coast. What she now claims, it is said, are the Servian regions possessed by Austria, including Bosnia, Herzegovina and Dalmatia, which must be assigned to her through the principle of neutrality.

JOLLIES HIS HENS WITH INCANDESCENTS

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Fooling his hens into believing the short winter days last as long as the summer days, by using an artificial lighting system, George C. Newell, an auditor, is increasing the egg production of his poultry yards from a daily average of 26 eggs to a daily average of 33 eggs. Observing his chickens going to roost as soon as dusk began to fall in winter time, Newell installed electric lights by which he fed his hens up to 8 p. m.

"Food and exercise are essential to egg production," he says. "Shortly before 8 p. m. I gradually reduce the light power to give the appearance of dusk. I light the henery at 6 a. m. Newell has 150 "egg machines" as he calls his hens. They laid 18,000 eggs last year.

Phone Girl Twists Army.

GENOA, Jan. 20.—"A false alarm of an Italian invasion was spread in Trentino by the mistake of a telephone girl," says a Vienna dispatch to the newspaper Zeitsold Xiz. She reported that Italian troops were marching toward Sappada, one of the eastern points for invading Trentino. "The authorities never questioned the truth of the report. All night long roads were blown up and troops were rushed toward Sappada. In the morning all was ready for invaders, but there were no signs of them. The telephone girl is being prosecuted.
