THIS IS A BAD MONTH.
The indoor life of winter, with lack of outdoor exercise, puts a heavy load on the kidneys. Nearly everybody suffers from rheumatism, backache, pain in sides and back, kidney and bladder ailments. A backache may not mean anything serious, but it certainly does not mean anything good. It's better to be on the safe side and take Foley Kidney Pills to strengthen and invigorate the kidneys and help them to do their work. They help rid the blood of acids and poisons. WHAT the Press Agent Has to Say of Present and Coming Attractions

Pastime Today.
G. M. Anderson in four reel feature. Plays new role—scenes in east and west.

G. M. Anderson, the world's most popular photoplayer, will be seen in a four reel production to be released under the title "The Good-For-Nothing." Those who have not seen the famous Broncho Billy in any other costume than that of the west, will be overwhelmed with joy at seeing him in the regulation full dress suit. The scenes in the first two reels are laid in the east, which gives the story an entirely new atmosphere, as Mr. Anderson has been playing in nothing but western productions for the last five years.

Gilbert Sterling had never wanted for anything. He had been given plenty of money to do with as he pleased, and it was perhaps the fault of his parents—mostly his mother, that he became worthless—good-for-nothing. He had been sent away to Yale, where instead of using his time to better his education and commercial duties, he wasted his spare moments in athletics, dances, etc. He was a good fellow—in fact when any of the boys needed money, Gilbert was always willing to help them. Instead of going out into the world for himself when he left school, his father took him into business with him—and Ralph was given an interest, too. Ralph was a shrewd business man and kept away from the gay lights of the cafes. Gilbert's love for society and all it offered, together with his uncontrollable desire for entertaining the "girls" of the theater, kept him away from home six nights out of seven, until the wee small hours of the morning. He had the happy faculty of good fellowship, he was always congenial and willing to help. His spree were the jolly kind—which afforded those whose duty compelled them to remain out late a lot of pleasure in seeing Gilbert under the influence of liquor.

Years later we see Gilbert, a ragged, good-for-nothing tramp in the far west. His happy go lucky ways have probably kept him from starvation, as several of the cowpunchers that visit the saloon where he makes his headquarters contribute the "makings" and an occasional quarter. In the meantime, Ralph has married a society butterfly by the name of Gertrude Chapin. Ralph's desire to be come very, very wealthy, has led him into one or two crooked deals, but when he tries to get his father to stake the name of Sterling & Son, it is the last straw, so he, too, like Gilbert, is requested to leave. He associates himself with another companion and forces his father to the wall, breaking him. The old clerk who had befriended Gilbert many times, by helping him to pay a few small debts which his father had refused to take care of, calls on Ralph at his office, to ask assistance for John Sterling and his wife, Ralph's father and mother. Ralph refuses to listen to him and finally asks him to leave. Gilbert befriends an Indian who is taken with smallpox. The doctor refuses to give him medical attention but Gilbert forces the physician at the point of a gun to aid him. The cowpunchers try to kill the Indian, but again Gilbert interferes. After a few days of suffering the Indian dies, leaving Gilbert a deed for the Lone Star mine. Gilbert prospers and after months of hard labor becomes very wealthy. His father and mother in the city, now destitute, are taken to the poorhouse, Ralph having refused to help them in any way. Ralph tries to corner the wheat market. A note from the old clerk to Gilbert in-

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Tee" at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teaspoon full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus driving a cold from the system.

RUB BACKACHE AND LUMBAGO RIGHT OUT

Rub Pain and Stiffness away with a small bottle of old honest St. Jacobs Oil

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a 25 cent bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right into the pain or ache, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the ache and pain right out of your back and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica and lame back steps so promptly!

WASCO COUNTY IS HELPING THE NEEDY

THE DALLES, Ore., Jan. 25.—Eighty seven men with families to support are being employed by Wasco county on the work of remodeling buildings, improvements, etc., at the county farm. The farm was recently acquired by the county from The Dalles Driving Park association, which organization utilized the race track and rented the grounds for the purpose of holding the annual Wasco county fair and Rodeo.
Considerable remodeling is necessary to make the buildings adaptable to the uses of a county farm, and a number of the buildings, which occupy tillable ground, will be moved to other sites.
