Corthell is an artist. Jawdin is wrapped up in his attempt to control the wheat market. His wife seeks solace in the company of Corthell.

Jawdin's wheat corner is attacked by Crookes, his business rival. You see the turmoil in the pit as Jawdin tries to stem the tide of defeat.

His wife's action, when Jawdin comes home broken and dejected, as she is about to elope with Corthell, is an interesting sidelight on feminine character.

This fine play in 5 acts reproduces exactly the greatest stage triumph of WILTON LACKAYE supported by Gail Kane and Milton Sills
