 All are understood to have been of the fixed type, that is to say, they were anchored. The Hagus convention requires that they shall be securely fastened.

John G. Kilpack, special representative of the Portland Boys' and Girls' Aid Society, is here today en route back from Wallowa.

Dr. B. F. Roller, the Seattle wrestler, who met Joe Heinrich here last evening, was a guest of the Hotel Pendleton. He left this morning for The Dalles.

Reading Room Closed.
 The reading room of the Christian Science church will be closed until next week in order to permit of repairs.

Grading is Finished.
 S. Rugo & Co. have completed the grading work on the Tustin street hill leading to the high school and already machines are using the street. Railroads are yet to be put in to safeguard the traffic in climbing the steep hill.

No Change in Wheat—Questions on wheat had not been received by local buyers up to 2 o'clock this afternoon and they attributed the lack of information to the fact there was probably no change in the market. In the Portland market yesterday cut was quoted at $1.47 1-2.

Considerable Re-seeding—Reports from farmers in various parts of the county show it will be necessary to reseed considerable wheat this spring. Whether a larger area than usual will require reseeded remains to be seen. One prominent reservation farmer says he will have to reseed 500 acres. His injured wheat was late sown and did not sprout. Many farmers have been holding wheat or purchasing wheat with a view to the possible necessity of reseeded.

Vincent Creamery Running—R. E. Bean, secretary of the newly organized Hudson Bay cooperative creamery at Vincent, was here yesterday with samples of butter from the new establishment. The creamery is owned cooperatively by 50 farmers of the Vincent country and the officers are G. F. Helman, president, O. K. Goodman, vice president; R. E. Bean, secretary; Lou Hodgson, local manager; J. A. Martin, auditor. The creamery will use cream from 600 cows and will turn out from 1500 to 2000 pounds of butter a week.

Little Snow in Mts.—W. B. Ross, well known Meacham resident, was a visitor in Pendleton yesterday and says that never before has he seen less snow in the mountains at this time of the year. The snowfall of the winter has been much less than usual.

Rural Financing Scheme—For the purpose of evolving some workable plan looking to the financing of farmers, dairymen, gardeners and others seeking a living on the land, a convention of bankers, business men and large property owners will be held in Portland soon after the legislature adjourns.

Educators and business men are unanimous in praise of the scheme but agree that some plan of action must be worked out in advance before the meeting, so as to have the convention proceed on a workable basis.

Tom Richardson, who is making arrangements for the convention, has issued an appeal to those interested to begin at once considering the proposition and to work up a community sentiment in its favor.

Burrongs Buys Timber—The district forester at Portland, Ore., has just approved a sale of 2400 cords of timber on the Wenaha national forest to the B. L. Burrongs company of Pendleton, Ore.
 The timber is situated on the watershed of Meacham creek in township 1 south, range 26 east, Williamsite meridian, covering approximately 250 acres, and consists of 1250 cords of Douglas fir, 1100 cords of western yellow pine and 50 cords of western larch.

The stumpage price for all species is 50c per cord. The agreement with the forest service allows the company until December 31, 1915, for the cutting and removal of the timber.

Water in Forest Reserves—In connection with the examination of range conditions on the national forests, the forest service has recently made a study of the water facilities on each forest where grazing is possible.
 This study has developed the fact that in the Cascade mountains one sheep will require per day:
 On pine grass range, green, 1 quart; on pine grass, dry, 2 quarts; on bunch grass (low, green), 1 quart; on bunch grass (high mountain, green) dew or 1-2 pint; bunch grass (low, dry) 1 quart; bunch grass (high mountain, dry) 2 quarts.
 On the dry mountain range east of the Cascades, or in eastern Oregon and Washington, on pine grass, Geyer's sage, bunch grass, and dry meadow range, in the early spring require

5 gallons of water per day. On the same forage sheep with lambs need 1 gallon per day, and dry sheep but 1-2 gallon. This is where the animals are salted on the range. In the late spring, early summer and early fall, on the same class of forage and under like conditions, cattle require 7 1-2 gallons of water per day, sheep with lambs 1 11-2 gallons and dry sheep 1-2 gallons per day. During the summer cattle require 10 gallons per day, sheep with lambs, 2 gallons and dry sheep 1-2 gallons.

On high mountain range, with weeds, damp meadows, or browse salted cattle will require per day, in late spring, early summer and early fall, 5 gallons of water, whereas sheep with lambs under these conditions will require 1 gallon, and dry sheep 1-2 gallon. During the summer, cattle on this class of forage will require under similar conditions will require 7 1-2 gallons, sheep with lambs 1 1-3 gallons, and dry sheep 1 gallon per day.

With these figures and those for the forage capacity of the range, the amount of water necessary for any range may be determined easily. If the available water is not sufficient to meet the needs of the range, the forest service plans to undertake the development of known sources of water and thus increase the supply.

Washington Wool Scheme—Establishment of wool concentration warehouses at Pasco and Kennewick, for the use of the Walla Walla and North Yakima district sheepmen, is the department of the members of the Wenaha Wool Growers' association, provided further investigation into into expenses and facilities, by a specially appointed committee, determines the plan is feasible and practicable as is claimed by the leaders in the movement.
