Lucy Falaba Unarmed.
LONDON, April 16.—The official information bureau issued a statement saying that the British steamer Falaba sunk at sea March 25 by a German submarine, with a loss of more than 100 lives, was not armed.

It is not true, the statement goes on, that sufficient time was given the passengers and the crew of this vessel to escape. The German submarine closed in on the Falaba, ascertaining her name, signalled her to stop and gave those on board five minutes to take to their boats. It would have been nothing less than a miracle, it is pointed out, if all the passengers and the crew of a good sized liner had been able to take to her boats within the time allowed.

"While some of the boats were still on their davits," the statement declares, "the submarine fired a torpedo at the Falaba at short range. This action made it absolutely certain that there must be great loss of life and it must have been committed knowingly, with the intention of producing that result."

It took the O. A. C. baseballers 11 innings and most of the afternoon and evening to triumph over the Pendleton amateur Bucks yesterday in the first of a two-game series. Not until the swiftest had extended itself into two extra frames could the college boys annex a winning margin but when they did they spilled over, putting as many runs across in that last chapter as they did in all of the ten preceding ones. The final score was 12 to 6 which doesn't exactly sound as if it belonged to a close and extra inning battle.

It was a young stalwart named Weller who pulled the cork that bottled up the game. Coming to bat in the 11th with the bases loaded and none down, he delivered himself of one of those heroic deeds such as abound in tales of the immortal Merriwell Bros. He just naturally slammed that ball into the deep shadows of the left hand bleachers for a home run. That netted four runs to the good and, before the cadets could forget their enthusiasm, they had pounded two more around the circuit.

For all the inglorious ending the game was an interesting one to watch and the playing of the Bucks, most of whom are high school kids, threw a surprise into the spectators as well as the visiting team. They started to pound the petter right at the start and, before the rah rah boys could convince themselves that they would have to play hard to win the humble wearers of the blue were in the lead.

Merle Phelps, a Hermiston freshman, was sent to the slab for the O. A. C. team and a group of admiring project dwellers were up to watch him perform. The knowledge of their presence seemed to make the young twirler nervous for it took him several innings before he could begin to be effective against the Bucks. McGarrigle did the pitching for Pendleton and he did a man's job of it through the regulation nine innings. After that the strain began to tell and he wobbled. In the tenth he allowed the bases to fill with only one down but was extricated by a pretty double play which he himself started.

The Pendleton boys were no match for the collegers in the fielding department as the error column will show. However, their fielding wasn't as bad as said column would indicate. Most of the errors were the result of bad throws made in fast playing.

"Chots" Gordon, playing the second game of his career, was one of the stars of the game despite the three errors against him. He rapped out a single and a triple in the first two times up, was only prevented from getting a third hit by the sensational fielding of Captain Goble and registered a score by a pretty piece of baserunning in the second.

Gordon was lead-off man in the batting order and led off for Pendleton in the first, after the college boys had been retired, one, two, three, with a clean single to left. Pariett's single advanced him to second and he made his way to third on a wild pitch. He was caught at the plate, however, in an endeavor to score on Peterson's infield ball. O. A. C. opened the scoring in the second. Hayes opened with a single and Sieberts followed with what looked like a sure hit through short. Gordon fielded it, however, and threw to second in time to catch Hayes had not Knight dropped the ball. There were two on and none down when Baldwin, one of the hitting stars of
