Six Tables for Cards Are Arranged—Home Is Beautifully Decorated—Parents-Teachers' Association Will Give Farewell Reception to Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Youel.

(Special Correspondence.)

HERMISTON, May 29.—The attractive home of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Reece was the scene of one of the prettiest parties in Hermiston during the season Thursday evening in honor of Mrs. Laura Headington, house guest of Mrs. Reece.

Six tables for cards were arranged in the beautifully decorated rooms, the color scheme being carried out in link and white roses.

The refreshments were served on the porch which were well screened by vines. Yellow and white were the colors used here, a lattice work of crepe paper formed a false ceiling from which suspended hundreds of white American beauty roses. The tables were strewn with delicate yellow and white roses and these same flowers filled several silver tankards. Several yellow shaded candelabra and faintly painted roses for place cards completed the decorations. The color scheme was also carried out in the salads, loaves, cakes and candies.

The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Rayhill, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bohn, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Strohm, Mrs. W. J. WOMEN HAVE TO SMILE. In a great many cases and try to make those around them happy, while they are racked with the pain of organic trouble. Few men realize how common such herosism is. The remedy for this condition is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—a simple remedy made from roots and herbs, which for forty years has been overcoming the most obstinate ills of women. Every woman suffering from female ills owes it to herself and family to give it a fair trial.—Adv.

Wireless Caught by Kite. LIVERPOOL, May 5.—Some interesting particulars as to how the captain of the German raider Kronprinz Eitel Friederich, which is now interned in the United States, intercepted wireless messages and avoided the attention of the British warships, is given by the captain of the British ship Invercoe, one of the Kronprinz Eitel's victims.

The British captain said: "They rigged up an eight-foot kite, used the thinny drawn wire of Lord Thompson's sounding machine, made this fast to the kite and attached to it the wireless receiver. Every night they would send up the kite and catch every bit of wireless news that was going. Their own wireless could send only 800 miles, but by use of the kite arrangement they could hear up to 2500 miles. The news that was picked up in this way was written out in German and put up on a bulletin board.

"These kites had to be flown against the wind, and on sending them up, the course of the ship had to be altered so as to bring the wind ahead. They lost 16 kites during the time I was on board, due to the wind suddenly shifting, but they had material enough to make as many more as they wanted."

RULES FOR RUNNING A WINNING TEAM

Clarence Dowland, who first leaped into fame by being promoted from the minor leagues to manage the White Sox, and who has put the Chicagoans in the "pennant possibilities" class, gave these as his rules for a successful baseball manager:

- "A player is as important as a manager. Treat him so."
"Never fine a ball player; show him he is wrong."
"See that your men are in bed by 11:30 p. m."
"Be a friend of the newspaper boys—they can help you."
"Pull your boys together—don't spread them apart."
"Give the kids a chance; don't rely too much on old stars."
"Encourage the fighting and aggressive spirit—but don't tolerate rowdyism."
"Managing a major and minor league team is only a difference of degree, that's all. The problems are the same."

Building Needed Exercise.

KANSAS CITY, June 1.—Finding it impossible to exercise this bulldog enough an ingenious blacksmith at Sheffield devised an exercising machine.

Taking a wagon wheel he fastened it to the ground with a pin through the hub. Across the wheel he placed a board with the ends protruding. With a short rope he tied the bulldog to one end of the board. A cat, borrowed of a neighbor, was tied to the other end. The dog started out to rob the cat of several lives, but found it just out of reach. Around they went to the delight of the blacksmith until someone reported to the humane society.

An investigator took the "inventive" back to the owner, which stopped the dog and cat "pinwheel."

IMPROVEMENT OF THE COLUMBIA IS BENEFIT TO ALL SAYS STRUBLE

PRODUCER AND CONSUMER IN COLUMBIA BASIN WILL REAP THE REWARDS.

Relation of Pendleton Business Men and the Farmers of Umatilla County to the Columbia and Snake River Waterways Association is Co-operative Partnership.

"The relation of Pendleton business men and the farmers of Umatilla county to the work of the Columbia and Snake river waterways association is essentially that of a co-operative partnership," said Wallace R. Struble, secretary of the association this morning. "The improvement of the Columbia and its tributaries on the lines proposed by the association means development and direct benefit to every producer and consumer of the Columbia basin. The scheme is distinctively and fundamentally a business proposition, and the work of the association should have the support personally and financially of clear-headed business men. Influence, far-reaching and effective, will be needed to secure the additional government appropriations necessary for the full improvement of the waterway; co-operation will be required for the practical use of the river, without which further government aid will be hard to enlist, and finally, nominal financial support for the association is necessary in order to continue its program of education and agitation.

Officers' Services Gratuitous.

"The association has not been burdened during its existence by a salary list, all officers, including the secretary, having served without compensation. The secretary not only has had the privilege of carrying on the extensive detail work of the organization for the past three years without compensation, but he has also contributed in actual cash out of his own pocket $107.25 for the association work. Every fair-minded man will admit that the burdens should be more evenly distributed. To accomplish this a live, paying membership, with nominal contributions from each, is necessary. We ought to have at least one thousand life members at $1 each and five thousand annual members at $1 each throughout the Columbia basin. I have set myself to the task of securing these between now and the fall meeting in Pendleton next September," said Mr. Struble, "and I request the co-operation of the citizens of Umatilla county in this work."

Slogans of the Organization.

The three leading slogans of the association, as emphasized at the sixth annual convention at Astoria May 7-8 are: First—Adequate improvement of the mouth of the Columbia river to accommodate vessels of deepest draft; second—Immediate canalization of the Columbia and Snake rivers by the national government; third—Encouragement of construction of modern highways to correlate with the open river and the railways skirting its banks. A fourth slogan has been adopted by common consent, namely, Moral support of practical plans for the operation of steamboats and barges. This last is one of the most essential tasks confronting the open river advocates. "Men who think," said Mr. Struble, "cannot fail to grasp the wide-reaching effect of this program, if carried to successful issue."

Improvement of the Columbia is Benefit to All Says Struble

Big Work Last Year.

The association did much valuable work last year, according to the report of its officers. It sent out 4043 pieces of mail, including 2250 general letters and 257 special letters of protest enlisting the co-operation of commercial bodies of the Inland Empire to defeat hostile port legislation at Olympia—the latter effort being successful. To the efforts of the Columbia and Snake river waterways association, more than to any other single organization, the northwest is indebted for the increased congressional appropriation of $450,000 in 1912, which made possible the completion of the Dalles-Celilo canal. The letter files of the association show that its work in this respect was literally herculean.

Forgot His Wife.

MONROE, Wis., June 1.—While on his way home from a day's shopping at Rockford, W. H. Boyd, a prosperous farmer who lives just across the state line, brought his team to a walk and scratched his head. He was sure he had forgotten something. Try as he would, he couldn't think what it was, so he drove on. Arriving home, his loud "whoas!" brought the children out to see what daddy had brought them from the city. Their welcoming shouts were quickly silenced, however. "Where's mamma?" they asked in chorus. Then Boyd knew what he had forgotten. His wife had accompanied him to the city and while she was making purchases for herself, the absent minded father had driven home without her. He broke all speed laws driving the 12 miles back to Rockford.
