

Waldomer Chains

The man who cares to be correct wears a Waldomer chain.

These chains have no attachment to the buttonhole but are worn from one vest pocket to the other.

They may be worn in the upper or lower pockets.

If a pencil or knife is carried on one end of the chain it may be more conveniently used by having the watch in the lower right pocket with the pencil in the upper left.

These chains are not only sensible but very attractive and dressy.

We recommend the use of these instead of the fobs and old style chains.
