

A $500,000 Gift To Users of Fortified Tires

Here's an actual gift. Nobody asked for better tires than Goodyear built last year. They were so extra-good that for years these tires have outsold any other.

But we found new improvements. This year we add them at an extra cost of $500,000 for the year.

Goodyear Fortified Tires have five great features which no other maker uses. Each combats a major trouble. Together they save millions to our users.

They have other features not commonly employed, and each means extra wear.

If we omitted all these extras, we could save this year on our probable output $1,635,000, and pocket that extra profit.

We give you these extras at the Goodyear price through our matchless output. It is due to yourself that you get them.

FANS NEVER FORGET BONEHEAD PLAYS OF BIG LEAGUE FELLOWS

MERKLE'S STUNT, HAPPENING YEARS AGO, STILL HURLED AT PLAYER.

"Laughing Larry" Doyle is Latest Now to be Declared Guilty of Thoughtless Act But It is Not Remembered so Distinctly as Merkle's—Latter Lost a Pennant.

BY HARRY FARIS
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
NEW YORK, June 17.—Fred Merkle "pulled a bone" that cost the New York Giants a pennant. That was years ago but the fans have never forgotten. "Bonehead" is hurled at him to this day. "Laughing Larry" Doyle is guilty of a thoughtless act fully as bad or worse than Merkle's a couple of weeks ago but already his lapse of memory has been forgotten. It came in a game that did not count. Which causes one to think that, after all, it isn't what you do that hurts—it is when you do it.

Merkle's "bone," as it is well known, was in forgetting to touch second in order to complete a play. Doyle's stunt was an even more glaring piece of stupidity. With a man on third and one out Doyle hit a long fly to the outfield in a recent series at Boston. The man on third—Burns—dashed for the plate after the ball was caught. The ball was hit so far that he was sure to score. Doyle rounded first just as the ball was thrown in from the outfield. The ball came directly at him and he reached out and caught it, tossing it to a Boston player. Immediately a protest was lodged with the umpire, who thereupon called Burns out because Doyle had interfered with the ball.

Doyle, who has been one of the National league stars for years, had no alibi. He frankly admitted he had been guilty of a "bone." His only explanation was that he thought as Burns had crossed the plate the play was completed and that his touching the ball would have no effect.

Had Doyle's play been made in a world's series game, as Merkle's was, he would have been marked for the remainder of his baseball career. He would have taken Merkle's place in the gallery of bonehead plays. But as it was done in just an ordinary, everyday battle, it quickly slips from sight—and thought.

It is almost a settled fact that Jess Willard and Jim Coffey are to meet in a ten round argument at the Brighton Beach arena on Labor Day. The horde of managers and promoters entangled in guiding Willard's affairs have been dickered with Promoter Harry Pollok and Coffey's manager, Billy Gibson, and have about agreed on terms. Coffey is recuperating following his hand-busting contest with Jim Flynn and it is understood he won't battle before the Labor Day date so as to be certain that he won't run a chance of losing and thereby kill himself as an opponent for Johnson's conqueror.

A Willard-Coffey bout now—especially a ten round affair—seems mighty futile. That the champion will win seems a certainty. Coffey's showing against the battle-scarred veteran, Jim Flynn, showed that he is no match, at least now, for the title holder. Willard is heavier, taller, a harder puncher and able to take more punishment than the big Irish battler. In his clash with Flynn, Coffey gave indications of having a "glass" paw. When Flynn caught him with a swing Coffey zig-zagged around and appeared considerably dazed. Flynn's poor judgment of distance is all that saved Coffey from a knockout. Flynn's

Zerolene is so distilled as to prevent the molecules of the oil from "splitting up." Thus the molecules of Zerolene act as roller bearings to protect the moving parts from rub and wear—this means full lubricating efficiency.
