A THOUSAND HILLS.
 Folger McKinsey sings of the man of a thousand hills in one of his Baltimore Sun lyrics:
 "It isn't the being knocked
 down that hurts,
 It's the staying knocked
 down that stings.
 The conqueror often went down
 in the dust,
 But he rose on his dauntless
 wings.
 It isn't the being set back that
 counts,
 But the staying set back that
 kills.
 A man never mounts till he
 truly mounts
 Not one, but a thousand hills."

IF OREGON COULD GET IT
THE proposal by ex-Governor West that the state induce congress to turn the Southern Pacific grant lands over to the state of Oregon on condition the state pay off the railroad company's equity is a very interesting suggestion.

If the plan could be carried out Oregon would secure a school fund of thirty five millions or more. Such a fund would mean wonders to Oregon. We could have adequate school buildings and good instruction without relying to any great extent upon taxation.

At present Oregon is the most unfortunate of all north-western states. Our school lands were virtually thrown away by legislatures in the olden days and the result is that the school fund amounts to little, whereas the state of Washington has an immense sum which it can use for educational purposes.

But if we pray congress to turn this valuable property over to the state may the gift be surrounded with such safeguards as will insure without a question that the state will get what it should from the land and will use it for the purposes indicated.

We should take no chances with any more midnight resolutions or with state officials of the calibre we once had in this state and to whom the present undersized school fund may be charged.

"MADE IN AMERICA"

THE arrest of Huerta by federal officers at El Paso is the most interesting piece of news regarding Mexico. The incident proves that the federal officials at Washington have not changed their opinions regarding this particular villain.

But more interesting than the arrest are the disclosures of a plot formed in this country to restore cientifico rule in Mexico. People wonder why Mexico has so much fighting. The answer may be found in New York. After sojourning there for several months we see the old dictator hurrying to the border and the announcement is made that funds have been secured to finance a new revolution.

In addition it is said that American oil interests have been promoting the warfare waged by one of the Mexican factions. All the time American sentiment is crying for peace in Mexico and many clamor for the United States to step in and end the matter the fuel for the fire has been coming from this country.

THE ARMY GEOLOGIST

THE armies need geologists. The Literary Digest says that since war has left the realm of fiery romance and become a matter of digging the enemy out, new problems face the general staffs:

"It is becoming gradually evident that to the various branches of knowledge that go to make up the science of strategy there must be added another—namely, geology. It is not enough to be able to pick out a hillside, or bit of meadow land that will be lend itself to the tactics planned. The commanding officer, fighting now a war of intrenchments, must choose a position that will also be diggable. If beneath a deceptive light surface there is nothing but rock, trenches will be impossible, and his troops will have no chance against an entrenched enemy."

So the geologist is in demand. The New York Evening Sun says that "digging, endless digging, is the routine of present day war," and that where the men dig enough and deep enough, strange things are found.

The spade, the shovel and the pickax are among the war weapons that are kept busy day and night now. The efficient trench diggers share the honor of war which today is one of cold, calculating science. —Atlanta Constitution.

PERMANENT ORGANIZATION.

Colonel Bain declared he is an optimist in spite of events that would rob him of this characteristic. The great war in Europe, he said, would eventually result in a higher type of civilization and would hasten the time when wars will be impossible. The nations will become so sick of war after this great struggle is over that they will untiedly turn to arbitration to settle all future disputes. Out of the war, he said, America is learning some great truths. One is that we can manufacture in our country the goods we have been buying abroad at an enormous expenditure of money. Another is, that to be a real American citizen, we must "See America First." Millions of dollars that have been turfed into the pockets of Europeans are now being diverted to our home people and as great scenic wonders are being seen here as have been seen in Europe. The old world has nothing like Niagara Falls, Mammoth cave, the wonders of Oregon and other western states, and American travelers are just beginning to find this out.

Despite his 70 odd years, Colonel Bain is a vigorous speaker and held his audience last evening in close attention. He has been on the American platform as a lecturer for upwards of 40 years. In closing he told Pendleton people to keep their chautauqs as an annual event and make it a great rival of the Round-up. He was vigorously applauded.

the border while government agents are engaged in preparing for further steps against the alleged revolutionary conspirators.
 Clifford Beckham of Fort Worth is acting as special agent for the department of justice. Beckham said more arrests will be made and that the men suspected are citizens of Texas. He refused to discuss reports that New York financiers, who are said to have supplied the funds for the new revolution, were to be taken into custody.
 Huerta and Orozco will be arraigned before the federal commissioner on Thursday.

 Beckham said the attempted escape of General Salazar from Albuquerque on November 29, 1914, was connected with the present conspiracy. Beckham said he first heard of the revolutionary plot while investigating Salazar's escape. He admitted secret service agents were watching Huerta and Orozco to see they did not cross the border. Beckham firmly believes the arrest of the Mexican leaders broke up a new revolution.
 EL PASO, Texas, June 28.—General Victoriano Huerta, ex-president of Mexico, arrived here yesterday, accompanied by several well-known Mexicans. Soon afterward he was taken into custody on charges of conspiring against a friendly country, and held for a time at Fort Bliss, until he gave $15,000 bail.
 General Pascual Orozco was detained with him, on the charge, and also released later on $7500 bail.
 Federal Agents File Charges.
 The charges were filed by special agents of the department of Justice. United States officials were silent relative to future action pending the receipt of instructions from Washington. Observers, however, freely expressed the belief that yesterday's action of United States authorities will have an important bearing on Mexican developments, if it does not effectively put an end to rumors of a new revolutionary movement that have been current on the border for several months.
 Many were inclined to see in these events an indication that Washington remains firm in its attitude, that Huerta's return to Mexico would not aid in adjusting the present difficulties and might serve to complicate them.
 Public Demonstration Ends.
 A public demonstration in Juarez about the hour Huerta's train was due to reach this city ended as suddenly at it began. There were hurried conferences among Mexican leaders on both sides of the Rio Grande. Many guardedly admitted that Huerta's detention was of the utmost importance, but none would comment on its possible effect on Mexico.

 Americans were freer in their comment. They reviewed the recent activity along the border of the adherents of the Cientifico party in Mexico, including the disbursement of considerable sums of money for a variety of purposes, the discovery of many rifles and much ammunition in an El Paso warehouse owned by a member of that party and the appearance of General Ynez Salazar in western Chihuahua. They recalled the activities of General Orozco, Carava and Salazar in the anti-Mexico revolution and their subsequent service during the Huerta regime.
 Movement Long Expected.
 For several days there have been persistent reports that June 2 had been fixed as the date for far-reaching developments at Juarez in connection with the so-called third revolutionary movement. Some observers professed to see a close relation between this movement and the arrival of General Huerta. They expressed the opinion that his detention had prevented such a consummation by removing the possibility of Huerta's participation in such a movement, despite his declaration that he had no intention of attempting to cross into Mexico.
 Opponents of this theory, who regard Huerta as one of the strongest men in Mexican public life in recent years, believe his detention may result in removing a strong influence on Venustiano Carranza and Francisco Villa for the reasonable conduct of their governments.
