

MONEY AVAILABLE FOR UMATILLA CO. LIBRARY BUILDING

Carnegie Officials After Inspecting Plans Notify Board $25,000 is Ready When Needed.

CONTRACT TO BE LET SOON

Style of Building Conforms to Italian Renaissance Architecture—Auditorium and Story Room in Basement—Landscape Arrangement Will Enhance Appearance.

After having been shown the plans for the proposed Umatilla county library the Carnegie people in New York have notified the library board through County Judge Marsh that the $25,000 offered for the building is now available as needed for the construction work.

This means the board may now proceed with the construction of the building and Messrs. Johnson & Mayer, architects, will be instructed to provide the final specifications. Bids for erecting the building will then be asked for and the contract let. R. W. Hatch, associate architect of Pendleton, will supervise the construction work.

The following gives a general and detailed description of the plans.

Architect's Description. In an interview with Folger Johnson, designer of the building, it is learned that the new Umatilla County Library will in concept follow the forms of the early Italian Renaissance architecture, but will borrow none of the caprice of this style depending for effect purely upon harmonious proportion, good color tones and simple dignity.

A choice of Italian Renaissance may seem strange at first thought but closer consideration justifies this for certainly most of the art of our modern civilization is based upon the interpretation and attainments of the Age of Renaissance in Italy which in turn received its inspiration from the classic art of old Rome. So rather than design the Pendleton library in an architectural style that is purely a vogue, enjoying popularity today but tomorrow falling into disfavor, the architects have reverted directly to the inspired ages of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries hoping to catch the spirit of that old work of which humanity never seems to tire.

Style. The building will be simple and dignified and only slightly ornamented, a conception of style that seems highly appropriate to such a country as surrounds Pendleton of sweeping contours with but little detail of trees or shrubbery. Any building to harmonize with this big country must be of decided form and line, characterized by frank expression of its purpose and void of all subtlety.

The architects in searching for pleasing architectural expression found suggestion in the Portico of the Pazzi Chapel which nestles back in the cloister of the old church of Santa Croce, Florence, Italy. This portico combines in effect a colonnade with a large arch at the center giving emphasis to the entrance, the whole being crowned with a bracketed cornice and tile roof.

The motive will be modified and reproduced in the Pendleton library at the entrance but the wings of the building to either side which house the reading and children's rooms, will be expressed on the exterior with a series of arched windows, and the effect of these wings architecturally will be secured in a contrast of void and solid, and play of light and shade from the spreading cornice, but with no resort to embellishment. The entrance will be keyed somewhat higher in the elaboration of detail which will give a pleasing contrast with the simplicity of the wings.

Material—Construction.

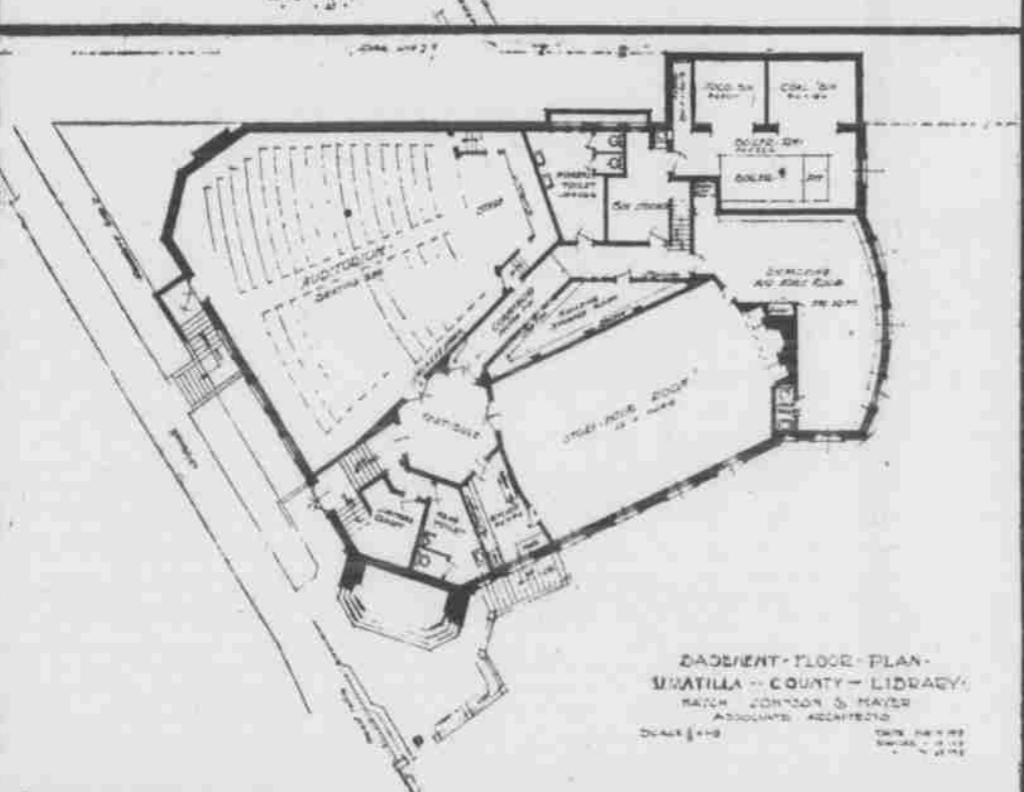

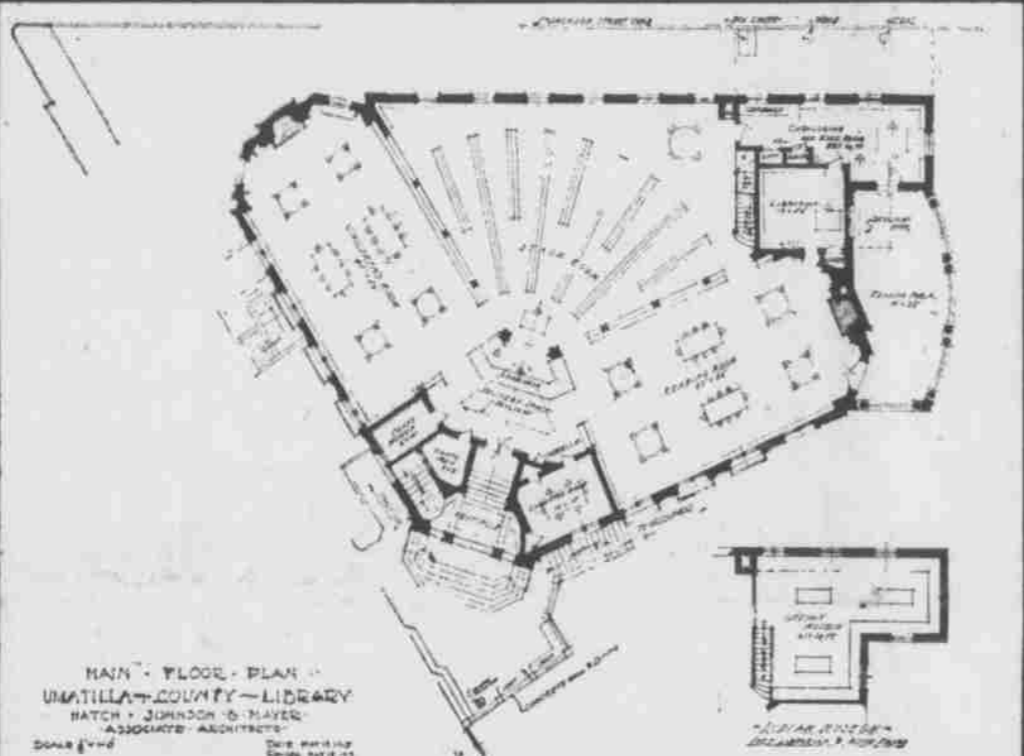

In the choice of materials care is being exercised to use incombustible materials as far as the available funds for the building will permit. The basement walls and floors will be of concrete and the superstructure of stucco on hollow tile; the roof of terra cotta tile. The walls and architectural features such as cornice treatment, capitals, etc., on the interior will be of plaster or composition and all tinted so as to tone in with the background of wall. Wood will be used sparingly, only for door and window trims, bookcases, stacks and furniture. The architectural expression will conform to that of the exterior so that the building as a whole will be a unit in the harmony of its parts.

Whether the main floor will be of wood or concrete, or other incombustible material must be determined by the cost. In any event it will be covered with cork carpet but the entrance vestibule and porch will have an inlay of tile.

PRELIMINARY SURVEY BEGUN ON LOCAL-UMATILLA ROAD

County Surveyor Wilbur Bradley has started the preliminary survey of the proposed Pendleton-Umatilla highway. He is working now just west of Pendleton but right after the Fourth will go to Umatilla and work from that end of the road. The proposed route of the road was agreed upon by the Commercial clubs of Umatilla, Hermiston, Stanfield and Echo and the county court will try to follow it as far as possible. The westenders are desirous that there be as little grade as possible in the road and the county surveyor is running his lines with the same idea. One of the worst places on the road is just west of Pendleton in going over the hill. There are several routes and all have their problems. Surveyor Bradley is trying to get over the hill with not more than a five per cent grade.

Submarines in Sinking Caucasian and Inglemoor Make Biggest Haul Since the Steamship Lusitania Was Sent to the Bottom—One Schooner Among the Lost.

LONDON, July 2.—German submarine commanders are being "tipped" on the departure of British vessels from American ports. Definite reports to this effect have been received by the admiralty coincident with the renewal of submarine attacks on a large scale. Reports of the sinking of three big steamers, a schooner and a bark, have been received by the admiralty in rapid succession. The night's work represented the biggest submarine haul since the Lusitania was sent to the bottom. The vessels represented a tonnage of more than twenty thousand tons. The steamer Walsbury was shelled and sunk off Castletown and the crew rescued. The steamers Caucasian and Inglemoor were sunk off the Scilly Islands. Fifty of the crew were rescued. The admiralty indicated there were no casualties. The schooner L. C. Tower was sunk off Portland and the crew landed at Queenstown. The same submarine sank a small bark which attempted to escape.

LONDON, July 2.—Four more British vessels have been torpedoed by submarines, it was learned. They are the steamer Caucasian, Inglemoor, Walsbury and the schooner L. C. Tower. In sinking the Caucasian and Inglemoor, German submarines accomplished the biggest haul since the Lusitania was sent to the bottom. Both were large, being more than four thousand tons.

MERCURY CLIMBS TO 100 MARK; HOTTEST OF YEAR

For the first time this year the mercury this afternoon bumped the 100 mark and so today is entitled to be called the hottest day of the year so far. Yesterday the highest temperature was 98 and the minimum last night was 57. Though today is hotter than yesterday or the day before, farmers do not seem to think the grain is suffering as much as on the preceding days, the breezes not being so hot today.

Germans Deliver Strong Attacks But are Repulsed

BRITISH HOLDING THE LINE AT YPRES—FRENCH RESIST FIERCE RUSHES.

PARIS, July 2.—Violent counter attacks are being made against the allied lines by the Germans from Arras to Ypres. The British in the region of Ypres are being subjected to a terrific bombardment, an official communique stated. The artillery action was followed by massed attacks of the enemy's infantry, attempting to storm the British positions. So far the attacks have been repulsed. The British are holding the lines, the statement said. Advancing from La Bassée the Germans attempted to storm the English position in a brickyard near the Bethune road, but they were repulsed. Rushes against the French along the Angres-Ablain road also were repulsed, the statement said. In the Artois region the Germans are reported using asphyxiating gases, but are only temporarily successful.

VILLA DOES NOT WANT TO BE PRESIDENT OF MEXICO

LEADER IS FIGHTING FOR DEMOCRATIC PRINCIPLES SAYS HIS FRIENDS.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Villa does not want to be president of Mexico and no other man of the Villista faction wants the post, according to General Angeles, former chief lieutenant for Villa. The revolution in Mexico is now a fight by Carranza to gain control of the government, while the Villistas are resisting in behalf of democratic principles, desiring only to turn the government over to some one lawfully entitled to leadership, he said.

ASPHYXIATING GASES WILL NOT BE USED BY THE BRITISH

NOT ALLOWED BY CIVILIZED RULES OF WARFARE IS THE REASON.

NEW YORK, July 2.—The British government refuses to use asphyxiating gases in the European war because it is contrary to the rules laid down by The Hague conference, according to a declaration of Dr. W. B. McLaughlin of Brooklyn. He asserts that he showed attaches of the British embassy at Washington, how to pour sulphide dioxide gas into the trenches, rendering the opposing troops helpless but leaving no permanent ill. The British ambassador refused to consider the plan because it was condemned by the international peace conference. Three months later, McLaughlin said the Germans began using chloride gas.

ANGLO-ARMENIAN TANGLE IS LIKELY TO COME OVER SHIP

ARMENIAN, AS TRANSPORT, HAD NO BUSINESS TO CLEAR FROM PORT.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The sinking of the liner American is likely to cause an Anglo-Armenian rather than a German-American controversy. It is evident the question hinges upon whether the Armenian was a British transport or a peaceful freighter. If the vessel was a transport, officials agreed she should not have been permitted to clear for Avonmouth. It remained for an official investigation to settle whether or not the Armenian was a transport. The destruction of the liner is nearly a closed incident as far as Germany is concerned. All reports agree the Armenian was sunk while trying to escape.

OFFICIALS DO NOT BELIEVE ADRIATIC WILL BE ATTACKED

Big Liner Reported to Have Been Marked by Germans but Reports are Ridiculed at New York.

NO CONTRABAND IS ABOARD

No Reason Seen Why Teutons Should Seek to Sink Vessel—Prominent Canadians and Englishmen Are Passengers But Only Five Americans Included in List.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Reports that the liner Adriatic, which sailed from New York Wednesday, is marked for attack by a German submarine were ridiculed by officers of the White Star Line. It was denied the Adriatic carried contraband. Officials said there was no reason why the Germans should especially endeavor to sink her. The report was believed to have originated from the fact Premier Borden and other prominent Canadians and Englishmen are aboard. Only five Americans took passage.

PRESS OF ENGLAND REJECTS THEORY SINKING JUSTIFIED

FACT THAT ARMENIAN TRIED TO ESCAPE DOES NOT EXCUSE ACT, STATED.

LONDON, July 2.—The British press rejected the theory that the sinking of the Armenian was justified because the liner attempted to escape. There was no reference in the papers to the Armenian being engaged in "admiralty business." The first news that a formal announcement was made to this effect, came from the United States, telling of a cablegram from Ambassador Page. The majority of newspapers took the view the sinking of the Armenian would not result in a loss of American protest, despite the loss of American lives.

Terrific Assault is Opened Against Dardanelles Forts

ATHENS, July 2.—The terrific assault against the Turkish positions before Kirthia, which began on Wednesday, is still in progress. Eight allied warships, headed by the super-dreadnaught Queen Elizabeth, are pounding the fortifications in the most violent bombardment since the attack upon Kibid Bahr several months ago. Unconfirmed reports declare Kirthia has fallen. Mytilene dispatches declare the losses of the allies and Turks during the last week were heavier than any time since the fighting on the Gallipoli peninsula opened. The allied losses were declared to be at least 19,000 killed, wounded and missing. The Turkish losses are even heavier.
