Foreman's House Blown Up With Fatal Results Last Night—President of Concern Warned by Phone—Attempt on His Home Was a Failure.

DALLAS, Texas, July 27.—J. D. Padgett, president of the Padgett Brothers' company, manufacturers of saddles, whose home was threatened by dynamite last night, said he would quit making saddles for the allies. Bombs were found underneath his home after he had been warned they would be exploded unless the war orders were cancelled. W. T. Moore, foreman of Padgett Brothers, was probably fatally injured and his son hurt last night when a bomb wrecked his home. The police believe persons determined to prevent supplies from reaching the allies are responsible. The Padgett company was filling a million dollar order for the French and British armies.

A short time before the wrecking of the Moore home, President Padgett notified the police he had received three anonymous telephone calls warning him his home would be destroyed unless he cancelled the war orders. Officers found two bombs beneath the house. A burned fuse showed an unsuccessful attempt was made to explode them.

SON IS ARRESTED. DALLAS, Texas, July 27.—Wallace Moore, son of the foreman of the Padgett saddle factory, was arrested charged with exploding the bomb which injured his father. Police believe he is responsible for the attempted wrecking of the Padgett home in an effort to cover up the Moore case.

REDFIELD TAKES CHARGE OF WORK WANTS THE TRUTH

Government Will Seek no Official "Goat" for Eastland Wreck, But Will Make Thorough Inquiry.

MANY VICTIMS UNRECOVERED

Survivor Tells Harrowing Tale of Scene on Board When Ship Listed and Sank—Women and Children Packed So Densely Boat Was Evacuated.

CHICAGO, July 27.—"No official incompetence will be assumed, none will be pardoned," was the statement of Secretary of Commerce Redfield upon his arrival here to investigate the Eastland disaster. The secretary said he will confer immediately with local federal officials. "Exact justice is what I am asking," he said. "The Eastland disaster is a terribly unfortunate occurrence." Redfield indicated that an official "goat" is not being sought but that the government's investigation will be complete.

VICTIMS IN BALLROOM

CHICAGO, July 27.—Most of the victims of the Eastland disaster whose bodies are still imprisoned in the ballroom of the steamer are women and children. While divers are heading every effort to penetrate the hull of the steamer, this fact is established through the testimony of Robert Moore, a survivor, who appeared as a witness at the inquest. Moore's testimony was a gruesome story of the scenes of terror aboard the Eastland. He declared the ballroom was packed with women and children and that he could not make his way through this part of the steamer. Then came a sickening list, rush of water and death. Moore said he went aboard the Eastland at seven o'clock. Two minutes later he noticed the steamer listing. But he declared the list was not due to excursionists crowding to one side of the boat because they were packed aboard so tightly they were necessarily evenly divided about the ship. A Survivor's Story. "I went to the ballroom," said Moore, "there I noticed women and children so packed in I could not penetrate the crowd. Then the Eastland capsized." Moore recounted the terrible scenes that followed; of the terror-stricken mothers torn from children, the awful crush in the packed ballroom in a mad fight for life, the rush of water into the Eastland as it turned on its side and went to the bottom.

Officials believe there are still four hundred bodies in the hull of the Eastland. It is Moore's opinion they are mostly those of women and children, jammed in the ballroom. Officials of the St. Joe Steamship Line, which operated the Eastland, and Captain Pederson are expected to appear as witnesses at the inquest this afternoon.

CONGRESS MAY BE CALLED EARLY TO PREPARE DEFENSE

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Secretary of War Garrison has called into conference Assistant Secretary Breckinridge, General Scott and General Bliss to go over tentative drafts of an army reorganization plan which he expects to submit to the president upon the latter's return to Washington. Despite Garrison's protest here is no "hurry up" program of national defense in view, there are indications that the war department is losing no extra session of congress will be called early after October first in order to get an early start at working out defense problems. Such plans may be dropped if the international situation reaches a point where the calling of an extra session causing a misunderstanding abroad, might defeat diplomacy and add to the danger. Garrison denied he knows of the existence of a secret formula which an army officer is quoted as saying "will surprise the Germans." "I know nothing of it," said the secretary.

CANNON BALL FROM FORT HENRIETTA FOUND NEAR ECHO

(Special Correspondence.) ECHO, Ore., July 27.—An interesting relic of early days was plowed up last week on the old James Taylor place about one and one half miles above Echo, being a four and one-half pound solid iron cannon ball, three and one-fourth inches in diameter. In early days Fort Henrietta stood just across the Umatilla river from where the town of Echo stands. The old fort was equipped with two brass cannon which were thrown into the well and the well filled up at the time in 1857, to keep them from falling into the hands of the Indians. A short time afterwards the Indians burned the fort but they did not recover the cannon and they are generally supposed to still be at the bottom of the old well. The exact location of which no one now knows. It is highly probable that this cannon ball was at one time fired from one of the old cannon.

"FIRMNESS AND COURTESY"

Adjustment of Controversy May Yet Be Possible—Germany Will Never Do Anything to Bring About Break With the United States.

BY CARL W. ACKERMAN. (Staff Correspondent United Press.) (Copyright 1915, by the United Press. (Copyright in Great Britain.) BERLIN, July 27.—"Germany, in reply to the American note, must stand firm." The under secretary of foreign affairs read me this excerpt from a letter, one of many he and other officials have received from citizens indicating the German people won't sanction giving up of submarine warfare. "Firmness and courtesy are needed," the letter continued. "Exactly," said Zimmerman. "Do the future relations between Germany and America look as dark as some declare?" I asked. "No," came the response. "In this great and age it is possible for two great nations to differ without coming to a break. Germany will never do anything to bring that about. You can assure the American people of that." "Is an adjustment of the controversy still possible?" I pursued. "We hope so," Zimmerman replied. "We tried our best in the last note, but your government did not accept our proposals. We can never give up submarine attacks," Zimmerman reiterated. "The people never would stand for that."

CHAS. MORRISON IS NEAR DEATH FROM RECENT ACCIDENT

With but small chance of recovery, Charles Morrison, of the firm of Peeters & Morrison, proprietors of the Olympia Bar, is lying at the point of death at St. Anthony's hospital this afternoon as the result of a fall more than a week ago. Physicians operated upon him early this afternoon as a final measure to save his life and, while they have not abandoned hope, they admit the chances are strongly against him. The accident, which befell Mr. Morrison, occurred a week ago Saturday night. Accompanied by his wife and two friends, he motored to Athena and, while passing through a dark alleyway in the rear of the hardware store in that town, he fell down a flight of stairs leading into a cellarway. He was alone at the time and was not discovered for some time. He had evidently struck on the concrete floor on his head but his condition was not considered serious until several days afterwards. He has been in a comatose state much of the time since and this morning his respiration became so difficult that he was rushed to the hospital just before noon. The operation revealed a tiny fracture at the base of the skull. Bloodclots were removed and the concussion relieved but the patient's condition is very critical.
