But recently a pearl and diamond brooch, belonging to Mrs. Frederick U. Havemeyer, of East Thirty-second street, was discovered in a groove under the revolving door of the main entrance of the Biltmore Hotel. The brooch, said to be worth about $1000.

The brooch had been there some time and the revolving doors probably turned hundreds of times over the gems. The brooch was not damaged and it is said to have been gradually swept into the groove, which projected it.

Detectives of the hotel knew nothing of the loss and loss of the find. Detective Williams declared that he knew nothing about it. Nevertheless other employees of the hotel told of the remarkable good fortune of Mrs. Havemeyer in not having the brooch damaged. Mrs. Havemeyer is said to possess one of the finest collections of pearls in this city. Her maid admitted that the lost brooch had been found.

TO RESCUE PARENTS, HE HAS WARRANTS ISSUED

BAKER, Ore., Aug. 11.—To rescue his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hermsen, who are said to be detained on government land by George Long, a rancher at Mill Creek, 14 miles northwest of here, William Hermsen was forced to ask for the arrest of his parents, charging them with trespass. Constable Claude Bowman left for Mill Creek to bring the slippery people home.

According to the story told, F. L. Hubbard, justice of the peace, the Hermsens when starting on their camping trip last week received permission from Long to cross his land. Yesterday when they wished to return, Long is reported to have refused to let them cross again, and they had no other way to get out. Evading Long, it is said, one of the boys made his way over the land and brought word into Baker and the swinging out of the complaint was declared to be the only way to save the parents from enforced prolongation of their camping.

The present earl relinquished a captaincy in the First Volunteer Battery regiment to join the medical corps. As a private he will receive 24 cents a day from the government.
