UNION LIGHT GUARD WILL RECALL PAST WHEN G. A. R. MEETS

BODY-GUARD OF PRESIDENT LINCOLN WILL RENEW FELLOWSHIP OF OLD.

Gathering is Planned During September When Veterans of the Civil War Meet at Washington—Guard Played Important Part During the Struggle of 1861.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—A re-union of the Union Light Guard, which was the bodyguard of President Lincoln, for two years during the civil war, is planned in Washington during the encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, September 21-October 2.

While conversing with Secretary of War Stanton in 1863, the governor of Ohio offered to obtain a bodyguard for President Lincoln. Secretary Stanton accepted the offer. The governor therefore asked for a picked man from each county in Ohio, but did not say what the service was to be.

Each man thought he was going to the front, or to lead a "forlorn hope" and he gave his life when he enlisted, and it was accepted as a sacrifice to his country. When the soldiers arrived in Washington they were informed they were to the bodyguard of the president, and they served as such until after the war closed.

They were quartered upon the ellipse south of the treasury and some of them were on guard every hour, two hours being limit for each day and night, winter and summer. There were 198 men in the company, and nearly every county was represented; a few being slow in responding, the deficiency was made up from other counties. They were mustered in at Columbus, Ohio, December 17, 1863, and their enlistment was for three years of the war.

The mustering officer was Capt. Elmer Otis, 4th United States cavalry. They left for Washington December 22, 1863, and reported to the secretary of war, learning for the first time their mission.

The soldiers were not all kept about the White House, but were at times in Virginia, below Alexandria, and along the river to a point opposite Georgetown, scattered about Washington and the forts surrounding the city, but always a goodly number was kept on duty about the White House.

After being mustered out of service the members scattered, and it has been difficult to trace them, but at the encampment of the G. A. R. in Toledo in 1908, nine gathered and effected an organization with Lieut. George C. Axman as president and Robert W. McBride as secretary.

It was decided that a more thorough search should be made to locate the missing members, so that they might have the privilege of "touching elbows" again in a peaceful organization. Last year there was a meeting of the survivors in Detroit, Mich., and another meeting will be called in September during the G. A. R. encampment here.

STRINGENT RULES BY BOYS GOVERN THEIR HOURS OF PLAYING

NO SWEARING ALLOWED AND ANY CAUGHT DOING IT WILL BE FIRED.

Little Citizens Committee of Oakland Playground Makes Rules Which Are Enforced in Every Particular—Plan of Instructor is Carried Out in Befitting Manner.

OAKLAND, Cal., Aug. 17.—"Swearing doesn't go here. Any boy caught cussing will be fired." This is the first rule promulgated by the "Little Citizens Committee" of the Bella Vista playground in Oakland. And it goes.

Some weeks ago, Miss Pearl Banks, play director of the grounds, decided to put the management of the children in the hands of a committee of boys. She chose ten youngsters from different neighborhoods near the playground, formed them into a "Little Citizens' Committee" and asked them to draw up rules and regulations.

The boys were allowed to make the rules as they saw fit. They were formally adopted by the committee and then ratified, in their original form, by the board of playground directors. They were then placed in the field house and the "Little Citizens' Committee" see to it that they are strictly enforced. Regular policemen could watch no more sharply for infractions of the rules than they, and when a member of the committee sees a violation of the law he promptly hales the offender before his brother committeemen and a trial takes place.

Other rules of the committee are as follows: "No cigarettes. They're no good. Any boy found smoking will be shown the gate."

"You've got to keep paper and trash off the grounds. If you see it here, do it decent and take the refuse away with you. If you don't look out for trouble."

"Small children must be given a chance all the time. If any boy takes anything away from a little kid he'll get his."

"Say, 'Thanks.' It don't hurt you, and being polite ain't a crime."

The penalty for violation of the rules from a fine of one cent to expulsion from the playgrounds for a month. And the ruling of the committee is not questioned.

The work of the committee has been watched by the board of playground directors, and if it is the success it promises to be the system will be recommended for adoption on all 38 playgrounds in Oakland.

GRAIN DAMAGED WHEN STORM HITS LA GRANDE

LA GRANDE, Ore., Aug. 17.—For 20 minutes yesterday afternoon rain and hail did damage to the hay and grain crops in the immediate vicinity of La Grande. Fortunately for the wheat the rain was purely a local one and did not reach the big wheat belts, and the loss is therefore confined to one locality. The extent of the damage has not been ascertained.

The soaking rain, accompanied by a near hurricane, drenched the forests in the surrounding hills so thoroughly that forest fires in the big belts will not be likely for at least another week.

U-BOATS SHELL TOWNS ALONG ENGLISH COAST

LONDON, Aug. 17.—German submarines shelled the west coast of England. The towns of White Haven, Parion and Harrington, all in Cumberland, were bombarded.

The admiralty issued a statement shortly after the bombardment, declaring the damage was insignificant.

Cumberland is in the northwestern portion of England, on the Scottish border, and the German submarines were evidently some of those which have been operating in the Irish sea.

White Haven is a seaport and municipal and parliamentary borough of England, in Cumberland, on the Irish sea, near the entrance of Solway Firth, 36 miles southwest of Carlisle. The population in 1901 was 35,225. Harrington is five miles north of White Haven. Parion is one-and-a-half miles from White Haven and is a small seaport town.

Highboy stuff. Guess I'll have to supplement my stock of funny stories with a few anecdotes from the classics," said the drummer.

"For why?" "The home has added Boston to my route."

Rev. J. E. Snyder of the Presbyterian church, who is camped with his family at Wallowa Gorge, seven miles from Lostine, writes that they are having a delightful outing. Their camping spot is one of the most ideal he has ever seen, he states. They get plenty of fish and expect to bag a good many pheasants and perhaps a deer. Dr. and Mrs. Frank Boyden and Mr. and Mrs. G. I. La Dow spent several days with them but are now at Wallowa Lake. Rev. Snyder states he and his family expect to be home by September first.

At 6:30 this morning at the home of the bride's parents on Garfield street, Miss Elsie A. Minnis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Minnis, and Ralph E. Porter were united in marriage. The wedding was a quiet one, only relatives witnessing the ceremony which was performed by Rev. E. R. Cleverer of the Baptist church. The couple were unattended.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter left soon after the wedding for Wallowa Lake where they will remain until September first. Both are popular young people and have many friends to wish them happiness in their union. Mr. Porter is a young farmer, having land just northwest of the city limits, and the young couple will make their home there.

A camping party, consisting of Mrs. G. W. Hugg, Misses Lavelle and Grace Rugg and Miss Lotta Mentzer, in the Rugg car and Loney and Harry Minnis in the Minnis car, left this morning for Wallowa Lake for a two weeks outing.

Vilna, New Objective of Germans, Important Center

Vilna is one of the most important trial and trade center, situated in the immediate objectives of the Teutonic drives in Russia, for its capture and retention by the Germans would not only threaten the communication of the Czar's armies, but would also cripple the second line of Russian defense, along the Bug, or the Brest-Litovsk line. The holding of Vilna would practically cut the northern communications of the powerful fortress and military entrapment upon the Bug, and bring with it a more startling change in the eastern campaign than even the capture of Warsaw.

Vilna is a city of 170,000, an industrial and trade center, situated in the midst of a region of tangled forests, almost impassable marshes and low-lying lakes, at the intersection of the railways from Warsaw to Petrograd, and from Libau, the Baltic port, to Rostof, at the mouth of the Don. It lies nearly midway between the cities of Gerdno and Dvinsk, two other points upon the Warsaw-Petrograd railway threatened by the German invaders. Petrograd lies 426 miles away to the north-northwest of Vilna, and the country in between is a labyrinth of lakes, morass, woodland and wet meadowland. It is more than 110 miles from the German frontier, toward which it is guarded by the fortress of Kovno in the northwest.

The city is an ancient one, of which fact its appearance bears every testimony, for its irregular ground-plan straggles among, around and over the knot of low hills upon which the city is built in accordance with the traditional custom of the middle ages. Its streets are narrow, and not especially well kept. It was, however, a general air of comfortable prosperity, for Vilna sends large quantities of goods to the Black sea and to the Baltic. It handles a very extensive business in grains and timber, articles which it exported before the present war in great quantities to Germany, to Holland and to England. It also has important textile and leather industries. Vilna manufactures considerable tobacco, knit goods, clothing, artificial flowers and gloves.

The old town is rich in memories. A mass of ruins that were once a brilliant castle of the Jagellons is here. Vilna was probably founded in the early part of the 10th century, but is first mentioned as the chief fortified town of the Lithuanians in 1128. It was the nucleus about which the great Lithuanian power grew, and a capital in which the ancient religious services were continued until the end of the 14th century. The god Perikonas housed here in a splendid temple and protected his people in their swamp and woodland until destroyed ruthlessly in 1287 by Prince Jagiello, after his conversion and baptism.

War, plague and destructive fires have played havoc with the city's prosperity and growth. It was nearly ruined altogether in the 17th century, during the struggle between Russia and Poland. Russia finally took possession of the city in 1795, after Poland's partition. The Poles of Vilna sided the uprisings against their Russian overlords in 1831 and 1863, and bitter punishment was administered for this by the Czar's government. The native Russian element in the city is small. It is estimated that more than 50 per cent of the population is Jewish, while the Lithuanians and Poles make up the greater part of the remainder.
