Newsy Notes of Pendleton

May Be Out of Football.

Neil Fowler, who has been ill for some time from an injury in football, has now returned to school to take up his work. Mr. Fowler has been one of the mainstays of the team but there is a possibility of him not being able to play again this year.

Five Crates of Birds Received.

Deputy Game Warden George Tonkin today received five crates of Chinese pheasants from the state game farm at Corvallis. There are 60 birds in the shipment and they will be taken to Ukiah to be liberated on the James Muesle, Hilbert, Clarke, Huston and Mettle ranches. Because of the plentiful cover and abundant food, Mr. Tonkin thinks the birds will go through the winter in good condition.

H. S. Debater Leaves.

Ernest Crockett, prominent high school debater and orator, has left to enter school at Tillamook. While there he will take debate and oratory work under his brother, Peter Crockett, formerly of Pendleton high school and a graduate of the U. of O., who is principal of the high school in that city. Mr. Crockett hopes to meet the old Pendleton team in the final debate which is held at Eugene once a year.

Notin Farmer Dies.

Vernon Larkin, a young farmer of Notin, died last evening about 8 o'clock at St. Anthony's hospital. He had been ill first with typhoid fever and later heart trouble developed and caused his death. He was only 24 years old and is survived by a wife and small child. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Larkin of Oregon City were here attending the Round-up at the time of his death and will take the body back with them for interment.

Slight Improvement.

A slight improvement in the condition of Sam R. Thompson is reported today by his physicians. He is still very ill, however.

Buying Some Sheep.

William Rettle, well known Wheeler county sheepman, is here today from Fossil for the purpose of buying some bucks from the Cunningham Sheep & Land Co.

Moves Back to City.

C. A. Moll, a farmer near Wallula, has moved his family back to Pendleton to take advantage of the schools here. Mr. Moll is just recovering from an injury to his back which he sustained a week ago when he fell with a sack of wheat.

Deportees to Portland.

U. S. Marshal John Montag left on No. 17 today for Portland, having in custody William Mink, Harry Stevens and Willis Lucas, arrested here last week on a charge of selling liquor to Indians. They will be held to the federal grand jury.

Invited to China Day Fete.

C. K. Cranston, secretary of the Commercial association, has received an invitation from the commissioner general of the Republic of China to attend the China Day exercises given in honor of R. F. Shah, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to the United States.

Indian Lost His Seat.

One of the amusing incidents of the Round-up, which escaped the attention of many, occurred Saturday in the Indian relay race. One of the Indian riders and his horse fell and, in the fall, the redskin's trousers were caught in such a way that the whole seat was torn out and left lying on the ground.

May Attend La Grande Tournament.

The Umatilla county players who won the championships in the recent tennis tournament held in this city may attend the Eastern Oregon tournament which is to be staged at La Grande on October 9 and 10. Invitations have been received from G. L. Larson of La Grande, who is in charge of the arrangements. The courts in La Grande are of concrete and said to be as good as any in the northwest.

A Round-up Booster.

R. D. Vernon, assistant fire-chief of Lewiston, Idaho, has become an enthusiastic Round-up booster after seeing the local show last week. He declares that Pendleton is unsurpassed when it comes to putting on a frontier exhibition and hopes to be able to get back next year to see the performance again. While in the city he has been the guest of Fire Chief W. E. Ringgold.

George Ackley on Trial.

George Ackley, keeper of a tamala house on Cottonwood street, is on trial today in the circuit court on a charge of assaulting and robbing Kantus, a deaf Indian, early last May. The evidence of the state tends to show that he beat up the old Indian and took from him a purse in which was $42.50. The purse was found in his trunk later by the officers. Ackley is being defended by P. M. Peterson.

Fire Starts in Debris.

A small fire was started yesterday back of the Bowman hotel by a match or cigarette thrown among some old papers blown under the sidewalk. The fire department was called and soon extinguished the blaze. It was the only fire of the week and Chief Ringgold feels that the city was fortunate in not having more fires. He urges that citizens get busy now and clean up the debris from the festivities in order to prevent more fires.

Baker Boosters Much Pleased.

The big delegation of Baker boosters, who came over for the Saturday Round-up in special Pullmans, were much pleased with the show and, while enjoying the festivities of Pendleton, they managed to make everyone know from whence they came. With distinctive headgear and ribbons and little canes, they paraded the streets and "Chinchilli's" Hungry Band" made music that was in a class by itself. They staid in Happy Canyon betting bucks and dancing until that town was closed.

Ruth Parton Is Grateful.

Ruth Parton of Toppenish, champion cowgirl relay racer who defended her title successfully at the Round-up last week, before leaving for home desired to express appreciation to the directors of the Round-up and the citizens of Pendleton for the splendid treatment she received and to the Happy Canyon council for the beautiful saddle she won. She has attended six wild west shows this year, she said, but Pendleton's Round-up, both in attendance and merit, surpassed all six. She likes to ride here and will be back next year, she states.

Three Broken Collar Bones.

Three broken collar bones and a broken elbow were about the extent of the Round-up injuries last week, and only one of them was received by a performer. On Thursday at the park, Bert Purdin sustained a fractured clavicle when he was thrown from a burro and J. G. Hill, motion picture operator, received a broken cheek bone on the same day when he was run over by a stage coach team. On Friday, Oscar Drumheller of Walla Walla, while coming to Pendleton in his auto, suffered a fracture of the collar bone when his auto struck another and bounded against the bank. He and another car had been traveling alongside and, as they approached the Wild Horse cut, the other car turned to the center of the road. To avoid a collision, Drumheller tried to put his foot on the brake but, instead pressed the throttle down and, shot forward into the bank. Other members of the party suffered minor injuries and the car was badly damaged. On Friday night in Happy Canyon just after the street show had closed, a Mrs. English of Walla Walla fell through the bleachers and struck the ground sixteen feet below. Her collar bone was also broken.

City Was Well Policed.

Pendleton was well policed during the Round-up and the crooks, who were drawn here with the crowd, had small opportunity to ply their trades. There was perhaps less disorderly conduct and rowdiness than at any previous Round-up in the past few years and this despite the fact that the number of special police was smaller. Chief of Police Manning's organization worked well and there was no friction within the police department. In all about 75 cases were docketed in police court during the Round-up and many other arrests were made. Most of the cases were plain drunks, a number were disorderly conduct, a few were for speeding, bootlegging, peddling without licenses and carrying concealed weapons. Besides the special police appointed by the council, there were about 29 officers from over the northwest here to assist the local officials. Among the number were E. B. Wood, "Dad" Hunter, W. W. Cowan and John P. Hanson of the O.-W. R. & N., Archie Leonard of the Portland detective service, Joe Keller, state parole officer, Joe Heinman and Overstreet of the Northern Pacific, U. S. Marshal John Montag and others.
