Stories From the War Zone

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD.
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, Sept. 28.—(By Mail.)—The "war brides" question is loaded with human interest.

Two weeks ago, in the United States, I heard American girls giving their impression of the "war brides" system. Since then I've talked to English girls about it.

"It's simply terrible," said one American girl. "If I understand it right, it is true that young English officers come home from the front, get married, stay home six or seven days and then go back to the front."

"Yes, that's the 'war brides' system."

"It's awful," repeated the New York girl. "I don't see how the English girls stand it."

"What makes it seem awful to an American girl?"

"Well, in the first place, here's a girl, unmarried and perhaps unengaged. Her life is going smoothly. Maybe she becomes engaged to the soldier while he's at the front. He comes home. They're married. They go back to the front again. Her husband has become her whole life, and there he is, under fire. It must be terrible."

"In the second place, suppose there's a baby. What kind of a baby can be born of a mother who is worrying during all the months that she ought to have peace of mind? It isn't fair to the baby who is coming. The mother has two terrible things to worry about, it seems to me. One is whether her husband will live. The other is whether the baby will be weakened and made inferior because of the fact that she is worrying. And, besides these two worries, it seems to me that an English bride would go insane."

"The American girl's side of it. Last night an English girl, who has two brothers at the front, listened to what the American girl has told me."

"There was a queer little smile on her face, as she began to grasp her American sister's viewpoint. Then she said:

"They don't understand. They never would unless they come to England or unless their own country was in war."

"In the first place an English girl is proud to do something for England, no matter how small. If her man is to die, she's proud of having given him."

"But she'd rather give England her husband than her sweetheart. And the baby is part of him; if he must go, there's the baby. England has lost one man but she has put another man or woman in his place; she has filled the gap in the fighting line. You know, English girls find something awfully thrilling in that idea."

"I love what the Scotch newspapers are doing. Over their birth columns they put the headline, 'More Soldiers for England.' You see an American girl can't understand how we feel because she doesn't understand what change war can make in a woman. You wait and see; you'll find that the babies of the 'war brides' will be the finest babies England ever had."

"Did you try to tell your American girl friends how English girls feel about it?" she asked.

"I did and they said that a man would always take the wrong side of the question."

"Of course they said that. They couldn't understand. But English women think just as English men do about it now. The war has changed the women. And American girls would feel just exactly as we do if they knew as much about war, as we do. In peace times women think of themselves too much. But war takes all the selfishness away."

NOTED ACTOR AND OPERA STAR ENGAGED

LOU TELLEGEN.

GERALDINE FARRAR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—In the theatrical district current rumors report the engagement of Lou Tellegen, the noted Greek-Dutch-French dramatic star and Geraldine Farrar, famous opera singer. Mr. Tellegen, who came to this country three years ago as the leading man for Sarah Bernhardt and has since been starring in English plays, met Miss Farrar in California this summer where both were working in moving picture studios.

Mr. Tellegen is one of the youngest stars on the stage, having recently passed his thirtieth birthday. It is the report of his engagement is true.

It will be the second time he has ventured in matrimony. He was married at the age of nineteen but shortly thereafter was divorced. He was born in Holland, the son of a Greek army officer and a Dutch danseuse. His real name is Telegatos. His early education was received in Holland and Germany but he later went to the famous Paris conservatoire, where he received the highest awards in acting and was selected by Mme. Bernhardt as her leading man.

Miss Farrar is an American girl, but has appeared in all the opera centers of the world. Her favorite and best known role is Carman.

May Not Recognize Carranza.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—The likelihood of American recognition of Carranza, as provisional president of Mexico lessened. A sharp turn of sentiment against him was evident. Unless events are more favorable for him before the next Pan-American conference, it is believed the conferees will hesitate to recognize him under the existing conditions. Attacks by men alleged to be Carranza soldiers against American troops in the Brownsville district is a big factor in the changed attitude. The war department has asked Funston to establish the fact whether Carranzistas participated, as claimed. If they did, sharp representations will follow.

Army Airmen Loop Loop.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Sept. 27.—Sergeant William Ocher and Corporal Albert Smith, attached to the United States army aviation corps at North Island, made 15 loops each while engaged in flights, shattering all army and navy aviation records.

Both officers used the same machine, as it is of the heavy army type designed solely for long distance flying, the feats of the two army aviators are considered remarkable in aviation circles.

RECIPES OF OUR PIONEER MOTHERS.

for the home treatment of disease were wonderfully dependable. True, they knew nothing of drugs, but owed their success to the roots, herbs and barks of the field. It is interesting to note that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the most successful remedy for female ills we have, was originally prepared for home use from one of these recipes. Its fame has now spread from shore to shore, and thousands of American women now well and strong claim they owe their health and happiness to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.—Adv.
