SOCIAL and PERSONAL

A delightful time was spent last evening at the home of Miss Lela Cole when several young ladies were entertained by Miss Claudine McMonies. A "mock" wedding was the feature of the evening, following which the guests adjourned to the Delta and partook of refreshments. Miss Jean Heber was the "bride" and Miss Catherine Thompson the "groom." The "bride" was Miss Thelma Thompson and the "best man" was Miss Jennie Murphy. Miss Esther Shea officiated as "minister" and Miss Vera Temple took the part of the "deserted lover." The "wedding" was proceeding with all due solemnity, the "bride and groom" marching down the aisle to the strains of a "wedding" march played by Miss Lela Cole, when the "deserted lover" entered and caused quite a disturbance by falling "on the groom's neck," according to one of the young lady's descriptions. The "bride" simulated a perfectly good "faint," while the "deserted lover" overcame by grief, had to be carried out by Miss Madeline Burgess and Miss Margaret Phelps.

Outside of this little interruption, the "wedding" was a huge success. The "bride" was dressed in a hand-embroidered gown of white material and wore English tan walking shoes. Her veil was a lace curtain which was caught up in a coil at the top and draped down the "bride's" shoulders. The "groom" wore a full-dress evening suit and a stucco hat, while the "bridesmaid" wore a white tulle coverlet with crepe de chine and a pair of party mittens. The "bride" carried a bouquet of nasturtiums, while the "bridesmaid" carried a beautiful cluster of eucaly and asters. As the "bride's" bouquet was thrown away, it was caught by Miss Daphne Swearingin. The guests of the occasion included the Misses Babe Shea, Madeline Burgess, Margaret Phelps, Claudine McMonies, Grace Host, Daphne Swearingin, Catherine Gregor, Olga La Fontaine and Vera Temple.

The gathering of the clans was held at the home of Thomas Robertson on Thursday evening and a charming Scotch dinner was served by Mrs. Robertson. HEADED FOR WESTERN CHAMPIONSHIP

W. J. JUNCOS

It has been some time since the University of Wisconsin has won a football championship, but the team this year under Coach W. P. Juncos, who a few years ago was one of the real gridiron stars, looks to have the championship caliber. So far the Wisconsin team has not lost a game. They defeated Lawrence, 52 to 0 and on the following Saturday ran up a score of 35 to 0 against Marquette. On October 17, against the Purdue eleven they scored 28 points to Purdue's 3 and last Saturday defeated Ohio State 21 to 0. Any eleven that can score 216 points in their opponents' 2 in four games, is a mighty hard football team to beat.

Wisconsin has yet to meet Minnesota and Chicago, both of which have strong teams this year, but Juncos has confidence in his team and believes that he will win the western championship this year.

Tacoma Trial Interest.
CENTRALIA, Wash., Nov. 6.—Subpoenas were served on the witnesses who will testify at the trial of M. E. Cue, a local publisher charged with first degree assault for the alleged throwing of a piece of linotype metal at the head of Joe Latta, a local attorney.

Mr. Cue will be tried in Tacoma, the case having been taken to the Pierce County superior court from Lewis county on a change of venue. The case is attracting much attention locally, owing to the prominence of the principals. Cue is a candidate for mayor at the coming municipal election.

Ford's Talk Foolish.
SAN DIEGO, Nov. 6.—Mayor E. C. Capps of San Diego, who is working on a patent machine gun which he declares will revolutionize warfare, came out with a hot talk on the "anti-preparedness" platform of Henry Ford, automobile manufacturer.

At the exposition Ford said that Belgium's plight illustrates the fallacy of preparedness.

Bears Tree Honey Hunter.
KANE, Pa., Nov. 6.—Chased up a tree by two bears, L. M. McCracken, who lives near Highland, Elk county, had a thrilling experience while trying to gather honey from a bee tree in the vicinity of Bear creek. He had no more than filled his pails when he heard a loud noise behind him and saw two large black bears coming down the hillside.

Being unarmed, McCracken ran to a tree near by and climbed rapidly to a high limb. There he peeped while the bear ate the honey, which he had placed in the pails, tore the trunk of the tree open and secured the remaining honey, the bears devoured all the honey, the bears scampered off into the forest and McCracken ended his hour's fight in the tree.
