THE MEN IN THE LINE.

"A Toast," by W. F. Barron

A tribute to the little men who bear the burden (as

is often the case in real life as well as in sport) but who get little of the glory; with regrets that author couldn't have

rhymed "line" with "grape juice" instead of "wine."

Oh, the fullback bows to the cheering crowd.

And the halves, and the quarter, too.

And the praise ascends to the plucky ends.

Who fight for the red or blue;

To none so great do I dedicate

This poor little verse of mine,

But here's to those in the fighting rows.

To the men who hold the

line!

You watch the game and you'll

all exclaim:

"Just look at that fellow

run!"

And you'll shout and roar

when the struggle's o'er

That the game was only won

By the fullback's pruck in that splendid buck

That carried him to the goal;

But you don't see fit to think

a bit

Of the man who made the hole.

Yes, the fullback has his meed

of thanks.

And the "quarter did it all,"

And the halves are praised, and a voice is raised

For the ends who took the ball.

Now take your cup and fill it up

To the brim with the dancing wine;

A toast to those in the fighting

rows:

To the men who hold the

line.

MUCH TO BE THANKFUL FOR

WHAT contrast between America today and on that first Thanksgiving holiday on the New England coast so many years ago. Then the continent was a wilderness and the handful of settlers had risked their lives and the lives of loved ones to establish a government where they might enjoy greater political and religious freedom.

Those were days of hardship and suffering.

The nation today, 100,000,000 strong is prosperous and peaceful. The crops were good this year and prices high; industry is thriving everywhere and the commercial situation is the best it has been in many years when fundamental points are considered.

Best of all the country is free from war and in line for continued peace, while the rest of the world is in a death grapple. There may be some reasons for anxiety and the preparedness policy is timely yet there has seldom been a time in the nation's history when the United States had more to be thankful for.

THE COURT RECORD TELLS THE STORY

THERE is no need for anyone to theorize as to what certain saloonmen will do after the first of the year—if they find the right official environment.

The records of the circuit court show in plain terms what those men did before when this was dry territory. Their names are upon the docket repeatedly for bootlegging and some of those men are lucky they did not go to jail.

The specious claim such men now stand sanctimoniously for the enforcement of the prohibition law went down the throats of the people of Pendleton. It is too coarse. Those men will do as they did before if they get their chance and people know it.

The question before the people of Pendleton is whether the bootlegging element shall have its choice as to who the next mayor of Pendleton will be. The warfare these men are waging against the Montgomery candidacy should be sufficient in itself to elect Mr. Montgomery.

WILSON AND BRYAN

WHILE here recently Congressman Hobson expressed the view the differences between the president and Mr. Bryan over the preparedness policy will cause the party no trouble in 1916. This theory is born out by a statement Mr. Bryan gave out on leaving Washington and which is reproduced in the last issue of the Commoner.

Mr. Bryan gave out the following interview as he was leaving Washington:

"I came to Washington two years ago last March at the invitation of the president because he thought I could render a service to the government. I was more than pleased with the opportunities offered and am satisfied that the work done in the state department, especially in the negotiation of treaties and in cultivating better relations with Latin America, will stand. I resigned only when I became convinced that the opportunities for service were larger outside of the cabinet. On nearly every question I found it possible to agree with the president, and in those matters it has given me pleasure to second his efforts. In the few instances in which we could not agree, I have stated my views with frankness, and am willing to risk the judgment of the party and the country.

"The republicans must not put the differences between the president and myself in the same class with the differences between Mr. Taft and Mr. Roosevelt. Mr. Taft and Mr. Roosevelt had personal differences which led to a division in the republican party. The differences between the president and myself are differences of principle and will not disturb the friendship between us. I rely upon my record during the last 25 years to prove my devotion to the democratic party and that devotion was never greater than today. My obligations to the party have constantly increased, and the six millions and a half of democrats who have three times voted for me will never have reason to doubt my loyalty to the principles which have made the democratic party a living force in politics for more than a century, and which, in spite of any mistakes it may make, will continue to make it the party of the common people and the champion of the rights of the masses."

FLASHES FROM THE WEEK

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 24.—Twenty-seven hundred dollars net profit from the acres of apples was made this year by G. N. Titus at his Nemaha county orchard this year, Nebraska Horticulture Secretary Duncan announced. The Nebraska apple crop is a bumper this year.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 24.—Two performances of the home talent minstrel show in which 70 convicts will take part, will be presented at the Ohio state penitentiary here tomorrow. One burglar used to be a circus strong man, will give his odd ring performance.

JUAREZ, Mexico, Nov. 24.—The Jockey Club Juarez track will open its gates tomorrow for the 1915-16 season. The track has been raised and improved. Special trainloads of racehorses from Kentucky and Maryland tracks have been arriving here for days.

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 24.—On the heels of Prof. Falk's recent prediction at the university here that the auto of the future would be run with a coal engine, comes William G. Miner of Fernbank, O., with a patent on just such an engine.

SUIT AGAINST SHIP ENDS.

Canadians Lose Case Against Company Owning Greek Vessel.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Federal Judge Hough dismissed suits in admiralty brought by James Carruthers & Co., Limited, a Canadian corporation, against Bowring & Co., and the Greek steamship Anthanasios, on the ground that it was advisable to decline jurisdiction for political reasons.

The suits were for damages for alleged breach of a charter of the steamship to carry coal from this country to Northern Italy. The breach of the charter, the complainants admitted, was due to the fact that the Greek government had requisitioned the steamer to carry wheat for the use of the Greek army.

"There is certainly no power in any court of the United States," Judge Hough said in dismissing the case, "to prevent or undo this act of the Greek king and his counsel. The restraint is actual and governmental."

Married Suitors Liable.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 25.—Judge Paul J. McCormick of the superior court, decided that a married man may be held financially liable for a promise to marry and rendered a judgment of $2000 in favor of Miss Fern Field, of Denver, against Verne Coates, son of a wealthy Long Beach family. Miss Field sued Coates, a married man, for $20,000.

Coates failed to respond, but the judge delayed judgment until he could satisfy himself that a married man could be held liable for a promise to wed another woman.

Self-Accuser Is Doubled.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—John Burke, who has almost convinced the police here that he murdered Franklin R. Voorhees, a war order broker, will be sent to a psychiatric hospital for two weeks' observation as a result of an examination by M. J. Purcell, city physician.

Burke puzzled Dr. Purcell as he has the police to whom he insists he murdered Voorhees, but Dr. Purcell finally decided Burke was of unsound mind and in need of institutional restraint.

Mann Will Meet President.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Minority Leader Mann of the house of representatives has accepted the president's invitation for a conference concerning the military preparedness program, at the White House next week. He announced that if the president asked his advice on the

"AL" DAVIS AND BRIDE DISOWNED BY MOTHER

"Al" Davis and his bride, the former Eugenia Kelly, photographed in the railroad station at Wilmington, Del., after their hasty marriage at Elkton, Md., by a Mormon preacher.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Mrs. Eugenia Kelly Davis and her husband "Al" Davis are back in New York living in a hotel after their marriage by a Mormon minister at Elkton, Md.

Mrs. Helen Kelly, mother of Eugenia, whose love for "Al" Davis has been the subject of much comment for the past few months, refused to grant her forgiveness.

"I do not want to see Eugenia," Mrs. Kelly said.

"I'm going to holla' up Davis if I ever find him. Not one penny of Eugenia's estate will she get if I have to spend every penny I have to prevent it."

Davis and Miss Kelly were married on Wednesday, the day the first Mrs. Davis was granted her divorce.

It's a word that means a great deal to many women.

Never heard of it?

Well, perhaps, you would if you had been a reader of newspaper advertising.

It is one of the words that signify a new note in Parisian millinery—a note that echoes the vital part women are taking in war's work.

Reading the advertising in a live newspaper like The East Oregonian is part of the day's education.
