Against Closing Law.

A card received by the Commercial association announces that initiative petitions are being sent here to abolish the Sunday closing law in the state and urges that they be circulated at once. As yet they have not been received by the local association. The petitions are being sent out by Dan Kellaher and A. R. McKinley of Portland.

Christmas Tree in Place.

The municipal Christmas tree is in place today at the intersection of Court and Main streets and strings of incandescent lights are being run through the branches today. The tree will probably be lighted this evening for the first time. Strong cables have been attached to it so that there is no danger of the wind upsetting it.

The Presbyterian Sunday school as well as those of the Methodist, Baptist and Christian churches will hold Christmas tree exercises on Thursday evening before Christmas. This arrangement is made so that there will be no conflict with the municipal exercises on Friday evening.

Married Bliss Was Brief.

Deserted just 17 days after he had become a bridegroom, according to his complaint, A. N. Parsons has brought suit in the circuit court for a divorce from his wife, Flora Parsons. The couple were married in Tennessee on March 4, 1911 and on March 21 plaintiff alleges that his wife without cause deserted him and has ever since lived separate and apart. Carter & Smythe are his attorneys.

Cut Thumb Off.

Ed Brown of 801 East Court street, an employe of the Pendleton Woolen Mills is wearing his left hand in a sling and will not be able to work for some time as a result of an accident the other morning. He was cutting kindling at his home when the sharp blade of the axe came down upon the thumb of the hand with which he was holding the block. Our "Place" in the Sun.

The current issue of the Pythian Advocate, published at Minneapolis devotes a page to a story regarding the visit to Pendleton of Supreme Chancellor Brig S. Young and tells how he was entertained here in true western style. The write-up has considerable about Pendleton and recites that our "place in the sun" is due to the Round-up and other progressive activities. The story is illustrated with a picture showing the stage coach in which the supreme chancellor was taken about the city.

Any Port in a Storm.

How would you like to wake in the night and find a strange man, and that man a drunken Indian, asleep on the bed at your feet? That is just the experience that befell a local woman and her daughter last night. They had gone to bed on a sleeping porch and sometime during the night awoke to find the form of a man stretched across the foot of the bed. The man was in a drunken sleep and the ladies lost so time in notifying the police. In court this morning he proved to be Tom Johnson, a local Indian who, under the influence of liquor, and searching for a place of shelter from the storm, had espied the sleeping porch. He was given a sentence of 30 or 12 days.
