MONDAY, DECEMBER 27, 1915.

A Message of Cheer.
Always having the welfare of the public at heart, the Weekly Bulldogger wishes to announce this week a new departure in the way of service. For the benefit of our suffering readers, we have opened a clearing house for Christmas cigars and neckties. We will receive all such embarrassing gifts, dispose of them to good advantage and without commotion and forever keep silent as to the transaction.

It May Take Time to Locate Them.
After the first of the year, if we are given proper inside information, we will furnish to the public a list of the "best collars" in Pendleton.

Depends on the Judge.
To the Weekly Bulldogger: Can you tell me who is ahead now in the Judge Fee-Judge Lowell correspondence Marathon?

Yours anxiously,
VOX POPULI.
We are unable to answer your query, Vox, but would give it as our opinion that when judges disagree the people will have to decide for themselves.—Editor.

Buff and His Little Lasso.
Major Lee Moorhouse says he has been watching the antics of Slim Jim for eight or fifteen years and has given up hope of ever seeing him captured. Therefore, he says, he is going to send Buff Vernon to the aid of the Grassville police force and see if he can't rope and hogtie Slim so that he won't ever stir again.

Some Stick.
There is a bunch of young bachelors who eat at the O'Garra home on 4th street and they induced their landlady to permit them to purchase and prepare the ingredients for a Christmas mince pie. One of them told his today it was the best pie he ever drank.

How About the Word "Hen"?
The members of the Kansas Poultry Association have placed a taboo on the word "chicken" and will hereafter refer to the denizens of their henneries as fowls or birds. They give no particular reason but we suspect that, inasmuch as the word "chicken" has lately achieved a new significance, they desire to rescue it from ambiguity. Henceforth we may know that when a sunflower rancher speaks about the chickens, his thoughts are drifting more to ruffs than barnyards.

Preparedness.
Max Manning, the young son of Chief of Police Alex Manning, had fifteen cents last week and he invested it in a Christmas tree. He carried it home and set it up. "You can't fool me with any of that Santa Claus stuff," he told his parents, "but I'm taking no chances."

He May Have to Smoke Hereafter.
Tobias Butler says he really intended swearing off smoking the first of the year but discovered he lacked a few thousand tobacco coupons of having enough to purchase an automobile.

A Dangerous Place to Shop.
We noticed in the Adams correspondence to the East Oregonian that a certain lady of that town was in Pendleton last week shopping between trains. We would like to remind her of the railroad company's oft-repeated slogan, "Safety First."

We'd Like to Pay Our Doctor Bill in Diamonds.
No one doubts the competency of Drs. Boyden when it comes to diagnosing diseases, but as appraisers of precious stones they would hardly pass the state examination. Though they can recognize a colon bacillus with the naked eye, they couldn't find a karat in a diamond with the Lick telescope. All of which made them easy victims of a Christmas joke. The wife of the senior doctor purchased for less than four bits a gold(?) ring in which was mounted a beautiful diamond(?) solitaire. In a very dainty package she presented it to her husband. The hand that can wield a scalpel without a quaver trembled as it untied the pretty ribbons. The eye that can discover a fatal malady without betraying the knowledge to the patient lighted with rapture at sight of the sparkle. The doctor held it up to the light and his delight was good to behold. He looked inside and saw the price, "$250," marked there-in and he gently scolded his wife for being so extravagant on him. Just then in came Dr. Guy and his brother showed him the gift. The Junior Boyden ran the scale of admiration from "ohs" to "ahs" and it is difficult to say just how far the deception would have gone had not the doctors discovered Mrs. Boyden convulsed with laughter.

Christmas Irony.
Poor father over on Jackson street received a Christmas present that had a terrific punch. It was from the city recorder and read: "The second installment on your street improvement assessment is now due."

He's Been Writing 25 Years.
Editor Bulldogger: Can you tell me whether John P. McManus ever wrote an editorial on a subject other than "The Tariff," "The Glory of G. O. P.," and "Democratic Hard Times"?

CONSTANT READER.
We are unable to state authoritatively. We have only been reading his writings for six years.—ED.

University and high school halls, hotel ball rooms, lodge halls, and even rooms in government buildings.
The announcement came somewhat as a surprise, as Callahan had not been mentioned as a candidate. Dreyfuss had been in communication with Manager Fred Clarke recently and it was thought that the latter was preparing to announce his come-back. Callahan is one of the most popular men in his ball, knows the game thoroughly and should be a worthy successor to the retiring boss of the Pirates.

NEW PIRATES-MANAGER

Other noted societies which will hold joint sessions with the anthropological section of the Pan-American Congress are the American Folk-Lore Society, the Archeological Institute of America, and the American Anthropological Association.

After the Congress, the Americanists are to make a two-weeks tour of the country, visiting the important museums in Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Chicago and St. Louis, where there are collections of particular interest to them, and the classical mound regions of Ohio, Illinois and Missouri. The trip will wind up with a visit to the Pueblo ruins and cliff dwellings of New Mexico as well as the living Indians of that region.

The American Association for the Advancement of Science, it has just been announced is to entertain the Pan-American Congress at a special meeting of its own on January 4 in Memorial Continental Hall, the beautiful national headquarters of the Daughters of the American Revolution, where the formal opening and closing ceremonies of the congress on Dec. 27 and Jan. 3, respectively, also will be held. A joint session with the international law section of the congress will be held by the American Society of International Law, of which Miles Root is president, and the American society for the Judicial Settlement of International Disputes, and the American Historical Association. Other organizations which will hold joint sessions with one or more of the nine general sections of the congress, are the American Economic Association, the American Civic Association, and the American Statistical Association.

The nine sections of the congress have been subdivided into forty-five sub-sections and their discussions will cover practically the entire range of human activities. The delegates from this country will number upward of 100, and from the 28 Latin American republics nearly 200, most of whom already have arrived and registered at the New Willard Hotel where two floors of rooms were reserved for them, and which will be the official headquarters of the congress, for the reason that the Pan American Union building, one of the show places of the capital, is not large enough to house all the affairs. With about 1,000 delegates and their wives and families, and about half as many members of the various associations to hold joint sessions with the Congress, Washington will be filled to overflowing with distinguished educators, scientists and publicists. Hardly a room can be had at any of the hotels, and, as for convention space, practically every square foot anywhere in the city has been taken in advance, the city or more meetings that will be going on simultaneously during the 13 days of the congress, necessitating the chartering of university and high school halls, hotel ball rooms, lodge halls, and even rooms in government buildings.

The announcement came somewhat as a surprise, as Callahan had not been mentioned as a candidate. Dreyfuss had been in communication with Manager Fred Clarke recently and it was thought that the latter was preparing to announce his come-back. Callahan is one of the most popular men in his ball, knows the game thoroughly and should be a worthy successor to the retiring boss of the Pirates.

FACE COVERED WITH PIMPLES ALL HER LIFE
But Miss Ayres Got a 'Beautiful Complexion' at a Cost of Only $2.00
Nov. 23, 1914:—"All my life my face was covered completely with a mass of pimples, blackheads and blotches. I spent a lot of money on numerous remedies and treatments without success and no relief at all. I tried so many things that I was afraid my case could not be cured. Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap seemed to do me good right from the first. I used two jars of Resinol Ointment and some Resinol Soap, the total cost being only $2.00, and this completely cured my case. My skin is without a blemish and I am the possessor of a beautiful complexion."
(Signed) Mabel Ayres, Stone Mountain, Va.
Every druggist sells Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment, and physicians have prescribed them for twenty years in the treatment of eczema and other tormenting skin troubles.

STONE AGE QUARRY NEAR THE WHITE HOUSE TO BE STUDIED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Among the 12 learned societies which are to hold joint sessions with the Second Pan-American Scientific Congress, opening here, is one composed of noted savants of nearly every civilized country of the world, who are all devoting their lives to the study of America with a view to obtaining new evidence that the western hemisphere is really older anthropologically than the so-called Old World. These men, comprising the International Congress of Americanists, after having met every two years since 1887 in nearly all of the great capitals of the world, are this year foregathering in Washington simply in order to carry on their discussions with the anthropological section of the Pan-American Congress.

Within three miles of the White House, in the neighborhood of which the sessions of the congress will be held, are the remains of a great quarry which it is said was worked by the prehistoric stone masons of America a long time before the pyramids of

ALRIGHT, THAT FELLOW CAN'T BE LEFT TO SUFFER—BY ME IN THE END AND BY ME MY FELLOW AS WELL—THE NEW CUT W-B CUT CHEW
THEY TAKE SOME OF THEM AND YOU'LL BE ALL RIGHT SOON

COME ups, come downs, the quality of W-B CUT Chewing—the Real Tobacco Chew, new cut, long stem, is always the same. Rich tobacco means less grinding, less spitting, a better chew, a longer chew—and a small chew takes the place of the big wad that men had to put up with in the ordinary kind. Get a pouch. Give it a quality test.

VISITORS AT ADAMS TO SPEND THE HOLIDAYS
(Special Correspondence)
ADAMS (Mrs. Dec. 27)—Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Liguori and daughter Stella and sons Frances and Paul were visiting at the home of Lawrence Liguori during the Christmas vacation.
Pat Geomeli of Heppner is visiting at the McIntire home during the Christmas vacation.
Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Norvell and little daughter, Margaret, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stecken.
Dan McIntire returned home from school in Heppner to spend the Christmas vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. McIntire.
Ben Simonton and family are in Adams to spend the day with his mother, Mrs. Simonton.
Mrs. Das Vaigro, who has been ill at her home for over a week, was are so often subject to headache—are languid, pale and nervous—because their blood is thin or insufficient. They are not really sick and hesitate to complain, but they lack that ambition and vivacity which is their birthright. They do not need drugs—but do need the tonic and nourishment in Scott's Emulsion that makes richer blood, fills hollow cheeks, suppresses nervousness and establishes strength. Nourishment alone makes blood and Scott's Emulsion is the essence of concentrated nourishment, free from wines, alcohols or opiates.

OUR YOUNG WOMEN
If mother or daughter is frail, pale or nervous, give her Scott's for one month and see the betterment. It has a wholesome, "nutty" flavor. Avoid substitutes. At any drug store.
