"What, Zeke?"
"Why, that Automatic Washing Machine in the Pacific Power & Light Company's windows. The blamed thing turns round and round and the machine turns round and round, and there is the sweetest little puss you ever set eyes on washing just like an old woman, side him sets his sail—just doing nothing, but I think she ought to for it seems to be her washing hung out to dry. Shooks, Mandy, I can't tell you half about it. You go look, then if you want the thing—why just call on Zeke."—Adv.

WHAT THE PENDLETON PICTURE THEATRES HAVE TO TELL YOU ABOUT PRESENT AND COMING PHOTO PLAYS

"SWEET ALYSSUM"
Charles Major's Appealing Story of the Oil Fields.
In five stirring reels, Edith Johnson, as the matured "Sweet Alyssum," and Tyrone Power as Roscoe Brooks, tip the heartstrings of their spectators and blur the eyes, in a simple little drama that might be taken bodily out of any average home. That is why the play, adapted from Charles Major's widely read novel "Sweet Alyssum," makes such an appeal—it deals with elements which are all a part and parcel of our own lives.
In the play there is a lady—a delicious, fair-haired, curly-locked, dimpled little creature, whose tiny arms always find just the right place around "Daddy's" neck. This is "Sweet Alyssum" before she is grown up.
Splendid acting, it has stirring red-blooded scenes, thrilling exploits, but above all of these, are its notes of tenderness. Showing at The Pastime Sunday and Monday.

In which the greater part of the action transpires, and provides Miss Frederick with a role in which she far eclipses her previous record of achievement as the foremost emotional artist of the screen.
In addition to the above production two big time vaudeville acts.

LILLIAN GISH STARS
IN "LILY AND ROSE"
Charming Young Actress Plays an Appealing Part in New Triangle Play.
There are some intensely tragic moments in the new Triangle play, "The Lily and the Rose," which will come to the Temple theater tomorrow. However, this intensity is enthralling and is saved from being excessive by a lightening of the perspective in the end. Lillian Gish stars as the Lily and her portrayal is convincing as the young, burly soldier girl brought up apart from the rude, hairy burly world. Wilfred Lucas is the husband who has been a man about town prior to his marriage and who becomes tired of matrimonial bonds and seeks solace in the exciting society of a daring stage dancer, Rozsika Dolly.
Miss Gish is effective in displaying the gradual maturing of the young girl into a woman who sees the intense passion that drives her husband to neglect her and fix his attention on the shallow natured dancer. She becomes gradually reconciled to her role of discarded wife when her baby comes, and she lavishes upon it all the affection that otherwise her husband might have claimed.
Miss Dolly exhibits the opposite of Miss Gish. She is the Rose, whose bold and loud charms appeal to the rather coarse grained man of the world as shown by Lucas. The secret of solution when the part of screen is played with the ability and charm displayed by Miss Dolly, though she is faithful to the idea of superficiality and errancy of heart that characterizes the past. Her dancing on the stage is a real and picturesque.

BIG SUNDAY PROGRAM
AT THE ALTA THEATRE
Pauline Frederick Will be Seen in "Bella Donna."
As a novel and play, "Bella Donna" created one of the greatest sensations of the present literary and dramatic epoch. As a photoplay it will undoubtedly be recorded as one of the most powerful emotional dramas ever presented on the screen. In the famous role of the alluring and treacherous Bella Donna, whose soul contains all the passion of the orient and whose impulses are as exotic as the Nile itself, Pauline Frederick has suggested a creature of rare imagination and unusual power. Beautiful and cruel, irresistible and pitiless, she plays with life and love until the inevitable moment of reckoning arrives when, spurred and outcast, she passes out into the black night, across the grim desert, into the nowhere.
The Famous Playhouse Film Company's impressive photo-production of this celebrated literary and dramatic masterpiece faithfully illustrates the oriental splendor of atmosphere and the mystic environment in which the greater part of the action transpires, and provides Miss Frederick with a role in which she far eclipses her previous record of achievement as the foremost emotional artist of the screen.

In addition to the above production two big time vaudeville acts.
